Halloween Damage At Minimum

Homemade bombs shook the night in Novato, a plank was tossed through a car windshield injuring the driver and his passenger in Sleepy Hollow and scores of windows were shattered by Halloween Vandals last night.

But police officers and sheriff's deputies throughout the county all said it could have been worse.

Increased sheriff department and police patrols, combined with organized Halloween parties, were credited with keeping damage in the county to a minimum.

Two homemade bombs were exploded in Novato. There was no report of damage.

A Molotov cocktail bomb, consisting of gasoline in a bottle, was exploded outside the home of Leonard McCormick at 1384 Joyce Street at 1 a.m. A powder bomb was set off near 2184 Novato Boulevard at 9:42 a.m., Dorothy Samios reported to police.

An 8x10-foot plate glass window, valued at $240, was broken in a building under construction at the Novato Fair Shopping Center. Windshields in cars belonging to Winford L. Sample of the 41st Air Rescue Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base and Paul Scheller of 861 Pine Street were broken, Novato police reported.

Teenagers who gathered on Grant Avenue, Novato, spent most of their energy throwing eggs, tomatoes and other assorted produce at each other. The street was a mess this morning.

In Corte Madera, firecrackers were set off in the 400 block of Oakdale Avenue and a bag of refuse was set on fire on the porch of a home in the Madera Gardens Tracts.

A prankster threw either a firecracker or lighted match into the bedroom window of Edward Hayden at 326 Robin Road in Tamalpais Valley, causing $150 damage to the bedding and bed.

Thomas White of 235 Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, reported to police at 8:05 p.m. that a water-filled balloon had broken a window in his house.

WHERE FUN BEGAN—Tug of war on Corte Madera Creek yesterday afternoon ended in a soaking for all of the College of Marin contestants involved. They had so much fun that they decided to throw some spectators in the creek. Sheriff's deputies had to be called to keep things in hand. (Photo by Dennis Untermann)

COLLEGE TUG OF WAR TURNS INTO A BRAWL

Several carloads of sheriff's deputies and police quelled a College of Marin brawl that spilled out onto public streets and nearly got out of hand yesterday noon.

Deputy Sheriff William Johansen, patrolling College Avenue near the campus, spotted about 350 students milling around to watch the annual freshman-sophomore tug of war across Corte Madera Creek.

Eggs and mud clods came flying toward pedestrians and passing cars. As Johansen radioed for help, his patrol car was pelted with eggs and mud.

The free-for-all that followed the tug of war found many men students and a half dozen coeds being tossed into the creek, fully dressed.

The tug of war was part of the college celebration of Homecoming Week, which will culminate in the big game tomorrow with Napa Junior College.

The egg throwing and mud slinging was "the wildest thing I have ever seen," said one college student.

"It was great fun," said another coed, although she was one of the victims of the creek dunking.

College of Marin students made two raids on the campus of the Napa Junior College this week, Dennis Patterson, director of student activities, reported today.

Monday night someone removed a foot-long letter "N" from the gold college sign on the campus and ran a College of Marin banner up the campus flagpole.

Last night pranksters made footworks with whitewash on the porch of the activities building and left signs around the area advertising tomorrow night's football game between the two junior colleges in Kentfield.

REPORT ON TOUR

Russian Food? Just A Nibble

(Editor's note: This is the ninth of a series of interviews with Marinites who visited the USSR with the Marin Executive Delegation.)

By HARRY CRAFT

Restaurant food in Moscow is passable, according to Hector Rubini, but only the "big shots" can afford to order it.

Rubini, co-owner of San Rafael Joe's, was among the Marinites who went to Russia, but his visit was cut short by an itinerary pre-planned to take him to his native Italy, which he had not seen for 24 years. Consequently his stay in the USSR was limited to four and one-half days in the city of the commissars — time enough, however, to make some observations on the food and how it is served in public.

Actually there are no "restaurants" in Moscow, he said, unless you are willing to concede that hotel dining rooms and snack bars on the street "where you stand up and can be served what looks like a sandwich of lean, salt pork" fall into that category.

"Pork was also the main meat dish at the hotels," he related. "Generally it was served with sour cream. The principal vegetables were plenty of cabbage and cucumbers. We had a salad of sliced tomatoes and lettuce but the tomatoes were not what we have here."

He remembers that the coffee was strong, as is the custom in many European countries. There was a good black bread and a fair type of French bread, and the pastries were excellent. Otherwise he found

Anonymous Vet Pays Back Exemption Money

A conscience-stricken Mill Valley property owner today paid, through his attorney, William O. Weissich, $538.35 which he saved in taxes over the past five years under his veterans' exemption claim.

Weissich, who turned the money over to District Attorney Roger P. Garety in cash, said he could not divulge his client's identity. He was given a receipt for it, but he pointed out that the money will have to go into the general fund and cannot be credited to his client's tax record.

Weissich said his client believes "he was not legally entitled" to the veterans' exemption. The Marin County grand jury recently disclosed that a sampling of exemption claims showed a heavy percentage were fraudulent.

D.A. Seeking Life Sentence For Murderer

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety will recommend life imprisonment, not the death penalty, for Claude Hilton Bradley, 22, who strangled a San Rafael mother to death last June 3.

A court hearing was scheduled for this afternoon before Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. to discuss the penalty for the husky truck driver, who was found guilty this week of first degree murder.

"After carefully considering all aspects of the case, the background of the defendant, circumstances surrounding the offense, and his emotional state, I feel that this is not a proper case for the death penalty," said Garety.

"The crime was a heinous one, but other matters have to be taken into consideration. I trust that the Adult Authority will bear in mind in considering parole that Mr. Bradley is impulsive and dangerous."

The district attorney said the fact that this was not a premediated crime was taken into consideration.

If the district attorney's recommendation for life imprisonment is accepted by the judge and the defendant, there would be no need for the trial jurors to be called back to decide the penalty.

Bradley, a San Rafael truck driver, strangled Mrs. Carole Frederick, 29, in her apartment at 45 Woodland Avenue while her three children slept.

Cuba Blockade Resumed After Thant Visit Fails

Air Checks Over Island Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Navy ships resumed their arms blockade of Cuba at daybreak today and air surveillance was ordered renewed after Fidel Castro evidently refused to agree to U.N. inspection of Soviet missile withdrawals.

Washington officials probably will want to verify with aerial photos a report by U Thant, acting secretary-general, that all Soviet missiles would be taken down by tomorrow and removed from Cuba soon afterward. Thant said he was reliably informed of this yesterday in Havana.

The blockade, suspended during two days of evidently fruitless negotiations between Thant and Fidel Castro, was to go back into force at dawn. Its assignment, as before, is to keep additional offensive weapons out of Cuba.

The White House announced this last night after President John F. Kennedy had reviewed the situation with his top level National Security Council.

PHOTO PLANES

Pierre Salinger, presidential press secretary, said U.S. photo reconnaissance planes would go back into action "in the absence of effective U.N. arrangements" with Castro for supervising the missile base dismantling.

Salinger left vague just when surveillance will start again after the two-day break. Apparently this was intended to avoid tipping off Cuban antiaircraft batteries which fired on unarmed U.S. reconnaisance planes last weekend.

The United States has acknowledged losing one plane over Cuba and Thant said after arriving in New York last night that the Cuban government, at his request, had agreed to return the body of its pilot, Air Force Maj. Rudolf Anderson Jr., 35, of Greenville, S.C.

MAY PROD FIDEL

Reimposition of the blockade may serve to prod Castro. His foot-dragging on U.N. inspection has injected a note of uncertainty in proceedings which had seemed to be moving smoothly.

The turn of events in Havana may have prompted Kennedy to call off a news conference, originally set for today, until the situation is clarified.

The Defense Department rushed to its nearly 2.7 million service people at home and abroad a 28-page pamphlet designed to give them ammunition to answer critical ques-

RUSS MISSILE REPORTEDLY HIT U.S. U-2

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Miami News said today a Soviet-fired antiaircraft rocket shot down a United States U-2 airplane 70,000 feet above the Escambray Mountain area of Cuba on Saturday.

The pilot, Maj. Rudolf Anderson Jr., 35, of Greenville, S.C., was killed.

The newspaper said the rocket was an advanced version of the Soviet SA-2 missile, fired from one of an estimated 25 surface-to-air sites operating in Cuba.

The SA-2 was described as similar to the U.S. Nike Hercules missile.

Denies Castro Ired By Nikita

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Acting Secretary General Thant plunged into new diplomatic talks today to salvage his failure to establish a U.N. presence in Cuba and the security council was alerted for a probable crisis meeting early next week.

Ambassador Mahmoud Riad of the United Arab Republic, this month's council president, said after a 40-minute meeting with Thant that the 11-nation body probably would meet on the Cuban question early next week. But he said "further negotiations" were necessary before the stage was ready for a new council meeting.

Thant denied that his talks with Castro in Havana were unpleasant.

A U.N. spokesman issued a statement denying reports that Castro had denounced Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev and had received Thant coldly.

The statement, authorized by Thant, said:

"A press statement emanating from Washington to the effect that Premier Fidel Castro, in a bitter tirade at his meeting with U Thant accused Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khruchev of having 'sold him down the river' is absolutely unfounded.

"The spokesman emphatically denied that U Thant had reported that he had a most unpleasant trip to Cuba.

"In fact, he reiterated what the acting secretary general had said already that his visit to Cuba had been fruitful and that the discussions had been conducted in a cordial manner."

Tempo of the talks quickened with this afternoon's arrival of First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, top Soviet

MEDICAL SOCIETY HEAD BACKS WEDEN

The president of the Marin Medical Society today entered the civil defense controversy with a plea for a "first things first" approach in defense and disaster planning.

Dr. Joseph J. Arons generally supported a spirited reply yesterday by Dr. Elmer A. Weden Jr., former civil defense committee member, to criticisms leveled this week by Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Board of Supervisors and director of civil defense.

Doctor Arons said the medical society will cooperate in any civil defense planning, but urged that the county concentrate on "more realistic nonwartime disaster planning."

Doctor Arons also called attention to a report submitted by the Marin County Disaster and Defense Council to the supervisors on May 29, 1962, and which Dr. Weden indicated had received no board action.

The "difference of opinion" over civil defense planning has created "an unfavorable impression that a shortage of emergency medical planning exists," said Dr. Arons.

"This, however, is fortunately not the case," he said. "The board of directors of the Marin Medical Society in May of this year approved and forwarded a recommendation to the Board of Supervisors that planning for non-military disasters should take precedence over formal civil defense planning."

The quarantine on mussels, normally imposed from May 31 through Oct. 31, has been extended until further notice by the state health officer, Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, Marin County health officer, said today.

The order was issued due to the "continuing high toxicity of mussels collected from coastal waters," said Dr. Albrecht. It applies specifically to human consumption of mussels, but also warns against eating anything except the white meat of clams, the dark part should be thrown away. Dr. Albrecht added that the prohibition should also apply to feeding shellfish to pets.

The quarantine applies to mussels and clams taken anywhere on the Pacific shoreline, San Francisco Bay or any other bays between the Oregon and Mexican borders.

SALINGER ANNOUNCES BLOCKADE RESUMPTION

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced yesterday that the naval arms quarantine of Cuba was to be resumed at daybreak today. Soviet Satellites Appear Straddling Fence On Cuba

By GENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Apathy among the Soviet satellite regimes in Eastern Europe apparently was a factor in Premier Nikita Khrushchev's agreement to ship his missiles home from Cuba.

Many diplomats think Poland's Communist government for example, straddled the fence as much as it dared during last week's crisis.

There wasn't even a "hands off Cuba" demonstration outside the American Embassy in Warsaw such as occurred before the embassies in Moscow, London, Copenhagen, Tokyo and Prague.

U.S. diplomatic notes about the arms quarantine were fired back by the Kremlin. Similar notes got only polite oral rebuttals here.

Many a Pole privately abhorred the idea that the Soviet Union might fight over Cuba. "If there is war over Cuba, I have two requests of America," a Polish writer told this reporter. "First, don't use nuclear weapons. Second, win it."

Despite the sustained propaganda buildup, Castro and his bearded cohorts are not regarded as comrades in arms by many East Europeans.

About one-third of Poland's trade is with the West, and the country exchanges mail with perhaps eight million people of Polish stock in America and Western Europe. These are ties local Communist leaders cannot ignore when they consider a showdown over such a remote place as Cuba.

Polish Communist party chief Wladislaw Gomulka is thought to have considerable influence with Khrushchev. Presumably he counseled caution on Cuba.

Many Polish officials have indicated they had no advance knowledge of Soviet missiles in Cuba. The secret buildup is now being interpreted in two ways.

Some are surprised and dismayed that the Soviets would risk peace with such a step. Those who think more in terms of strategy feel Khrushchev made a smart move that may pay off for him by prolonging the life of the Castro regime.

They reason that completing the Cuban installations must have been a maximum objective which Khrushchev had little hope of achieving. So by yielding at the brink of war, the Soviet Union, they say, has a good chance to save Castro from what looked to the Communists like a threatened U.S. invasion.

These Polish Communists consider President John F. Kennedy's statement that Cuba will not be invaded a distinct gain. They want it backed up with a guarantee of Cuban sovereignty.

Troops Dig In For Stay At Key West

KEY WEST (AP) — American troops strung barbed wire barricades along a portion of the Key West shore facing Havana 90 miles away and appeared today to be digging in for an extended stay.

Military installations, rushed here during the Cuban crisis, were at the alert, while patroling by armed planes continued around the clock.

Machine-gun emplacements on the beach, behind the barbed wire, were piled with sandbags.

However, a flight up the Florida Keys—the chain of coral and sand islands stretching from the Florida mainland in the general direction of Havana—revealed no military preparations there.

There were no guards on the pipeline whcih carries water down the keys, or on the island-hopping highway.

No military installations were visible from the air north of the Key West area, where portable radar units and anti-aircraft missiles guarded by soldiers in sandbagged foxholes, have been dug in.

The airstrip at Marathon, about midway up the keys, appeared almost deserted, in contrast to the Boca Chica Naval Air Station near here, where the sun glints off rows of fighter jets rushed here for the emergency.

News 'Weaponry' Held As Threat

MIAMI (UPI) — The president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors said yesterday the Defense Department's present policy of using newspapers and major wire services for cold war propaganda "poses a dangerous threat to the American public." (See editorial, page 30.)

Lee Hills, executive editor of the Miami Herald and other Knight newspapers, made the protest in a telegram to Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

The telegram was in reply to an official statement by Sylvester that "news flowing from actions taken by government is part of the weaponry" in the Cuban crisis.

Copies were sent to President John F. Kennedy and the wire services.

The telegram said:

"Your statement that 'news flowing from actions taken by government is part of the weaponry' in the Cuban crisis comes as deep shock to responsible newspaper editors. Having only recently returned from the Soviet Union where controlled news is standard Kremlin policy, I feel strongly that any manipulation of the news in free societies imperils the right of the people to be fully informed under our Democratic processes.

"Your view that the 'results justify methods' and that such a policy will continue as a propaganda weapon of government poses a dangerous threat to the American public which cannot make independent judgment without accurate information.

"The press has demonstrated its willingness and ability to cooperate and protect national security, but it must not be used as an implement to mislead the public."

The telegram did not draw comment from Sylvester, a reporter of 37 years experience himself.

Sylvester said in Washington he would withhold comment on the telegram for the present, but added he had no intention of trying to manage or stop the flow of news in a "normal situation."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Three Die In Halloween Traffic

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—Three boys, out for Halloween's traditional trick-or-treat, were killed by automobiles in the Muskegon area last night.

Two brothers—Judson York, 11, and Alvin, 7, were struck by a car one mile from their Muskegon township home. They were dead on arrival at Huckley Hospital.

The driver, Earl Roomsburg, 27, of Muskegon, said the boys were walking along the side of the road when they suddenly turned into the path of his car. Roomsburg swerved, but his right fender struck the boys. He was released after making a statement to police.

David Vaughn, 8, of suburban Fruitport Township was struck and killed by a car while he was out celebrating Halloween with his twin brother and a sister.

N.Y. News Struck

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily News — largest circulation newspaper in the country — was struck and shut down by the New York Newspaper Guild today.

Mediation efforts, including one by the mayor of New York, proved fruitless and the strike threatened to spread to the other six major dailies in this city of eight million.

The Guild, finding itself in a deadlock over wages with all of the publishers, has vowed to strike each of the newspapers, one by one if no settlement is reached, and it picked the News as its first target.

The Guild sought a general 10 per cent wage increase, and a weekly top minimum wage of $200.

Mrs. FDR's Condition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was reported still in serious condition today, but a family spokesman said "she is better than holding her own."

The 78-year-old widow of President Franklin D. Roosevelt has been ill since Sept. 26 when she was hospitalized with a lung infection and anemia. She was released from the hospital Oct. 11 and has been confined to her apartment.

Cable Indictments

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Four of six big aluminum conductor cable manufacturers indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of price fixing have vigorously denied the accusations.

The six firms, suppliers of 90 per cent of the aluminum conductor cable sold in the United States, were charged with conspiring to fix prices in violation of the antitrust laws between June, 1958, and August, 1960.

Denials came from the Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh; Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., New York; Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Sales Inc., Oakland and Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., New York.

Also indicted yesterday were the General Cable Corp., Perth Amboy, N.J., and Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond, Va.

Pay Boost Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The California State Employes Assn., contending the salaries of its members are 2.4 per cent behind private business, today asked for a five per cent pay raise for state workers next year.

The proposal was made to the State Personnel Board, which makes recommendations on state employes' salaries to the governor each year.

Conference Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy canceled the news conference he had scheduled for today. The White House said the conference would be rescheduled when the Cuban situation is "clarified."

Three Die In Fire

MORGAN HILL (AP) — Three persons, including two children, burned to death in a fiery car-truck collision last night.

Their bodies were charred so badly that hours after the accident on U.S. 101 four miles north of here the children remained unidentified.

The operator of the auto was identified as Jesse Caudillo, 38, Santa Clara.

Operator of the truck, Donald B. Stockton, 50, South San Francisco, was not hurt.

Star's Kin Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Griffin, 78, father of actress Debra Paget, died Tuesday of a heart ailment.

Fireball Flashes In Atom Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — A fireball flashed across the Pacific today as the United States set off its fourth high-altitude nuclear device in eight attempts above tiny Johnston Island.

A brilliant series of rainbow colors, visible here 750 miles from the test area, lighted the skies for almost a minute before blending into the darkness.

The fireball wasn't expected to be visible here and observers were surprised by the sudden brilliance of the sky. The flash of last Friday's blast was barely visible through the clouds.

The device, sent aloft an estimated 30 to 40 miles last night by a Thor booster, packed a nuclear punch in the submegaton range, equivalent to between 20,000 and a million tons of TNT.

Joint Task Force 8 officials had held up the shot for nearly four hours because of apparent technical difficulties.

Four earlier attempts to detonate nuclear devices above Johnston fizzled because of malfunctions in the Thor missile tracking system.

Another high-altitude, low-yield test is planned for Saturday, possibly the concluding shot in the current test series that began last April 25.

Automobile Heir Kidnapers Given 20 Years In Solitary Confinement

VERSAILLES, France (UPI) — Two men who kidnaped 4-year-old automobile heir Eric Peugot for $100,000 ransom in 1960 were sentenced last night to 20 years in solitary confinement.

The sentence of "criminal reclusion," pronounced by Judge Pierre Jacquinot, is the most severe permissible under French law. It was imposed on Pierre Larcher, 39, and Raymond Rolland, 26, who also were sentenced to work at hard labor during their imprisonment.

The verdict climaxed a three-day trial in which both men confessed to full details of how they kidnaped Eric from the sandlot of St. Cloud Golf Course west of Paris April 12, 1960.

They also told how they collected a $100,000 ransom from the boy's father and spent most of it in a year of riotous living.

The kidnapers freed Eric on a downtown Paris street 56 hours after the kidnaping.

They were not arrested until March, 1961, when police tracked them to the luxury ski resort of Megeve where they were celebrating with their girl friends.

The sentence came after prosecutor Henri Toubas told the jury:

"Twenty years criminal reclusion, that is the maximum penalty. It is also the maximum indulgence because we do not want this crime which is virtually unknown in France to be repeated.

"I have spoken in the name of all the mothers and fathers of France. Do not let them down."

Defense lawyers Jean-Louis Tixier Vignancourt and Rene Floriot pleaded in vain for indulgence for the two kidnapers at the summing-up.

Architect Aaron Green was asked to recommend the kind of tree.

Alcoholism Costs $1 Billion Every Year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Members of the San Francisco Commercial Club were told yesterday that alcoholism is a "respectable disease" which costs an estimated billion dollars a year.

Speaking at a seminar on alcoholism in business and industry, R. Brinkley Smithers, president of the National Council on Alcoholism, emphasized that industry could save money by persuading victims of alcoholism—who include many top executives—to submit to treatment.

Such a program has been initiated in many industries including Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Allis-Chalmers, and Consolidated Edison.

Smithers said where such programs are in effect recovery runs from 50 to 65 per cent, whereas among the general public the recovery is only about 10 per cent.

"Among businessmen, victims are found chiefly among men who work irregular hours under heavy pressure," Smithers said.

Judge Gerald Levin, moderator of the seminar, noted, however, that the San Francisco council had had success in encouraging alcoholic housewives to report to its clinic at Presbyterian Medical Center.

Painter Denies Attack Charge

A 42-year-old Fairfax sign painter, accused of raping an 85-year-old Kentfield woman last Saturday, denied the charge yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

John Henry Bopp Jr., of 67 Spruce Road, Fairfax, appeared with his attorney, Thomas E. Schaal, before Judge Joseph G. Wilson. The judge set 11 a.m. next Monday as the time for a preliminary hearing.

Bopp is being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $10,500 bail.

Disc Jockey Colvig Sued For Divorce

Sausalito disc jockey Robert Colvig, 46, who drew headlines in December of last year when a San Francisco model stabbed her newborn baby and dumped it into his garbage can, is being sued for divorce in Marin Superior Court.

Pamela B. Colvig, 25, a free lance writer and former House of Charm model, filed for divorce today through her attorney, Jerome Berg of San Francisco. She had previously filed for divorce, but at the time of the baby death incident, she went back to him and "stood by him all the way," attorney Berg said.

She alleges that Colvig is earning $1,000 a month. She seeks reasonable alimony and community property including household furnishings and a 1958 vehicle.

They were married in Virginia City, Nev., in 1955 and separated last month. She is now staying in a motel in Marin.

The disc jockey was called in for questioning after a baby was found in his garbage can at 121 South Street, Sausalito, on Dec. 22, 1961. San Francisco model Antoinette (Toni) Wahlen, 24, later admitted she had delivered her own baby and dumped it in the garbage can.

Colvig was cleared of any connection with the baby's death.

Since the medical society adopted this position, Dr. Arons said, its disaster committee, headed by Dr. Weden, has been "extremely active" in preparing a realistic program for the county along non-war disaster lines.

The society has a continuing program of emergency care training for fire, law enforcement and ambulance personnel, said Dr. Arons.

The point of view of the committee and of the society was expressed in a report from the Marin Disaster and Civil Defense Council to the Board of Supervisors on May 29 of this year," said Dr. Arons. "We are not aware if any action has been taken on this report."

Dr. Weden said today that he knew of no board action on the council report, and that the board had never called the council together again.

Dr. Weden said he wanted to clarify his feelings and purpose in resigning from the committee. He said he did so without bitterness, and that he even telephoned Castro in advance to read the resignation letter and assure him that he was not resigning in anger.

Paying the money through an attorney, Weissich said, is the only way that anyone could remain anonymous, since an attorney cannot be forced to violate a confidence.

Marin City Resident Beaten Up

A Marin City resident complained he was beaten up by a gang of youths after a minor auto accident last night.

Harry Langland of 15 Cole Drive said a dozen youths followed him into his apartment and mobbed him, injuring him in the elbow and hitting him on the nose. Langland swung a rifle to defend himself.

He named one of the assailants as James Cooper, 20, of 89 Cole Drive. Cooper told Sheriff's Deputies James L. Current and George Reuss that Langland had backed a truck into his (Cooper's) 1952 hardtop. Cooper said Langland refused to dicsuss the damages with him. Therefore, Cooper followed Langland to the apartment.

According to Cooper, Langland came out swinging a rifle and hit him over the shoulder.

Someone broke Langland's living room window from the outside while the scuffle was going on inside.

Langland's wife and 19-year-old daughter came to his aid during the fight.

tions about U.S. policy on Cuba.

Sounding much like a "white paper," the pamphlet said the Soviets tried to upset the strategic balance of power by sneaking missiles into Cuba.

"The U.S. course of action was required to show the USRR that the U.S. means business," said the pamphlet entitled "Cuba Questions and Answers."

One effect of the Cuban crisis, it was learned yesterday, was a complete freeze on all licensing of American goods for shipment to Communist countries.

East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht flew unexpectedly to Moscow tonight, apparently for key talks with Khrushchev on Berlin and Cuba.

Richardson Says Rafferty Ducked Talk

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Ralph Richardson, candidate for state superintendent of public education, today charged that his opponent, Max Rafferty, had ducked a television debate commitment.

Richardson said he had agreed July 12 to the debate, which was scheduled for last night over station KQED's "Candidates and Issues" program.

According to Richardson, Rafferty objected to the makeup of the panel of newsmen who were to question the candidates.

Richardson says two concessions regarding the panel were granted to Rafferty, who then "flatly refused to appear."

"I can only say that his fear of this forum must mean he is also afraid to deal with facts, with reporters, and with me."

Death Probe Is Planned By Coroner

A coroner's investigation is to be made to determine the cause of death of Mrs. Kathryn L. Barrett, who died this morning at her Mill Valley home.

Firemen were called at 6:25 a.m. to the Barrett home at 6 Dawn Place and administered resuscitation to Mrs. Barrett for 20 minutes, until Dr. John C. Lee pronounced Mrs. Barrett dead.

She was 38, the wife of Charles Barrett, a Marin newspaper dealer. She was born in San Francisco and lived her entire life in Calilfornia. Surviving her, besides her husband, are five children, Arthur, Dayna, Bonnie, Peter and Diane.

The body is at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Frank J. Keaton is to conduct the coroner's inquest.

THANT

trouble-shooter, en route to Cuba.

It was expected that Mikoyan and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov would see Thant late today.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was scheduled to see the U.N. chief at 3 p.m.

Riad, who saw Thant with Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, the other "non-aligned" member of the security council, said the acting secretary general was "still optimistic about settling the immediate problem"—removal of Soviet missile bases from Cuba.

Although Thant failed to gain Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's assent for a U.N. observer corps to watch the removal of the missiles and war bases, he said on his return last night from two-day talks in Havana he had been "reliably informed" dismantling of the bases would be completed by tomorrow.

Riad said he believed "the situation will become clear within the next few days."

Immediately after seeing Riad and Quaison-Sackey, Thant received Carlos Lechuga, then new Cuban ambassador, for a 15-minute ceremony of presenting the envoy's credentials.

The Upper Green River basin of western Wyoming has long been famous as habitat for sage grouse.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

One drunken driver drew a jail term and two others were fined and put on probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Sidney Carl Treacy, 42, who said he is from Nevada, must pay $276 fine and spend five days in jail. Treacy was arrested for driving while intoxicated at Mission Avenue and B Street in San Rafael Monday. He had a prior conviction in Marin in June of 1960.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson sentenced two others for their first offenses.

Newton Caldwell, 59, of 8 Geary Avenue, Kentfield, must pay $166 fine and remain on six months prorbation. He was arrested on Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur last Oct. 22.

Mrs. Margaret Nelson Kjos, 41, of 101 Melrose Avenue, Mill Valley, drew $105 fine and one year probation. She was arrested on Bridgeway in Sausalito May 5.

DAMAGE

Journal bureau at 42 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera.

Police departments confiscated dozens of eggs and other vegetables and fruits from youths before they had a chance to throw them. There were reports of candy being taken away from small children and water being squirted.

Sausalito police reported that one egg had hit the front window of the police station.

In the unincorporated areas, two youths were jailed and a young couple hurt by flying glass.

Sheriff's deputies and police, who raced from trouble spot to trouble spot dispersing pranksters most of the night, reported "it could have been worse."

In Loma Verde, two boys who fired eggs and other missiles at pedestrians, homes and passing cars, were booked on suspicion of malicious mischief. They are Gary Loyd Amos, 18, of 87 Eagle Drive, Novato, and David Jack Zahniser, 18, of 110 Fairway Drive, Novato.

Sheriff's Deputies William Johansen and Carl Mead said eggs and other objects came flying toward their patrol car as they cruised down Alameda de la Loma about 10:30 last night. They caught the youths hiding in tall grass on a hill south of Alameda de la Loma.

In Sleepy Hollow, vandals in a pickup truck tossed a two-by-four board against a passing car, smashing the windshield and splattering the occupants with glass about 9:30 last night.

John Wallace, 17, of 348 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, and passenger Judy L. Mulder of 130 Crane Drive, Sleepy Hollow, were cut about the face when the board smashed the windshield. They were treated at Marin General Hospital and released.

A flying rock knocked out two windows at the Marin City Cleaners in House C-64 about 8 p.m. William Harris was working in the back room when he heard the windows break. By the time he ran out, the culprits were gone.

Greenbrae, Marinwood and parts of Kent Woodlands were also littered with eggs, tomatoes, water bombs and rocks.

Homecoming Queen Is Just Devine

Mikel Devine, 19, a brunette freshman coed from Petaluma, is the College of Marin homecoming queen.

The contestant sponsored by the engineers club was elected by students yesterday.

She was to receive her crown at ceremonies today at a rally in Olney Hall after a pep rally in the same hall beginning at noon.

Due to present the crown was college Vice President Paul Clymer, serving in the absence of Dr. Stephen E. Epler, president, now attending the California Junior College Assn. conference in Fresno.

Runners up in the queen contest, all freshmen, were named princesses.

They are Sue Jacobs, 17, of Mill Valley, sponsored by the Atheniums; Irene Lunding, 18, of San Rafael, International Relations Club; Jean Shekel, 17, of San Rafael, Block M Club, and Darby Stevens of San Rafael, Associated Women Students.

7th, 8th Grade Problems Discussion Set Nov. 14

A symposium by four speakers on seventh and eighth grade problems will be conducted in San Clemente School in Corte Madera Nov. 14.

The meeting, open to all interested parents, will be sponsored by the parent-teacher associations of the four Larkspur School District schools. It will begin at 8 p.m. in the multi-use room, said Mrs. Jay Simon, president of the San Clemente P-TA

The symposium was prompted by a dispute of a proposed consolidation of all seventh and eighth grade classes in one building. Trustees hope the discussion will bring out enough public opinion to help them make a decision.

Mrs. Simon, who will be chairman, outlined this schedule as arranged by Mrs. W. W. Nichols, Neil Cummins School P-TA program chairman:

Six Scouts of Corte Madera Troop 14, under Scoutmaster J. H. Sutherland, will serve as a color guard and present the flag. One Scout to be designated later will lead the pledge of allegiance.

Mrs. Simon will introduce Mrs. Robert Troppmann, San Clemente P-TA program chairman. Mrs. Troppmann will introduce the remaining P-TA presidents and program chairmen and the four school principals.

Mrs. Troppmann then will turn the meeting over to the symposium moderator, Roy Davis of Corte Madera. He will introduce the following, who will each speak 10 minutes:

1. Douglas Lindauer, Henry C. Hall teacher, who will report on recommendations made by seventh and eighth grade teachers and by principals of the district that all seventh and eighth grades be combined in one building.

2. HANLAN THARP, principal of Davidson Intermediate School, San Rafael, who will speak on the topic "What are Seventh and Eighth Graders Like?"

3. H. C. Stephenson of Larkspur, chairman of a citizens committee that studied seventh and eighth grade problems in the district.

4. William G. Thompson of Madera Gardens, who will summarize views of parents who oppose combining the grades in one building.

After all the speakers have finished, members of the audience may submit questions. The questions will be written and then delivered by Scouts to a screening committee before being answered.

P-TA leaders have been planning the symposium since last summer after school trustees delayed action on proposed changes because of opposition by many parents to combining the seventh and eighth grades in a single location.

School trustees chairman Pauline Secor has said the board will not make any decision before January when it will consider personnel for the 1963-64 school year—so no change could be made before next September.

However, the trustees will hold a special meeting Nov. 20 to discuss the problem anew in the light of the sentiments expressed at the P-TA symposium, Mrs. Secor said.

Vote Campaigner To Be On Video

Teddy Smith, chairman of a campaign carried on by 75 senior girls at Marin Catholic High School aimed at getting out the vote, will be a guest on Lee Noble's Community Circle program at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on television station KRON-TV (Channel 4).

Miss Smith will tell about the "Object: Vote" campaign which has urged Marin County residents to obtain the views of all candidates and then vote.

The group will offer baby sitting service and will run a car pool for the convenience of voters from 3:30 p.m. to the closing of the polls on Tuesday.

Educator Says Colleges Should Broaden Field Of Agency Links

FRESNO (AP)—A Southern California educator warns the link between the college and the community should not be restricted to agencies which might fit an administrator's definition of "safe and respectable."

Dr. John Lombardi, president of Los Angeles State College, told the California Junior College Assn. last night:

"There is always the possibility students may select a community group or project that will embarrass the college. But this is a calculated risk that must be taken.

"There are agencies which we may find troublesome and we may wish to avoid them."

Among them he named labor unions in some communities, the American Civil Liberties Union, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Muslim Society, the John Birch Society, Americans for Democratic Action, and the political parties.

Lombardi said a college must involve all lawful community agencies in campus life if students are to be convinced of the school's sincerity in this area.

Small Arsenal Found On Ole Miss Campus

SOLDIERS BAR STUDENT — U.S. Army military police force an unidentified student back into his room in Lester Hall at the University of Mississippi. A search of the men's dormitory last night unearthed a small arsenal. Earlier, an MP was wounded by a firecracker apparently tossed from a window of the building. (AP Wirephoto)

OXFORD, Miss.—A surprise Halloween night search by combat-ready soldiers unearthed a small arsenal in a men's dormitory at the University of Mississippi.

University officials vowed swift disciplinary action against students involved.

The sudden action followed the wounding of a military policeman by a firecracker, apparently tossed from a window of Lester Hall—adjoining Baxter Hall where James H. Meredith is housed.

Meredith, 29, begins his second month of classes today as the first Negro ever knowingly admitted to the 114-year-old university. He studied in relative silence last night. There were no firecracker barrages like those which disrupted the campus the previous two nights.

University officials cooperated in the dormitory search. Student Affairs Dean L. L. Love commented: "We just can't have things like that going on here. That soldier could have been seriously hurt."

The search turned up at least one dismantled M-1 rifle, a dismantled pistol, several tear gas grenades, a full five-gallon can of gasoline and several noisy firecrackers known as cherry bombs.

Neither university nor Justice Department officials would detail the weapons found in the search.

The soldiers turned over to university officials the student identification cards of at least a half dozen persons. But no one would disclose the exact number or the specific charges.

Under university procedures, a student is considered under arrest when his ID card is confiscated and must face action of the Student Judicial Council. asked students to disperse.

Explosive feelings on the campus this week have been As the bayonet-wielding MPs withdrew their cordon around Lester Hall, Mississippi highway patrolmen and police from Clarksdale, 60 miles away, arrived on campus. The university, moving rapidly after deputy U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach flew here for talks about mounting tension, asked for the reinforcements to boost campus security forces.

Just before Meredith went to the campus dining room for supper, the soldiers encircled Lester Hall, blocking all entrances.

More than 100 male students quickly gathered outside, shouting at the boys temporarily imprisoned inside.

Dean Love and other key officials arrived quickly and attributed in some parts to the usual feverishness preceding the Ole Miss-Louisiana State University football game. The two teams, bitter rivals more than a half century, meet Saturday night at Baton Rouge, La.

Alcatraz Warden Aide Transferred

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Associate Warden Arthur M. Dollison will be transferred from Alcatraz to a minimum security prison at Seagoville, Tex., Dec. 1.

Dollison, a 32-year veteran in the federal penal system, was acting warden last June when three southern bank robbers broke out of Alcatraz in a daring escape from the prison.

Whereabouts of the escapers, Frank Lee Morris and brothers John and Clarence Anglin, are unknown but prison officials list them officially as drowned.

Dollison will be succeeded by Richard J. Williard, associate warden of Terminal Island Penitentiary in Los Angeles harbor.

DERAILED FREIGHT TRAIN BURNS

A fire which started in oil cars of a wrecked Illinois Central train near Newton, Ill., yesterday spread to 33 freight cars following derailment. The intense heat caused evacuation of two nearby farm houses. No injuries were reported. (AP Wirephoto)

Sheriff Group Wants Island For Clubhouse

The Marin Sheriff's Deputies Assn. wants to build a clubhouse-gymnasium and police training center on a 200-acre island in Nicasio Lake.

However, the use of the island ofr that purpose is highly unlikely, according to William Seeger, manager of the Marin Municipal Water District.

"That island is a valuable piece of property and we've had quite a few offers for it," said Seeger. "We've told them (sheriff's deputies association) that the island is out. However, we will look around to see if there is any other property available."

Dennis Shine, president of the Marin Sheriff's Assn., and Kenneth Irving, committee member, appeared before the water district board yesterday afternoon to present their plan and ask for use of the island.

In addition to the clubhouse and gymnasium for use of law enforcement officers, the association plans to install pistol and rifle ranges that would be open to the public.

"We could hire a rangemaster and, in times of stress, have him teach the public the use of firearms," said Shine. "At present there is no range in the county which is open to the public. This site would be ideal for the use of such groups as the junior rifle teams."

Shine said the Marin Sheriff's Assn. and all other police departments in the county would be able to use the gymnasium for training. It would also be available for civilian defense purposes, he pointed out.

Mayors Told Smog Can Become Worse

Smog in Marin may not be a terrific problem yet, but it can become steadily worse if smog throughout the Bay Area is not curbed, members of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen were told last night.

Benjamin Linsky, control officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, spoke to 34 mayors, councilmen and fire chiefs at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax. He said a district officer, Paul Brand, is now assigned to Marin and urged fire chiefs to seek the district's assistance with any air pollution problems.

Incinerator burning is the major pollution of air in Marin, Linsky said, and the district must eventually find a way to control such burning in the entire Bay Area.

"If it were not for the strict controls now in effect in Los Angeles County," Linsky said, "Los Angeles would be a disaster area. They have controlled 'stationary' causes such as smoke from dumps, incinerators and factories. But now 70 per cent of their smog is from autos."

The Bay Area's problem is just the reverse at this time, Linsky added. About 70 per cent of the smog is from stationary sources and the remainder is from cars.

Linsky made these comments on smog control also:

Light dust from San Jose can reach Marin in 20 hours if sun and wind conditions are appropriate.

The coastal hills of the Bay Area make it a worse smog potential than the Los Angeles area, where smog is blown away at night.

By about 1968, all cars in California should have exhaust control devices.

A kind of fog, similar to smog, was observed as early as 1912 in the San Francisco area from Mount Tamalpais.

Supervisor William Gnoss, Marin County member of the pollution control district, said the county spends $20,000 a year for the district.

Fairfax Mayor W. E. Radtke presided at the meeting, and the council adjourned until Nov. 28 when the San Anselmo City Council will be host at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

Forces Rivalry Blamed For Space Money Loss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Space Committee says friction between the Army and Air Force partly explains why the nation has very little to show for the 170 million dollars on the military's Advent communications project.

"If the Advent program is not a good example of interservice rivalry, it is certainly a poor example of effective interservice cooperation," the committee said in its report Wednesday.

Advent was conceived in 1958 as a worldwide jam-proof military communications system.

As originally planned, Advent would have used a 1,000-pound satellite placed into a tricky orbit by the Centaur rocket—then on the drawing board. But, the report said, the satellite's weight grew to 1,300 pounds as it developed. The Centaur, far behind schedule, seemed less and less capable of handling such a payload.

Now, the idea is to develop a new 500-pound package for an interim system using an Atlas-Agena rocket.

"The original estimates of the total costs of the Advent research and development program reportedly were 140 million dollars," the committee said. "By the time the project was canceled, well over 170 million dollars had been spent, much of which has been written off as an unrecoverable loss."

Man, Girl Hurt In Cycle Crash

A San Francisco man and a Santa Rosa girl were hurt last night when a motorcycle skidded from under them and threw them onto a Sausalito connector road.

David A. Freiberg, 24, a railroad rate clerk, was riding north and had just turned off Highway 101 onto the connector leading to Bridgeway, when the accident occurred at 9:10 p.m. With him riding a pillion seat was Patricia Frances Stadelhofer, 20.

Both were taken by Sausalito Fire Department ambulance to Marin General Hospital. Freiberg was treated for cuts on the face and head, and Miss Stadelhofer for multiple scratches of arms, legs, face and abdomen.

SOME MARIN WATER RATES GOING UP

Water rates for customers of the Marin Municipal Water District went up today about 10 per cent, but the customers won't see the difference until they receive their bills in December.

District Secretary B. J. Brusatori explained that it is "impossible to make a distinction" for billing purposes between water sold in October and water sold starting today.

So the higher rate won't be applied until the first meter readings taken this month. These will be billed in December.

Water District Calls For Bids

Bids were called for yesterday by the Marin Municipal Water District board for 30,000 feet of asbestos-cement pipe of various sizes to be used in routine line extension and replacement work, said B. J. Brusatori, district secretary.

The board met yesterday afternoon at the district offices. The pipe bids will be opened Nov. 14.

In other business the board awarded a contract to Roberts and Brune of San Carlos for 500 miscellaneous asbestos-cement pipe fittings.

Satellite's Lights To Blink Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The blinking beacons on the United States' new "Firefly" satellie will be triggered for the first time Saturday night, officials report.

The flashing of the four high-intensity xenon gas lights will signal the beginning of a program which officials hope will lead to more accurate determination of the size and shape of the earth, location of its center of gravity and distances between far apart places.

The satellite, named Anna, was rocketed into orbit yesterday from Cape Canaveral. Project spokesmen reported all systems were functioning well and that precise determination of the vehicle's path was being made before the lights are winked for the first time.

Exact time and place for Saturday's initial flashes will be determined by the Applied Physics Laboratory, Johns Hopkins University, where the satellite was developed. Laboratory scientists will send a radio signal to activate the lights.

The beacons will be activated at night when the sky is clear so that telescopic cameras will be able to photograph them against a background of known stars. The flashes should be visible to anyone through binoculars and the Defense Department said it hoped to release the flash times in advance.

HERE'S WHAT NOVATO POOL BONDS WOULD BUILD

This architect's drawing shows the proposed three swimming pools in relation to the buildings at Novato High School. Novato residents will vote Tuesday on a $100,000 bond issue to build the pools, probably on the high school property. Here the locker and shower rooms of the boys and girls gymnasiums would be used for the pool. A parade Saturday afternoon will boost the pool bond campaign. Wayne Womack, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Pool Bonds, says that a committee is carrying on the phone campaign to get out a favorable vote. Reid, Rockwell, Banwell and Tarics, school architects for Novato Unified School District, made the drawing for the pool committee, Womack stated.

Sticky Stuff Cleared Away In Corte Madera

The contractor completing a drainage interceptor and reconstructing Harbor Drive at Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, has pumped out 20 gallons of seal coat accidently spilled in the area several days ago.

Town Mgr. Arthur M. Brandow said the oily substance was cleared away by the E. A. Forde Co. of Corte Madera yesterday.

The sticky stuff had filled gutters and was being tracked over a wide area, including into homes, and caused the town to delay sending a progress payment of $16,614 to the contractor, Brandow said.

Check for the amount was written late yesterday but is being withheld pending next Monday night's town meeting because the firm is still behind in its work, Brandow said.

The council will determine whether to go ahead with a threat to penalize the Forde Co. $50 for each day it is late.

The firm was granted a seven-day extension—to Oct. 21—at the Oct. 15 council meeting. The firm had asked 30 days.

The contractor thus was 11 days beyond that extension today, with "about two days of concrete patching" needed to be done to complete the work.

Brandow said the council might retroactively grant Forde a further extension. Penalties voted by councils in such matters rarely are enforced, Brandow said.

The work being done by Forde is costing the town $39,240—nearly 10 per cent of the town's fiscal budget of $419,660. The firm already has received one payment of $12,000, Brandow said.

In another phase of Corte Madera improvements, lawn seed has been planted in the town park being constructed along Tamalpais Drive and it soon will be watered. "It should be green in about two weeks," Brandow said.

Russian Food! Just A Nibble

little to appeal to the gourmet palate.

"The service was poor," he said, "and I understand this is partly because the waiters and waitresses are not supposed to take tips. If that is true, then I made them sin every time I ate—and they sinned with pleasure!

"When we dined together as a group and they understood who we were, we got better attention; but if we went to another hotel alone or in twos and threes, there wasn't any service, period."

Rubini inspected the kitchen in the Metropole Hotel and while the equipment was comparatively new, "in style it was 40 or 50 years out of date."

"But I can't honestly say the Russians are not good cooks—it's just that they do not have the variety of food," he reported.

Beef is scarce. At a food store where he examined the meat offered to the public, he was disappointed in what he saw. "It looked worse than our utility beef," he commented. "For the first time in my life I couldn't tell the grade and if it came from a cow or a steer. The Russians have a different way of cutting it—and that didn't help."

Meal prices at the hotels he did not find excessive—for an American. Breakfasts came to about $1, lunches $1.50, dinners from $2.50 to $3—out of reach, however, of a Russian whose income may be anywhere from $50 to $90 a month, according to Rubini. He was struck by the number of Africans and Indians who were hotel visitors.

In the evening an orchestra played Amercian jazz and there were teen-agers trying to do our dance steps.

"Their daddies must have been big shots," he opined. "There is as much class distinction there as anywhere else in the world."

Surprisingly enough he discovered that the hotels served exceptionally good champagne—made in Southern Russia, he was told.

"There are only two bars in Moscow—at the American Embassy and at the British Embassy. You can order champagne, wines, vodka and a type of brandy served with your meals, and there is a retail counter at the hotels—but I could never buy a bottle of vodka there. And no American whiskey. Bourbon is outlawed."

He said the regular water "didn't taste good" so he avoided it, substituting mineral water.

Rubini had no Russian counterpart in the restaurant business with whom to compare notes, so he teamed up with members of the group on inspection tours and struck up conservations with visitors from other countries when there was no language barrier.

A women's apparel shop he described as "like Bianco's Garage when it's used for a rummage sale. And the women paw over the goods the same way."

He made the acquaintance of an Italian clothing representative who was selling overcoats to the (Russian government) stores at $19 to $29. "But those same overcoats were resold in their stores at $200 to $250," he reported.

Rubini returned home 10 days after the other Marin travelers. He left Moscow before them but stopped in Belgium and toured through parts of Italy by car.

"There was all the difference in the world between the people in these places and those in Russia. And West Berlin is almost like an American city. Moscow was depressing," he concluded.

THEY SAW THROUGH THIS VOTE

CHICAGO (AP) — Striding briskly into the City Hall Election Board office, an unidentified woman stopped in front of a demonstration voting machine yesterday and took off her coat.

"Are you," a helpful employee asked, "a judge of election?"

"No," said the woman.

"Well," the employee said, "this machine is for the instruction of election judges."

"Oh," the woman said, putting her coat back on, "I just wanted my chest X-rayed."

Rafferty Against Teachers Striking

Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction candidate who spoke in Corte Madera Tuesday night, opposes strikes by teachers and sanctions against school districts by teacher organizations.

The Independent-Journal inadvertently and incorrectly said yesterday he approves such actions.

School Candidates' Aides Battle

Free information versus indoctrination of fundamentals is the major issue in the campaign for state superintendent of public instruction, spokesmen for the two candidates said today on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speaking for Max Rafferty, Ray Haas of San Rafael, chairman of the Marin County Parents for Rafferty Committee, said his candidate would "put a stop to the extreme progressive education methods used in California schools" and would "return to the material of our cultural heritage, taking the best of classical education and the best of progressive education."

Richard L. Foster of Greenbrae, former superintendent of Marin County Schools and now superintendent of Jefferson School District in Daly City, represented Ralph Richardson. He said so-called progressive education was not being used in California schools, and said Richardson would encourage "free, open information in the schools while relying on a fundamental program."

Richardson would develop a "sound curriculum from history and geography to art and home economics and yet let students reason and think," Foster said. "Rafferty, on the other hand, wants indoctrination."

Haas compared Rafferty's "indoctrination" with the condition of "two healthy teenagers who are physiologically ready to marry but not emotionally mature. . .

"Rafferty would not bother them with the subtle ramifications of the Spanish-American War but would teach them to love their country," Haas said.

Haas said Richardson's endorsement by the California Teachers' Assn. was "not representative of the true feelings of teachers because it was the vote of one-fifth of 1 per cent of the association."

Foster answered that the endorsement was the result of "a democratic poll" and that Richardson also had the endorsement of several other groups of teachers and school administrators. "The teachers who served under Rafferty in his own district favor Richardson 3-to-1," Foster added.

In answer to a question from a radio listener, Haas said Rafferty had rejected any help from "super-nationalist" organizations who allegedly endorsed him. "As far as the John Birch Society is concerned," said Haas, "I understand it is a secret society, so I have no way of knowing whether he gets their support."

Haas said a vote for Richardson is urged by the Marin County Democratic Committee. "So I guess we know where he stands," he said.

A difference in the philosophy of the two men is indicated, Foster said, by the "fact that Richardson is against Proposition 24, and Rafferty has indicated he will vote for it."

Haas said Rafferty's only comment about the controversial anti-Communist Francis Amendment was " 'I haven't looked at it, I might vote for it."

The discussion, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be re-broadcast by tape recording Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

$45 Theft Reported

Theft of $45, contained in a cigar box on top of a dresser, was reported to San Rafael police last night by Gertrude D. Powers, manager of the Lincoln Hotel, 805 Fourth Street, San Rafael. She said the money was taken from her room between 5:45 and 5:55 p.m. yesterday.

Clausen-Miller Survey Ends

Price Hall of San Rafael, campaign manager for Republican congressional candidate Don Clausen, said the postcard poll conducted by the Napa Register was closer than indicated in an Associated Press report yesterday.

The report yesterday said that the late Clem Miller, the incumbent killed in an Oct. 7 plane crash, led by 59 to 41 per cent.

Hall said that the poll was concluded today with 242 of the 300 cards returned. It showed 123 for Miller and 119 for Clausen.

School Football Star Expelled For Marrying

GRAY, Ga. (AP) — A lot of folks in this small middle Georgia town are fighting mad because the school board expelled the county high school's star halfback because he got married.

Frank Childs, Jones County School Board chairman, told a special public meeting last night the board felt it best to expel all married students because "females who get in a family way in school are not a very good influence on the other children." He noted the marriage ban first went into effect in 1960.

While Childs was on his feet, Mrs. J. R. Cochran, who has a child in school, jumped up and snapped:

"You've had your say. Now sit down and let me have mine. If Castro were doing something like this I could understand it."

She accused the board of discriminating against the football star, Johnny Arnold, 18, a senior, and other married students, Johnny's wife, 15, a sophomore, also was expelled.

Arnold's mother, Frances Arnold, said she and Johnny's father are separated. She works, Mrs. Arnold said.

"If Johnny doesn't win a scholarship on his athletic ability, I guess he won't get a college education," she said. "We cannot afford to send him to college on our own."

The board refused to budge from the action it took two weeks ago after learning of the halfback's marriage. But it said it would consider at next Tuesday's regular meeting several proposals put forth last night.

One was that the marriage ban should apply only to girls because as family breadwinner a boy's education is more important. Another was that married boys should be allowed to continue classes but be barred from athletics and other non-classroom activities.

Young Arnold sat through most of the meeting gnawing at his fingernails. He told newsmen he had hoped to be reinstated so he could play in tomorrow night's game with a Macon school because a University of Alabama scout was supposed to be there to consider him for a scholarship. He said Florida State University also had indicated it might offer a scholarship.

Gray, a town of about 2,000, is about 80 miles southwest of Atlanta.

Signal Lights Bids Expected

Bids are expected to be asked about the end of November for installation of two signal lights in the eastern part of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, according to county public works director Donald R. Frost.

One will be at the Eliseo Drive intersection, the other at the Bon Air Road intersection.

Frost said underground equipment for these signals is already in place.

The pedestrian overpass at Wolfe Grade and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard probably will be completed early in December, Frost said.

Mothers Warned Against Drugs In Early Pregnancy

CHICAGO (AP)—A California obstetrician told a national assembly of baby doctors today that expectant mothers should take no drugs during the first three months of pregnancy unless essential to the preservation of their health.

"We do not know and we may never learn how many drugs currently in use may affect embryonic development in a small percentage of cases," Dr. Ernest W. Page of San Francisco told the American Academy of Pediatrics.

He cited recent findings that many instances of baby deformities in Europe have been linked with the expectant mother's taking thalidomide, a sedative, in the first three months of pregnancy.

Dr. Page is chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of California School of Medicine.

'Emergency Center' Found Lacking Some Essentials

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR
Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The "emergency communications center for the governor," which Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced earlier this week had been established as part of the state's civil defense program, was to be ready for an organized press tour today.

Governor Brown, on his return from a briefing in Washington lasts weekend, assured California the state's civil defense setup was second to none. Among the six major accomplishments of the program he listed was the establishment of the emergency communications center for use by the governor and the disaster control board, in time of emergency.

The two rooms in the basement of the public works building in Sacramento designated as the "nerve center" for state communications in event of a disaster looked somewhat less than that when inspected by Capitol News Service yesterday.

This reporter was informed once that the public was not allowed to see the rooms. Later, a photographer was denied permission by Col. Harold W. Webster of the California disaster office to take a picture of the nerve center. Permission later was granted by Bradford M. Crittenden, commissioner of the California Highway Patrol, who heads the public safety agency which includes civil defense.

The nerve center included five short-wave radios in one room. Two were set on cardboard cartons, one was on the floor and two more were on desks that had been moved into the room. In the second room was one inoperative teletype machine. A sergeant from the air national guard was making some installations.

One workman on the scene said the work of assembling and moving the equipment into the emergency center had not commenced until the afternoon of Oct. 26, the same day Brown was flying to Washington for his briefing on the Cuban crisis. First work on the rooms, sealing the windows off with concrete, had been done nearly a year ago.

One spokesman in the communications division of the department of finance said it had been "an all fouled-up deal."

"It was a big rush thing, you know," he said. "They were slinging paint around one place and another."

The governor's office said there were other rooms to the center, including living quarters, and much of the work on these had not started until last Friday. But it was hoped all would be in readiness for the press tour scheduled for today. The tour was to be conducted by Crittenden.

Gaining information on the communications center was a difficult proposition to begin with, with the reporter passed along from one man to another. It finally developed that the two men in the communications division of the department of finance who were most concerned with the communications center were Dellver Seastrom and Marvin Karman.

Both men were on vacation yesterday.

The short-wave radio units in the governor's emergency operating center were plugged into the fluorescent light fixtures overhead. Officials of the department of finance said auxiliary power equipment had been purchased for the nerve center recently but was not yet installed.

Meanwhile, Allan K. Jonas, director of the California disaster office, issued a press release answering charges of Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for governor, that the civil defense setup in California was not ready.

"Our state is prepared to use every available resource to protect Californians from the effects of nuclear war or natural disaster," Jonas said. "Assistant Secretary of Defense Steuart Pittman told Governor Brown in Washington last weekend that California is 'unexcelled' among the states in disaster preparedness.

"Thisi s the second time in the past few months that Mr. Nixon has made ill-advised statements about civil defense," Jonas said. "His first statement about the disaster office contained inaccuracies which were pointed out by many newspapers in the state. The facts were not correct."

CRISIS BUYING SPREE REVERSES—$$ NEEDED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television stations that covered the wave of panic buying here early in the Cuban crisis could almost bring their film up to date today by running it backwards.

Some housewives who went on a buying binge a week ago, fearing a food shortage might develop in event of war, apparently have run into a shortage of an equally important commodity—money.

Having spent too much of it last week, some of them decided Wednesday to go shopping in reverse. They were showing up at their markets with armloads of groceries and, in some cases, leaving with money.

Market owners said there were many pleas for refunds or credit. Whether the shoppers got either depended on the individual market.

Trading stamps complicated the issue. Many hoarding housewives, even in the face of possible nuclear disaster, carefully pasted their stamps in their books.

Now the question of how to unstick a stuck stamp has them stumped.

UNICEF Fund Drive Report Due Wednesday

Area chairmen will report on funds collected for the UNICEF Trick or Treat drive held in Marin County last night at a 10 a.m. meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Dore Schwab of Winding Way, Ross.

Mrs. Schwab, chairman for drive sponsored by the Marin chapter of the American Assn. for the United Nations, said final figures would be totaled at that time. "I am sure we have done far better than last year," Mrs. Schwab said today.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, right, and his Marin County Campaign Chairman Fred F. Enemark discuss the steady development of Marin County.

The steady growth of Marin and Sonoma Counties has increased the problems of land use, transportation, recreation and water supply to name a few. The dedication to the office shown by Bill Bagley in his first term in the Legislature and his knowledgeable representation of the Assembly District have been appreciated and acknowledged by the support from business, labor, agriculture and conservationists for his re-election to this important office.

Russ Physicist, Two British Chemists Get Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1962 Nobel Prize for physics was awarded today to Soviet scientist Lev Davidovic Landau, whose probes into the mysteries of the universe helped pave the way for the Soviet sputniks.

The 1962 prize for chemistry went to two scientists at Cambridge, England, whose work unfolded secrets in the human blood. Dr. John Cowdery Kendrew and Dr. Max Ferdinand Perutz share the $49,656 prize for their studies of globular proteins.

Landau, 54, is one of the few Jews to attain a high place in Soviet science. He was awarded the $49,656 physics prize for "his pioneering theories for condensed matter, especially liquid helium."

Landau's research was halted Jan. 7 by an automobile accident. His car skidded on ice and crashed in Dubno, 75 miles from Moscow. He lapsed into a coma and was still unconscious in March when a Canadian neurosurgeon, Dr. Wilder Penfield, flew to Moscow to join French, Czech and Soviet specialists working to bring him around. Landau is reported making progress but there are doubts in Moscow he ever will recover fully.

Kendrew and Perutz have worked together at the newly started laboratory of molecular biology at Cambridge since the beginning of this year.

The structure determinations of large protein molecules for which the prize has now been awarded were made at the Cavendish laboratory at Cambridge with the aid of X-ray diffraction, a photographic optical method which became available through the discoveries of German Nobel Prizewinner Max von Laue.

Kendrew, born in Oxford 45 years ago, came to Cambridge in 1947. Perutz, born in Vienna, Austria in 1914, left the university there in 1936 to settle in Cambridge, where he has engaged in research on hemoglobin since 1937.

BEE CASUALTY

Girl Gets Stung With Own Story

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A bee sting caused three hours of agony and a bit of irony in the life of a 19-year-old Birmingham girl.

Becky Chancey, record librarian for a radio-television station, was returning from lunch yesterday when she slapped at a bee in her automobile. The bee retaliated with a sting. Her car ran off the road and plunged 75 feet down a slope.

Three hours later she had crawled almost to the roadside before a boy on a motorcycle heard her cries for help. She suffered a cracked back disc.

And her station's news department was scooped on her story. The boy who found her works for a rival television station.

All's Quiet On India Front

Minor Red Mortar Fire Reported

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—An ominous quiet settled over the fighting fronts today in India's undeclared border war with Communist China.

An official spokesman reported there was no change in the situation in Ladakh in the northwest. He reported only some minor Chinese mortar firing on Indian patrols in the North East Frontier Agency (NEFA) area of Jang in the northeast. Jang is about four miles east of Towang, an important monastery town which fell to the Reds more than a week ago.

The spokesman said there were no Indian casualties from the mortar fire.

He reported, however, that India suffered 10 killed and 10 wounded in fighting near Damchok in southern Ladakh before the Indians withdrew Oct. 29.

"Chinese casualties were considerably higher," the spokesman said without giving any figures.

This report was in sharp contrast to the figure of 2,000 to 2,500 dead and wounded which India previously was reported to have suffered in the first 10 days of fighting that started Oct. 20.

Meanwhile, the Indian government thanked the United States for offering military supplies and said that further requests would be placed as the need arises.

"We are grateful for United States sympathy and support and for their offer to help us in procurement of supplies required for our defense," a spokesman said. "Our immediate requirements of defense and other essential supplies have been communicated to the government of the U.S.A. through the U.S. ambassador in Delhi and our ambassador in Washington."

The United States already has announced that it will begin an emergency airlift of weapons to beef up India's badly outgunned army by the end of this week.

The poor showing of the Indians in initial battles with the invading Communist Chinese has been attributed to their antiquated weapons.

DIGGING IN — This photo released in New Delhi yesterday by the Indian government is described as showing an Indian soldier digging a trench fortification in the lighting area of Ladakh where Chinese troops have made an advance. (AP Wirephoto)

POOR JUDGMENT

Phone Call Releases Prisoner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "This is Judge Gene Williams," said the voice on the telephone. "I want you to release a prisoner, Kenneth James Lamond."

"Yes, sir, judge," said the jailer, and forthwith freed Lamond, 41, a parole violator.

Then someone at the Dade County Jail decided to check with the judge.

"What telephone call?" the judge asked. "What prisoner?"

Lamond was picked up at his home and returned to jail. Police arrested Michael J. Peters, 41, and charged him with impersonating the judge. Peters said he knew nothing about Lamond's release.

Around two million members of the nation's labor force suffer from alcoholism, costing American industry around one billion dollars per year in absenteeism, reduced efficiency and increased accidents, according to the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program.

The Saudi Arabian government has released this picture saying it shows the 35-year-old Imam Mohammed Al Badr of Yemen seated among Bakeel tribesmen at secret counter-revolutionary headquarters in the northern region of Yemen. Saudi Arabia said the picture was taken after the revolt in which the Imam was reported killed.

Marin Banker Marks 45 Years On Job

A. L. Cencio, who has been manager of the Point Reyes Station Bank of America branch since 1946, is observing his 45th anniversary with the bank today.

One of only 21 persons on active duty with the bank to reach the 45-year milestone, Cencio will be a guest of honor in San Francisco next month at the Fairmont Hotel at a dinner of the bank's Founders Club, whose members all have completed 25 or more years of service.

A native of Genoa, Italy, Cencio came to California in his youth, joining the bank at its San Francisco head office in 1917 as a messenger.

He became an officer in 1925 while serving at the Sonoma branch, and in 1937 was promoted to manager at the branch in Tomales, where he remained until his appointment to Point Reyes Station.

A resident of Petaluma for many years, he belongs to the West Marin Lions Club, the West Marin Chamber of Commerce and the Marin Chapter of the American Institute of Banking. He is past master of Temple Lodge No. 14, of F. & A.M. in Sonoma, he is also a member of the Elks of Santa Rosa and the Petaluma Golf and Country Club.

Space Age Small Investment Firm Grows To Sixth Largest

Through expanded capitalization, the Space Age Small Investment Co., 819 A Street, San Rafael, has become one of the sixth largest firms of its kind in the Bay Area, Clyde A. Stevens, executive vice president and general manager announced today.

Stevens who resigned last March as executive vice president of Marin County Abstract and Title Co. to head the new firm said expansion has doubled the company's capital, enabling it to loan a total of $900,000 to small business firms. He said Space Age has $330,000 in loans and investments in Los Angeles ,Montclair, San Carlos, Sacramento, San Francicso and Novato, leaving it $570,000 for new loans. The maximum loan the firm can make to any small business is $120,000.

Additional capitalization resulted from sales of more stock to several of the company's directors and to new shareholders. Twenty-one Marin County residents are included among the shareholders of whom eight are on the investment committee.

Stevens said additional paid-in capital expected during November will allow the company to acquire a loan portfolio of 1.2 million dollars.

The three-game June series between the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Angels drew a total of 146,623 fans to Chavez Ravine.

Uganda Women In Rights Fight

By LYNN HEINZERLING

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Africa is still a man's world. All the shouting about freedom leaves most women grubbing for food, carrying water and firewood on their heads and being sold to their husbands like cattle.

But a gentle revolution is under way in Uganda, the latest colony to become independent. A small group of women is leading a campaign to bring women into the new world of freedom.

British colonial officers, the churches and a few progressive Ugandans have made some progress in emancipating women in the cities. In the rural areas, where 90 per cent of the population live, tribal customs condemn women to a life of toil and bearing children.

Uganda fathers still extract a bride price for their daughters from prospective husbands. In some places this may amount only to a goat and a few small presents. In northern Uganda it may run to 10 or more head of cattle.

The bride, once paid for, becomes little more than a chattel. The husband's responsibility in the family runs to growing whatever cash crops he may choose, handling whatever money there is and sitting in the sun.

He may occasionally mash up green bananas, add water and sugar and wait for it to ferment into "African gin" or waragi. On ceremonial occasions he will dress up in leopard skins and monkey hides and get out his spear.

The bride is expected to take care of the sweet potatoes, beans, turnips and bananas outside the family's hut and to bring the water from whatever spring or stream is available. She must also raise the family and provide daughters who will, in their turn, bring a fancy bride price. Sons are welcome too because they enlarge the clan.

If the marriage breaks up for any reason, the husband can send the woman back to her parents and claim the bride price he paid. Some men marry one woman in Christian rites and take others in tribal rites.

The only women smashing these ancient tribal practices are those who get an education or marry more advanced African political leaders or businessmen.

From this group of women comes the move to improve the lot of rural women. One of the leaders is Mrs. Pumla Kisosonkole, a South African from the Transkei African Reserve who graduated from Fort Hare University and married a visiting Uganda chief.

She is a former president of the Uganda Council of Women and a vice president of the International Council of Women.

"One of our problems," she said, "is simply recognition of women by men."

Since women have so little in common with African men, Mrs. Kisosonkol said, the council is sponsoring courses in citizenship, civic duties, home improvement and English.

The ability to speak English, official language of the new nation, has become a status symbol. The Uganda Council of Women has asked United Nations aid in teaching English.

The council also is pushing to get more women in government positions. With few women college graduates in Uganda, the number of qualified women is limited. Only two women work in government ministries.

For the rural woman, the uplifting will be slow and painful. Most of them are illiterate as are their husbands.

The husbands do not take kindly to wives working outside the vegetable patch and the hut.

Animals often burn up anger in actions that do no harm. A fiddler crab, frustrated in love, makes repeated gestures with a claw.

How Menon Rose To No. 2 Job

Friendship With Nehru Helped Him In The Past

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Vengalil Krishnan Krishna Menon rose from an impoverished radical politician to the No. 2 position in India during his 27 years of close friendship with the man who became India's first prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru.

Countless times during his controversial career, Krishna Menon has been defended by his friend, and after each controversy emerged stronger than ever. As defense minister and adviser to Nehru he held a position of power second only to the premier. As diplomat and international negotiator, his gaunt figure and long gray hair became familiar throughout the world.

But when thousands of Chinese Communist troops poured over India's borders this month, two of Krishna Menon's previous positions became untenable: his long years of support for Peiping at home and abroad, and his failure to prepare the armed forces for the fighting. Nehru took over the defense ministry himself, demoting Krishna Menon to organizing the economy for war.

"I do not seek out controversies—they seek me out," Krishna Menon said recently in New York. "And we meet amicably half way."

But to many diplomats and officials, Indian and foreign, it seemed that Krishna Menon had gone much farther than half way many times.

After building a reputation as a mediator by solving the Korean prisoner issue and aiding in the French Indochina settlement, he:

1. Refused to condemn the Soviet suppression of the Hungarian revolution;

2. Refused to join in a United Nations resolution against Peiping for crushing Tibet on the grounds that "it does not help the Tibetans";

3. Consistently advocated Communist China's seating in the United Nations;

4. Consistently condemned colonialism, but refused self-determination for Indian-held Kashmir and directed the invasion of Goa.

KRISHNA MENON
Center of controversies

"Menon represents China—not India," his opponent charged in this year's parliamentary elections. But Krishna Menon won handily despite the border situation.

Krishna Menon is a 65-year-old bachelor who neither drinks nor smokes and has few close friends. His bitter tongue has estranged many diplomats and his arrogance is resented among other Indian officials. But until the border war began Krishna Menon's international standing had won him considerable support among the Indian masses.

In debating the Kashmir question in the United Nations, he set a record that still stands for the longest speech—seven hours and 45 minutes on Jan. 23 and 24, 1957. He collapsed shortly afterwards with a heart insufficiency, and an Indian correspondent commented:

"When an ordinary man faints, you wave smelling salts under his nose. When Krishna Menon faints, wave a microphone in front of him and he revives."

Krishna Menon was born in 1897 to a middle class family in Calicut, Southern India. He could have had a comfortable life under British rule but chose instead to go to England to study and agitate for Indian independence.

He went to London University, the London School of Economics, and the Middle Temple, where he won the right to wear the curly white wig of an English barrister. He entered labor politics and became a labor councilman for the working class borough of St. Pancras.

But most important for Krishna Menon was the friendship he formed with Nehru, who is seven years his senior. They worked together for Indian independence, making soap box speeches, writing pamphlets and lobbying.

When it was granted in 1947, Krishna Menon's rise was swift. He became Indian high commissioner in Britain, head of the Indian United Nations delegation, and then defense minister.

He had been widely picked as the next foreign minister if Nehru should give up the post, and as Nehru's eventual successor as head of government.

PAT AND THE PLUMBER—There was something that the plumber had that the man with money didn't. Pat Finnegan and Chuck Royster, the plumber prince, play leading roles in the eight-star cast of "Invitation to a March" now at Sausalito Little Theater.

WORTH SEEING

'Invitation To March' Laugh-Packed Comedy

By the time the plumber kisses the princess in "Invitation to a March," now playing at the Sausalito Little Theater, the laughs are rolling.

The Arthur Laurents comedy is light entertainment with eight equally cast actors taking stabs at some of our hipocrisies.

Merle McDill turns in an exceptional performance, being able, hatted and huggable. She makes use of Laurents' direct lines to the audience the best of the crew. Being told intimate things by the actors in such a tiny theater can be disarming if you're in the front row.

Strong parts are played, too, by Amanda Scheyer as the tight-pantsy, worldly Deedee and Pat Miller, the Southern mama.

Chuck Royster is the funny plumber-prince to Pat Finnegan. Miss Finnegan, we thought, was funniest in her sleep scenes. "She's a nut," said Miss McDill, herself a nut.

Charles Heller plays Tucker Grogan who makes eyes at Miss McDill and Allen Chamness is a natural as the snooty fiance. Douglas Gower, 11, of Terra Linda rates plaudits as the drum-beating little brother.

The octet does a fine job. It creates a pleasant easy-going life of the Jablonskis who do what they want to do on the sand dunes. And, in balance, brings pressures on the Jablonskis way of life.

Don Eaton, Sausalito jeweler and director, says "the play goes 'round and 'round but gets nowhere." This may be true but the laughs are worth the while.

The play runs tomorrow, Saturday and for two more weekends at the theater at 745½ Bridgeway.

Followup On Viet Victory Is Failure

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. helicopters lifted 600 Vietnamese troops into the Mekong River delta today to follow through on an air force victory of the preceding day, but they came up almost empty handed.

In several operations into which the drive was divided, a total of only three Viet Cong were reported killed for the day. Air strikes may have accounted for a few more.

CHAIN OF FIGHTS

A chain of fights began about midnight Tuesday when an estimated 400 Viet Cong troops laid siege to an outpost of a village 110 miles south of here. The outpost, under command of a Roman Catholic priest named Father Tong, was strongly defended.

At the height of battle, Father Tong's forces were believed to have about 300 men fighting. Soon after the attack began, the priest was able to call Saigon for help. The defenders held the fort against repeated onslaughts, but almost ran out of ammunition, and suffered heavy losses.

DEFENDERS SUFFER

The Viet Cong entered part of the compound, and carried off a number of weapons. The defenders suffered 18 killed and 32 wounded.

But air force fighters swept in before dawn, and by flare light poured cannon shells and rockets into the attackers. The air strike was followed by more strafing runs after dawn. Thirty-three Viet Cong dead were counted and verified on the ground near the post, and officers estimated a total enemy dead, including those not found or carried off, as more than 100.

Generally speaking, Soviet cosmonauts are air force officers, members of the Communist Party of the Young Communist League, married and in excellent physical condition.

CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Edmund G. Brown and Richard M. Nixon, contenders for the California governorship, yesterday accused each other of presenting distorted pictures of the state's economy.

Democrat Brown, seeking re-election to a second term, declared California with continuing steady economic growth will overtake New York this year in industrial wealth as well as population.

Brown told an audience of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. employees that Nixon "has been hoisting false storm warnings about the economy and it's time someone hauled them down."

He declared personal income, retail sales and employment are at record highs in California.

In a statement, Nixon charged the State Economic Development Agency with publishing "phony statistics, gross misrepresentations, complete lies, and half truths."

Nixon said an Economic Development Agency pamphlet on industrial plant expansion listed three planned plant expansions in San Leandro, Ventura, and Fresno which had been canceled or indefinitely delayed.

The statement said nearly half of 35 other plant expansions listed would employ no new workers "or were gross misrepresentations."

Nixon contended the challenged expansion claims emphasize the need "for a California crusade for new business investment."

Brown declared in a telethon broadcast last night his opposition to the death penalty for narcotics offenders.

"We have the toughest laws in the United States for narcotics peddlers. The death penalty is absolutely unnecessary in connection with narcotics. I don't believe that more gassing of human beings is the answer to crime in California," Brown said in a telethon broadcast from Oakland.

The Democratic governor's view was in contrast to that of his Republican opponent Richard M. Nixon who has consistently recommended a crack down on narcotics trafficers, including the death sentence.

Brown, in his stretch drive for re-election, also reiterated an accusation that the former vice president would accept a presidential draft in 1964 — despite repeated Nixon statements to the contrary.

"I think Mr. Nixon really would run for president again. I just don't believe that if another draft came along he would be able to resist it," said the governor.

Nixon, meantime, in one of his strongest attacks on Brown, predicts that his rival is set to launch "the most massive campaign of fear and smear in the history of California politics."

Nixon told rallies in Lodi and Santa Rosa yesterday that the governor's campaign is running behind and he'll have to resort to "a desperate last minute scare campaign."

The Republican candidate charged that Brown has spread seven lies to frighten voters, including "the lie that I support right-to-work laws."

Brown, whose campaign tempo has picked up significantly with the apparent easing of the Cuban crisis, appears today in San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties before moving south for an evening political rally in Anaheim.

Nixon appears for a rally in Roseville, Placer County, then travels south for rallies at Cerritos College in the Norwalk area of Los Angeles County.

With the election only six days off, each candidate is accusing the other of dirty politics with an increasing degree of regularity.

For example, Nixon yesterday accused Brown of conducting ". . . the cheapest sort of Tammany Hall tactics to run a campaign to lead the first state in the nation like a kid's game of trick or treat."

Brown, meantime, angrily accused the Nixon organization of handing out "smear literature charges that I'm just a little less a good American than my opponent."

Terming the GOP gubernatorial campaign the dirtiest he's seen in 20 years, Brown replied, "I'm just as good an American as Richard Milhous Nixon—and just a little bit better."

VOTE FOR MAX RAFFERTY

PROOF OF UNDEMOCRATIC TACTICS USED BY OPPOSITION:

A LETTER OF PROTEST

October 10, 1962

Board of Directors
California Teachers Association
1705 Murchison Drive
Burlingame, California

Gentlemen:

It is of considerable distress that I write this letter.

Early in September, at a meeting of the Executive Board of my District's local Association, I was elected as a delegate to the CTA's leadership conference at Camp Seeley, near San Bernadino.

On September 28th, I arrived there. During the ensuing two days, I witnessed what to me was an unbelievable series of events. I was deeply disturbed. In short, I was confronted with a compromise of my personal and professional ethics. My only alternative was speaking out for democratic principles.

At the first meeting that I attended, I was shocked to hear one of the chairmen indicate to the delegates that there should be no deviation from the designated policy of the leaders, that he wanted everyone to think alike, that he wanted unity in CTA, as far as backing Dr. Richardson was concerned.

During the question and answer period, I stated that in my district we had not endorsed either candidate, and that I personally knew of neighboring districts that had not endorsed either candidate. I stated that the endorsement decision was to be voted on the following week in my district. I further stated that I did not understand why Dr. Rafferty was not there to speak along with Dr. Richardson, as I was under the belief that both sides should be heard to make the best and the wisest decision. I noted that the CTA had printed articles by Dr. Rafferty on education in their CTA magazine, while no articles were printed by Dr. Richardson. I also stated that teachers had confided to me that the top echelon of CTA was trying to make decisions for all of us while in reality they thought themselves quite capable of making their own decisions. In fact, I stated, it was even said to me that CTA was like Jimmy Hoffa's union, in which the leaders made the decisions and the teachers went along—right or wrong.

In response, another teacher arose and stated that the CTA employed a truly representative form of organization. Another teacher asked how many delegates made the decision and what was the total membership of CTA? The answer: approximately 123,000 members and approximately 350 delegates. (Simple arithmetic indicates that this is ¼ of 1%). Later in the session I again raised my hand. The chairman, upon seeing this, said that the meeting was over and adjourned.

The afternoon session was entitled "The Campaign for Richardson"—I was surprised by the title itself. As a delegate from the San Diego area, I was under the impression that they would permit me to express my feelings regarding endorsement. My position was and is that it was unfortunate that the CTA endorsed Richardson as I noticed that it was causing a lot of dissention among the delegates, since they had not been able to express their views by voting.

I raised my hand and was recognized by Mr. McKay. Upon standing I was rudely asked by Mr. McKay to sit down with the comment that I was probably one of those very few teachers for Rafferty. He then recognized several other teachers in the room to speak. I again raised my hand, asking "when was he going to permit me to speak?" Someone in the back shouted "let her speak." He asked the audience "Shall I let her speak or shall I not?" Several shouted in the affirmative. I asked several question, namely:

1. Was it true that John F. Kennedy was endorsed by this same top echelon group of the CTA when he ran for President in 1960?

2. I thought that the material put into the folders of the 600 delegates was extremely biased when they had falsely linked Dr. Rafferty with the John Birch Society. Why wasn't it also stated that the American Legion, V.F.W. and the Masons' had given Dr. Rafferty Americanism Awards, besides his Freedom Foundation Award? On the other hand, why wasn't is stated that Dr. Richardson had been supported the three times he ran for public office by the People's World, a west coast Communist newspaper?

Many delegates came up and talked to me about the American Federation of Teachers Union and another union endorsing Richardson before the primary. Someone then pointed out that Dr. Richardson, while on the L.A. Board of Education had an interesting voting record. They said he had voted against placing an "Americanism Desk" in the L.A. schools and that he had voted to amend the motion forbidding the Communist Party use of the Los Angeles school property. (I am bringing this up because these are some of the things that should have been discussed at the conference.)

On October 2nd, after returning home, a state CTA delegate from my district visited me at school. During our discussion he asked me why I had spoken out at the conference. He then informed me that he had received a long distance call from Camp Seeley seeking information about me. He refused to divulge the caller's name but stated that THE CTA ETHICS COMMISSION MIGHT INVESTIGATE ME for asking the above questions in the conference.

What I experienced at Seeley sickened me as well as several other teachers present. I ask you—was it right to present one candidate in a falsified and dishonest light, then urge teachers to give financial support to the other candidate? Is this legal or ethical to pressure teachers in this manner? Was it right to place on top of the snack bar counter, material endorsing only Democratic candidates in the upcoming election? Was it right to vote this endorsement in JULY, before teachers returned to school? Was it right for Mr. McKay to speak as Richardson's campaign manager considering his leadership in the CTA? Do you, the Executive Board, approve of the tactics used?

As one teacher stated to me: "The CTA may try to tell us how to vote and we can pretend that we go along with them, but they'll never know just how we vote when we get to the polls." This statement shows the pressure exerted on teachers by the CTA.

Should not our differences be aired inside the organization rather than alienate those that differ, so that they do not have a voice to air their opinions. When our right to differ and to question is suppressed, democratic processes are no longer in effect.

Under these condition, I will not and cannot compromise my principles by supporting the CTA.

Sincerely yours,

Beverly C. Snodgrass

On the other hand MAX RAFFERTY says: (These quotes from his speech "The Passing of the Patriot" which won for him the George Washington Gold Medal award from Freedoms Foundation.)

"What will History have to say of my generation of educators—the generation of the '30's, the '40's, and the '50's? We were so busy educating for 'life adjustment' that we forgot that the first duty of a nation's schools is to preserve that nation."

"Do we believe it ourselves? I am convinced with all my heart that we do. It's not the fault of teachers that our profession has been brainwashed for thirty years with slogans like: 'There are no eternal verities'; 'Teach the child, not the subject'; and—worst of all—'Nothing is worth learning for the sake of learning'."

MAX RAFFERTY says: "California students can learn if given the opportunity. Insure their future with qualified leadership."

New Nursery, Pool Service Opening

A new nursery and an expanded pool service will open Saturday on Highway 101, across from the Civic Center.

Herb's Pool Service and Murata Nursery will open for business at 3765 Redwood Highway, about a block north of Wiltshire Towers and next door to Bamboo Reef.

The nursery is operated by landscape designer George Murata of Corte Madera, whose Oriental gardens have won top prize at the Marin Art and Garden Show for six consecutive years.

Herb Dougan, who has been in the pool chemical supplies and equipment business for seven years, is moving to the new location from his former site on Francisco Boulevard.

"Because of growing business, we needed a bigger display area," said Dougan. "We're the biggest pool service in the county now."

The two establishments, located in the same building, will be open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Customer parking is available both in front and rear of the new firms.

Customers southbound on Highway 101 can turn off directly from the highway into the nursery and pool service. Northbound cars must turn off toward Santa Venetia and take the underpass.

Murata and Dougan announced that their grand opening will probably come next spring, after their building has been completely remodeled.

Two other drivers drew fines and probation for their first offenses.

Philip James Steckel, 42, of Santa Clara, must pay $193 fine and remain on six months probation. Steckel was arrested on Highway 101 on Oct. 11.

Ross Rod Love, 21, of 52 Harte Avenue, San Rafael, must pay $166 fine and remain on two years' supervised probation. Love was stopped while intoxicated at Corte Madera overpass last June 10.

WHY LAUTERWASSER DESERVES YOUR SUPPORT FOR TREASURER— TAX COLLECTOR

It is my wish in writing this letter to bring to the attention of the voters of Marin County, the opportunity they have to elect to the office of Tax Collector-Treasurer, a person of the fine qualifications of Russ Lauterwasser for that office.

As City Engineer for the City of Larkspur, and other cities in Marin County, I had occasion to observe his conscientious attention to his various offices as Assessor, Tax Collector-Treasurer, and Director of Budget in the City of Larkspur.

I found him not only honest and conscientious, but able, and noted that he made it a policy to run his office for the benefit of the taxpayers and citizens of the city, in each of the offices in which he served them. He believed in giving efficient service, and in keeping the tax rate as low as possible.

When he held office at Larkspur, one of his many accomplishments was in working out a re-organization program with holders of defaulted municipal bonds, to their satisfaction, putting them on a current basis, and saving the city considerable money. It was not long until, under Russ Lauterwasser's guidance, the City of Larkspur's cash position increased many thousands of dollars, while the tax rate remained low.

Although the office of Tax Collector-Treasurer is not a policy-making office, and does not fix the assessments or tax rates, it is helpful to the citizens to have in that office a person whose spirit and attitude are behind the lowest possible tax burden, and the most efficient operation of his own office toward that end, in the public interest. It is well recognized by all through Russ Lauterwasser's record that he makes it a practice to go to the bottom of things, no matter how difficult or involved, and to give them thorough analysis, to the end of getting the best result.

As a taxpayer and person interested in the well-being of Marin County, I honestly believe that the people of Marin County have a real opportunity, in the candidacy of Russ Lauterwasser, to elect a man who is well qualified and has the will to achieve objective results for all the people of the County.

5 Running For Bolinas Harbor Board

Five persons are contesting three seats on the Bolinas Harbor District board in Tuesday's election at Stinson Beach and Bolinas.

They are John R. Pepper and Louis J. De Ghelder, incumbents, Clyde W. King, Roy C. Gillman Jr., and Mrs. Mary B. Goddard. Holdover commissioners are Gene V. McDaniel, board president, of Bolinas, and Seibert L. Sefton of Stinson Beach. Commissioner John B. Love is not running for re-election.

Pepper was born in Bolinas of one of the village's founding families. He, assisted by his wife, Hattie, runs the John R. Pepper Market in Bolinas.

De Ghelder has lived in Stinson Beach 10 years, since retirement from a position with a refrigerator agency in Woodland. He has owned a home in Stinson for many years and, prior to formation of the harbor district, was a member of the Bolinas Harbor and Park Assn. He is past president of the Progressive Club.

King has lived in Stinson Beach one year. He is a retired rear admiral. He has been a member of the Naval Reserve for 41 years. He retired in 1960 after 34 years with Fibreboard Products Inc., where he handled industrial and labor relations, and now has an office in the same field in Mill Valley.

Gillman is a carpenter. He has lived in Stinson Beach since 1955. He is a volunteer fireman and a member of its ambulance corps, being in charge of maintenance of the ambulance. He has a sportsman's interest in the opening of the lagoon.

The harbor district was formed six years ago for development of the lagoon. Last month the Senate appropriations committee approved a $15,000 outlay for a navigatoin study of the lagoon. The study is to be of a jettied entrance to the lagoon which it proposed to be developed as a fishing and recreation harbor.

Crusade Reaches 63 Per Cent Of Goal

With $92,079 reported, the United Crusade campaign in Marin has reached 63 per cent of its $145,893 goal, Burton R. Kirchner, chairman, announced today.

This is eight per cent ahead of the same date last year, when the county had reached 55 per cent of its quota, Kirchner noted, adding, "It is a very hopeful sign."

So far only one campaign division, public employees, has exceeded its quota. However, said Kirchner, all but one of the other divisions are over the half-way mark. The single exception is business, with $5,001 reported for 30 per cent of quota.

Standings of the other divisions are: professional, $13,925, or 84 per cent; commerce and industry, $19,939, or 72 per cent; advance gifts, $16,520, or 67 per cent; public schools, $4,632, or 62 per cent; colleges and seminaries, $1,687, or 61 per cent; residential, $27,226 or 57 per cent.

In the professional division, medical employees were announced as the second group to go over its goal. They reported a total of $2,394 or 130 per cent of their $1,841 quota. Collections are still incomplete, according to Dr. John C. Siemens, chairman.

Employees of the county's four general hospitals and Ross Valley Medical Clinic were cited for "greatly increased gifts" and for helping to push the professionals into second place in division standings.

Old West (As It Never Was) Recreated

The frontier returns to Novato this weekend and next when the Community Club presents "Frontier Fling" at the Community building.

Curtain time will be 8 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday, and Nov. 9 and 10.

It is a locally written and produced musical farce of the Old West as it never existed, except in the ideas of Joe Jacob, who wrote it with the help of Leo Wagner, Elaine Jacob and Chris Kollgaard.

The action starts when Penelope Plumwhistel, a sweet young girl from the East, played by Eunice Layton, comes West to claim her inheritance which she thinks is a gold mine. It turns out to be a saloon named "Golden Ore House.

Penelope meets and falls in love with Mat Basterson, played by Robert Kone, a handsome well-dressed man about town, who robs the local bank.

The sheriff, played by Alex Cansagra, gets together a posse and chases Mat into Indian territory. Here the posse meets the Indian chief, played by William Hints, and a bevy of dancing Indian maidens.

The sheriff is tied to the stake and threatened with death unless he marries the chief's daughter, Ha Ha Minnie, played by Mrs. Roland Brown.

Colorful costumes, designed by Marie Dank, and dance routines created by Wanda Blackwell brighten the production. Donald Leaf is the producer and Paul Terry is the director. De Long Kone is the musical director. Sets were designed by Jerry Young and Robert Young is the stage manager. Eric Kollgaard is the lighting director.

Reservations can be made with Mrs. Howard Dank of 15 Plaza Demira for any performances.

Trade Cepeda? Nonsense, Says Stoneham

President Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants says he is irked by rumors that the Giants intend to trade all-star first baseman Orlando Cepeda.

Stoneham, bouyed by a report that there is nothing wrong with Cepeda's eyesight, said yesterday there is "absolutely no truth" to rumors that Cepeda is to be dealt away.

"I doubt there's a club in the league that could offer us enough for a player of Orlando's caliber even if we entertained such an idea," said Stoneham.

Stoneham also tossed a bouquet in the direction of Willie McCovey, the elongated first baseman-outfielder who was reported on the trading block prior to the 1962 season. The Giants' president said he was happy that the Giants retained McCovey.

Asked about Cepeda's late-season slump, which carried over into the World Series, Stoneham said he felt Cepeda was exhausted from too much baseball. He played 100 games of winter ball in Puerto Rico before the National League season began.

"This was bound to catch up to him sooner or later," said Stoneham, "and he lost his batting eye at a crucial time during the pennant race."

Winter baseball is off Cepeda's schedule during the 1962-63 off season. He plans to play basketball, stay in condition and take it easy.

It had been feared that Cepeda's eyesight was impaired by a cataract, but Dr. George Campion chased the fears Tuesday when he reported that the "Baby Bull" had better than normal vision.

49ER NOTES

Hickey Says 'I'd Still Trade Y.A.'

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Even though Y. A. Tittle passed for more than 500 yards last Sunday at New York, Coach Red Hickey of San Francisco says he would trade him again under the same circumstances.

Asked about that yesterday, the 49er coach naswered: "If the circumstances were the same, I certainly would trade Tittle again."

Hickey explained that John Brodie played most of the 1960 season because of injuries to Tittle. If Tittle's performance with the 49ers had been as outstanding as for New York, the spread offense Shotgun would never have been born.

It was because of the Shotgun that Hickey kept Brodie, Bill Kilmer and Bob Waters, three guys who can run as well as pass.

Tittle was traded for Lou Cordileone, who was a disappointment. But Cordileone was traded to Los Angeles for defensive back Elbert Kimbrough, now a regular. So in the long run it was Tittle for Kimbrough.

STILL STRONGEST

Hickey also refused to back down from his pre-season claim that this was his strongest 49er club since he took over in 1959. But he added that he did not necessarily expect to win the championship, because Green Bay and Detroit were also loaded.

Hickey said Baltimore, the 49ers' foe next Sunday in San Francisco, also was loaded.

"Now that they've got Lennie Moore back at tight back, their attack is vastly improved. John Unitas has been overthrowing this year, they say, but we all know he is on of the great clutch quarterbacks. So let's forget about Tittle and think about Unitas."

Stormy Ump Larry Goetz Dead At 67

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Larry Goetz, 67, former National League umpire, who died yesterday enroute to Cincinnati General Hospital after becoming ill at his home.

Goetz' death ended a stormy career which saw him dismissed from the umpire staff by National League President Warren Giles in 1957 after sitting out that season because of illness.

He had hoped to be named supervisor of the league's umpires, but his long battle with the league office and with players proved costly as he failed to get the job. One of his main points of contention was that umpires should be included in the players' pension fund.

The loud and fast talking Goetz later was hired as a baseball commentator by the Mutual Broadcasting Co.

He and his wife recently returned from a four-month tour of Europe. They had planned to leave next week for Florida.

Cars Quieter Thanks To Satellite Check

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (UPI) The same type of equipment used to check on earth-orbiting satellites and missiles is helping automobile engineers make cars quieter.

To get an accurate check on all noise and vibration, car manufacturers can use a two-channel electronic telemetry system that "listens" to the sounds test cars make on the road and transmits signals to a sensitive receiver in a following vehicle.

U.S. Aid To Airports Is Over $69 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — The federal aid to airports program in 1962 provides $69,491,748 for 326 airport projects in all 50 states, reports the official publication of the Aerospace Industries Assn. of America, Inc.

About 41 per cent of the money will be used for construction of runways and taxiways, and 26 per cent for land acquisition.

World Cage Official

M/Sgt. William Ross, athletic director of the 78th Fighter Wing at the Hamilton Field Air Defense Command Base, has been chosen as the only United States official to officiate at the fourth World Basketball Championship in Manila, Philippines, Dec. 1 through 15.

Dick Tiger Named Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger of Nigeria, newly crowned middleweight champion of the World Boxing Assn., was named "Fighter of the Month" by Ring Magazine.

Ring, however, rates Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., as the middleweight champ, placing Tiger in the No. 1 contender position, followed by Gene Fullmer, the West Jordan, Utah, battler dethroned by Tiger.

There were no changes in the heavyweight division, ruled by Sonny Liston, but Doug Jones advanced one step to third in the light heavy class following Eddie Cotton's defeat by Mauro Mina of Peru, the No. 2 contender to Harold Johnson.

Strawberry-Bel Air Little League Dinner

The Strawberry-Bel Air Little League will hold a picnic-style dinner at Brice Brothers Market in Bel Air Sunday starting at 4 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased from the little league players or at the dinner. The proceeds are to finance a fence, dugout and bleachers at the new Strawberry Little League field.

Oakland Oaks Sign Another Cager

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball League increased their roster to nine yesterday by signing Govoner Vaughn, former University of Illinois Star.

Vaughn, who stands 6-4, played last season with the Chicago Majors and the Hawaii Chiefs.

PREP OF WEEK

Mike Kemp, Drake's break-away runner who returned a Marin Catholic kickoff for 72 yards and a winning touchdown last Saturday night, explains to Pirate back coach Carl Brown how it was done. Kemp, a junior who stands 5-6 and tips the scales at a mere 135 pounds, received the kickoff on his own 28-yard line with only 1:15 left in the game and the Drake Pirates trailing 13-12. He ran straight up the middle and broke free for a 72-yard TD gallop, giving the Pirates an 18-13 victory. It wasn't his first long return of the season, as the little speedster returned one for 85 yards against San Rafael and another for 80 yards against Terra Linda, both for touchdowns.

Marin Gal Bowls 288, Best League Mark Here Since '46

The bowlers at Greenbrae Lanes were still murmuring today about Vivian Gray.

Mrs. Gray rolled a near-perfect 288 game Tuesday morning in the Coffee Cuppers League at Greenbrae Lanes. Her great effort for the "perfect game" was the highest line bowled in Marin league competition for either men or women since 1946, when a 298 game was rolled at the old San Anselmo Lanes.

Mrs. Gray, who lives at 1122 Court Street in San Rafael, started her big game with 10 straight strikes. As the crowd held its breath on her first extra shot, the ball whizzed down the lane, crashed into the pins and knocked over eight, leaving the five and nine.

She picked up the two remaining pines on her next extra heave, giving her the 288.

Mrs. Gray, mother of two, has been carrying an average of 165 in league competition. The big game came between a pair of 175's, giving her a tremendous 638 three-game series.

The woman kegler was to get a $288 cash prize from the Freeswing Co., makers of the Coffee Cuppers team bowling uniforms. The sponsor of the team is the Bowlers Shop in San Rafael.

Hall Led Jocks At GG Field

ALBANY (AP) — Jockey Dean Hall and the horses he rode won the most races and earned the most money—in that order—during the 44-day Golden Gate Fields meeting which ended Tuesday.

Of the 219 mounts Hall rode, 47 won and 38 placed. Another 28 came in third and helped him collect $104,730 in money-earners.

Farrell W. Jones led trainers. His horses won $100,190 in purse cash during the meeting and he saddled 32 winners in 112 starts.

Chase Eddie ($7.20) with jockey Johnny Longden getting his 5,650th winner, won the $10,000 added San Francisco mile in the windup feature.

WILL OWENS HAUNT 49ERS THIS SUNDAY?

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—R. C. Owens, the former San Francisco 49er pass catching specialist, will start against his ex-teammates Sunday when the Baltimore Colts invade San Francisco.

Owens, who has been a second stringer for Baltimore, strained knee ligaments early in the season and didn't recover until he second game.

"I'm playing behind an All-Pro guy," Owens said yesterday, referring to Ray Berry.

Then Owens added, "I'm not unhappy at Baltimore. I'll do my job, whether it is to be a sub or sit on the bench and cheer."

PORTLAND, Ore., (UPI)—Bill Sayles resigned as general manager of the financially plagued Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League yesterday to take a job as a west coast scout for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cal Tackle Will Miss UCLA Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

BERKELEY, University of California tackle Ron Calegari, shaken up last week against Penn State, will be on the sidelines when the Bears meet UCLA Saturday.

Coach Marv Levy, who sent the Bears through a short scrimmage today, said Warren Bock will replace Calegari.

INDIANS SHARP

STANFORD — The Stanford Indians held a light workout today and prepared to leave for Portland for Saturday's contest with the Oregon Ducks.

Coach Jack Curtice held a 30-minute drill last night which he described as the best of the season. He said fullback J. D. Lodato and quarterbacks Steve Thurlow and Clark Weaver were outstanding in the workout.

DOUBLE FRACTURE

SAN JOSE — San Jose State Coach Bob Titchenal readied the Spartans today for their Saturday night clash with University of the Pacific, a team he described as "a big club with good speed."

The Spartans worked out for an hour and a half yesterday. Tackle Wendell Schell, injured in a scrimmage earlier this week, was found to have a double leg fracture requiring insertion of a metal plate.

STOCKTON — The University of Pacific Tigers stressed pass defense today as they drilled for Saturday night's game with San Jose State.

Cal's Morton Hottest Collegiate Attraction Since Albert, LeBaron

HANLEY

Craig Morton has stirred up more excitement about college football hereabouts than existed since Frankie Albert was at Stanford and Eddie LeBaron at University of Pacific.

Until the 6-4, 210-pound former Campbell High star made his electrifying varsity debut at California last Saturday, high priced publicity agents were waging a losing battle. They had just about run out of ideas in trying to rekindle a genuine public interest in the college game.

A hard core of loyal Old Blues always could be counted on each Saturday at Berkeley but, even counting the big Cal student body, there were only 31,500 in Strawberry Canyon for last Saturday's intersectional game between Cal and Penn State.

That was the game in which Morton made his debut. When Cal meets UCLA this Saturday at Berkeley, 50,000, maybe 60,000, will be there to see Morton. Before Morton did what he did against Penn State, the concessionaires in Memorial Stadium had planned for a crowd of 35,000 this Saturday.

"MORTON INDIVIDUALLY accomplished more in a single afternoon than I have been able to achieve in months of drum beating," frankly acknowledged Wiles Hallock, California's publicity man.

"The wire services have been after me all week for background, feature material on Craig."

Morton's background, of course, is well known in northern California. He was a 12-letter man at Campbell in football, baseball and basketball. He led the Cal freshman football team to an undefeated 6-0 season last year and hit .400 for the Cal freshman baseball team as an outfielder.

NOBODY IN northern Cal ever doubted that Norton would be a star at Cal. It was just a matter of whether he would shine as brilliantly as he did at Campbell where he won Northern California High School "Athlete of the Year" honors in 1960.

But even his high school coach, Jim Muir, had to admit that Morton's poised debut against Penn State was far beyond the expectations of anyone. Rip Engle, a coaching veteran who has been around a long time, thought Morton was going to beat his Nittany Lions in what Engle called "the greatest varsity debut I've ever seen."

The 19-year-old quarterback's debut came in the second quarter when Penn State was leading 7-0 and dominating the game.

BY THE time he finished throwing 28 passes, completing 20 of them for 274 yards and three touchdowns, Penn State was happy to settle for a shaky 23-21 victory.

It's no wonder why a dozen major league baseball teams and a score of colleges were after Morton at Campbell. He decided on Cal's football scholarship which he will repay in full this Saturday if the 50,000 or 60,000 do show up in Strawberry Canyon instead of the previously expected 35,000.

Naturally, the pros are keeping an eye on Morton—both baseball and football. But the young man's immediate objective is a degree in business administration, preparatory to studying law.

Player Takes Lead In Australian Open

ADELAIDE (AP)—Gary Player of South Africa, the United States' PGA champion, fired a 4-under-par 69 today for the first round lead in the Australian Open Golf Championship at the Royal Adelaide course.

Tied for second, one stroke back, were three Australians, Bob Tuohy, Alex Mercer and Len Woodward.

Detroit Tigers Win Japanese Game 6-2

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, sparked by Bubba Morton's hitting, defeated the Daimai Orions-Yomiuri Giants All-Star team 6-2 today.

It was the Tigers' second victory against one defeat and one tie in their 17-game Japan good-will tour.

Saturday will appeal to any guy with a gun who has a yen to furnish his family with a feast of quail, chukar partridge or tree squirrels. The season opens all three.

From Mendocino and Lake counties south to the S.F. Bay area, populations of quail are above those of last year, while from S.F. Bay south through San Luis Obispo County, many areas have twice as many birds as last year. Bag and possession limit is eight in most of the state (consult DFG Hunting Regulations, 1962, for exceptions).

Chukar hunting also is rated as better than last year. Like quail, the season will run through Jan. 1 with certain exceptions as noted in the hunting regulations.

The same season, with certain exceptions, applies to tree squirrel hunting. Best public hunting for squirrels is expected to be in the Mendocino National Forest and Jackson and Boggs Mt. State Forests.

MONTEREY COUNTY reports squirrel populations twice the average of the last three years in the Nacimiento-Cone Peak area, and up about 50 per cent in the Chews Ridge area.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
IJ Fish and Game Writer

No significant changes are reported in Mendocino, Lake, and Sonoma counties, but populations are ample for hunters willing to put forth the effort.

Remember, please, it is highly important that you get permission to hunt on private lands.

OKAY, that's that for the bright hunting prospects anent quail, chukars and tree squirrels: Now how about a few blasts at Thanksgiving size turkeys?

On Sunday, the Niles Sportsmen's Club is staging one of its famous Turkey Shoots. Everybody is invited to come and shoot or just fraternize. There will be refreshments, ammunition, and entertainment for everyone. In addition there will be 40 turkeys given away to lucky ticket holders.

Incidentally, should you wish to sharpen that shooting ability, the club will have its running deer and trap fields in operation from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. So why not drive to the club grounds located on Mission Boulevard between Niles and Mission San Jose on Sunday and join the merry throng?

THE SAN LEANDRO Marina bass and rough fish derby last Sunday was a big success with participants from S.F., Alameda, Marin County and Contra Costa County.

Some 90 skiffs from the Marina brought in 200 bass but none over six pounds. The rules of the derby allowed fishing any place, and as a result, the lads who offered bait to bass in the Suisun Bay and environs copped the prizes. First prize ($75) went to Ron Marino for his 34-pound, five-ounce striper; second ($50) was taken by Art Peterson of Oakland with a 26-opund, nine-ounce fish. Walt Guiboa won $25 for his 20-pound, 11-ounce bass.

In the rough fish classification, Preston Blue won the $75 first prize with a 22-pound leopard shark, and a father and son team, Dave and George Silveria took second and third prizes ($50 and $25) on leopard sharks. Son, Dave's went 21-10, and Dad, George's, 17-4.

NOVATO COACH HAS BRAND NEW FOOTBALL STAR

Marlin Olsen, head football coach at Novato High, was all smiles today and it was not because his Hornet gridders have won their last two games.

His most recent smile is over his new football player, a seven-pound, seven-ounce son his wife, Silvia, gave birth to Tuesday at Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco.

The Olsens have one other child, a daughter.

Dayton 'Accepts' NCAA Ban

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Dayton Flyers, perenially among the top basketball squads in the land, are out of tournament competition for the next two years because of excessive transportation arrangements made for a freshman hotshot in 1960.

The Flyers, 1962 National Invitational Tournament champions, were grounded yesterday when the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. council, winding up a three-day fall meeting here, ordered a two-year probationary period for the university.

The action, the result of illegal transportation provided on four instances to Roger Brown of New York two years ago when he was a freshman, knocked Dayton out of the post-season NCAA championships as well as the NIT and all other holiday tournaments except one in 1963 to which the Flyers already were committed.

The exception will be the 1963 Holiday Festival a year from December in New York's Madison Square Garden. Prior to the probationary action, Dayton had accepted an advance invitation for the festival and had signed a formal contract to compete.

In Dayton, the Rev. Raymond A. Roesch, university president, said "we accept the penalty imposed by the NCAA committee on infractions and will continue to make every effort to abide by all the laws and by-laws of the NCAA."

Dayton's violations included transporting Brown from his home in Brooklyn, N.Y., to enroll at the university, and during the 1960-61 season, when the 6-foot-5 former schoolboy ace was on the freshman team, paying his round trip transportation to New York three times for personal matters.

Father Roesch said Brown's trips were for appearances in traffic court in New York following an automobile accident in which he was involved and added: "The athletic department was motivated by what it judged to be a hardship case and felt that it was justified."

Mrs. May Wins In Indian Valley Golf

Idle Warriors Lead NBA As Hawks Lose

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore made its point. Detroit didn't make enough.

Baltimore, bidding for a 1963 National Basketball Assn. franchise turned out a respectable 4,912 for the first of seven NBA shows at the Maryland city this year and saw the well-balanced Syracuse Nats trim St. Louis 126-108.

In Detroit, the Pistons remained the NBA's only winless team, losing their sixth consecutive game as the Boston Celtics breezed to a 115-100 decision.

The Nats and Celtics are tied for first place in the Eastern Division with 4-1 records. The Hawks' loss dropped them out of first place in the West. Idle San Francisco took over with a 4-1 mark to St. Louis' 5-2.

The Warriors, meanwhile, asked for waivers yesterday on Dave Gunther, reserve forward who played his college basketball at the University of Iowa.

The Warriors said Tom Meschery, a regular recently released from a tour of duty with the Army, would be reactivated today, making it necessary to release one man to get down to the NBA's 12-man limit.

In the other game last night, the Los Angeles Lakers playing at home, ran off from the New York Knickerbockers, 115-95.

Baltimore, which hasn't had an NBA team since 1954, saw a tight game until midway of the third period when the Nats' Hal Greer and John Kerr led a spurt that turned a 72-71 edge into a 94-81 lead. Greer scored eight points and Kerr five during the spree. Kerr wound up with 26 points, and Greer with 19, but St. Louis' Bob Pettit took scoring honors with 29.

Cops Called To Break Up Seals Riot

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Police were called last night to break up a riot involving the Spokane and San Francisco Western Hockey League teams, which resulted in an injury to a feminine spectator, eight major penalties, and the game being called in a minute and four seconds remaining.

The fight at the Spokane arena began with San Francisco's Larry McNabb and Connie Madigan of the Comets slugging it out. Both benches emptied and five separate fights broke out. During the melee Spokane Coach Roy McBride was knocked to the ice.

The police swarmed on the ice but it was still several minutes before fighting subsided. Referee Lloyd Gilmore meted out major penalties to four members of each team and called the game. Spokane won, 4-0.

In more placid action around the WHL, Edmonton got two goals from Forbes Kennedy to down Calgary 4-2 and Portland moved into first place in the southern division with a 7-4 win over Los Angeles.

In the Spokane-San Francisco bout, goalie Claude Dufour registered his first shutout of the season for the last-place Comets. Gordie Stratton led the scoring with two unassisted second-period goals.

Now Is A Good Time To Buy That Used Boat You Wanted

Are you planning to buy a good used boat? Fall is an excellent time to find one, because so many owners place their boats for sale this time of year. And they usually do so because they plan to rebuy. They are now interested in a larger model, or perhaps another design.

Buy now, and you'll have the winter months to get acquainted with your rig. Enjoy tinkering with it, glamorizing it. And there will be things you'll want to change YOUR WAY, personalizing it. The previous owner had the battery box in the left hand corner. So assert yourself. Install it in the right. The boat's blue. Make it a gay Comanche red. It's named "The Plugger." Give her the benefit of the doubt. Rename her "Scat."

If you're examiniing a used fiber glass boat, open the bilge access plug and pump out the condensation in the floatation chamber beneath the cockpit sole. Finally, launch the boat and check it for leaks. Pay no heed to the owner who may be chewing his nails. Leave it in the water at least an hour. Then test it under power.

SOME OF THE early models developed longitudinal cracks, and this will show up in slow leaks. Other cracks resulted from fatigue or from too much flexing. Push down hard on the topside with your thumb. This may cause the seller some anguish, but if you notice the hull bending beneath the pressure, you can be sure of one thing: The construction was too light.

The owner of poor marine merchandise knows it's inferior, although he may attempt to justify it. Move on to the congenial seller who has nothing to hide. You'll get a better buy!

Statistics show that more boats are used for fishing than any other single purpose. Yet even in this specialized area of boating, there is really no all-purpose craft. A simple rowboat might be just the item for your particular needs. On the other hand, complications might cause you to select an inboard or outboard. Your taste and bank account may lead you to the large "sport-fisherman" equipped with outriggers, a tuna tower and harpooning pulpit. Yet no one dream-boat will do EVERYTHING.

ARE YOU THE buyer who says, "I want a boat, but every penny has to count"? Then you should think also in terms of low maintenance—a big consideration. Examine the well-constructed lighter-weight boats. Those made of aluminum and some made of plywood. These make for lighter work too, when launching or loading a car top or trailered boat. It costs money to tow a boat. If you don't believe this, let your gas mileage speak for itself. Tow your rig 100 miles and keep track of your gas consupmtion. Make the same run again without the load and and check again.

While no one operational item represents a great expense, collectively, over the time your boat's in service, it can really add up.

Have a look at Marin's boat dealers' used boats — or the new 1963's. And look through the classified ads. The boat you want is someplace "out there."

A HALLOWEEN PARTY—an annual fun event of the Marin Ski Club members—was on schedule Saturday night. Fifty costumed clubbers and guests ghosted and witched in the American Legion Hall in Larkspur. Traditional snapping at bobbing apples, games and dancing went on until the stroke of midnight when a potluck buffet dinner was served.

THE SAUSALITO CRUSING Club's Halloween affair, featuring a steak dinner, was reported a huge success. John Gudelj headed the committee. The club house was the spot, and members and guests from Fort Sutter Club in Sacramento set the attendance at 85. These out of county guests powered down by boats, reporting smooth water, high overcast, and good cruising.

MRS. HAROLD J. EVANS watches as her daughter, Carole Christine, hugs her Spanish pajama doll with fur hair. The two are visiting her parents the Rev. and Mrs. George Loftness in Corte Madera. The Evans are visiting from Madrid, Spain. On display are several of Carole's handmade Spanish dresses.

Visitor From Madrid Tells Of Life, Spanish Fashion World

By PATRICIA ZINN

Living among a friendly people with the excitement of flamenco dancing, bullfights and soft guitars is Mrs. Harold J. Evans, who with her young daughter, Carole Christine, is now visiting her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. George Loftness of Corte Madera.

In Madrid, where her husband is the deputy superintendent of American Dependent Schools in Spain, Mrs. Evans has also enjoyed living in the capital of the city whose designers have captivated the world with this season's "Spanish Look."

AS A WRITER for a weekly American paper in Madrid, "The Guide Post," the attractive daughter of the retired pastor of the Marin Lutheran Church and his wife, has an insight into the world of both women's and children's fashions.

In discussing and displaying ensembles from the wardrobes which she brought to this country for herself and Carole, Mrs. Evans pointed out that most of her clothes were custom made and that everything is handmade for children.

IN SPAIN, she said, "All the children dress alike and as the Spanish like very short children's clothes, the little boys wear short pants the year around. She also remarked that Princess Grace of Monaco buys many clothes for her children in that country. Little Spanish girls have their ears pierced the day they are born and look adorable in wearing tiny gold or pearl earrings with their little dresses."

"Shopping for clothes is different in that customers sip sherry in the shops while designers, weavers and seamstresses make not only the garment but also the accessories as hat and handbag."

CUSTOM MADE clothes are relatively inexpensive as are most services in this country where one can live luxurtously on an average income.

The mother and daughter will conclude their six weeks visit the middle of this month.

SHOWING THE Spanish fashions which have had such an influence on the world this season, Mrs. Evans wears a handknit dress trimmed in fringe. She shows a custom made suit with matching purse and hat along with a replica of the toreador's jacket. (Independent-Journal photos)

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Parties For Bridal Couples, Newlyweds' Reception Slated

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Parties for engaged couples and plans for a reception for a recently married Marin couple have been revealed. Mrs. William H. (Ruth) Price and Ronald Brindley of Mill Valley who are being married this afternoon in Las Vegas, were honored Saturday night at a formal dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Podich at their Los Altos home. Covers were laid for 30 friends of the honored couple, mostly from San Francisco and the Peninsula. An orchestra played during the dinner hour.

Ron and his bride on return from a honeymoon in Nevada and Southern California, will live in her Kent Woodlands home. While they are away the house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Campbell (Margaret Obach) of Kentfield. The Campbells were married Oct. 20 at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel and Marge's mother, Mrs. Anna Marie Obach, came from Southern Califronia for the ceremony. Bob, film producer with Gordon News Film Co. in San Francisco, and his bride will entertain about 200 friends at a reception at Golden Gate Yacht Club in San Francisco, Nov. 10.

Ruth and Ron, accompanied by Gus and Peg Niederhoizer of Kentfield, flew to Las Vegas this morning. The Niederholzers are to be the wedding attendants. Ron and Ruth are going to New York in December and are planning a cruise to the South Pacific early next year. Ron is an advertising executive.

Mrs. James Guilder of Greenbrae honored Ruth at a luncheon last week. Other guests were Mesdames Sherman Beers, Benedict Giusto, Karl Siewart, Howard P. Haswell, Elliott Seymour, Alfred Kuehl, Peter Giovanzana, and Niederholzer.

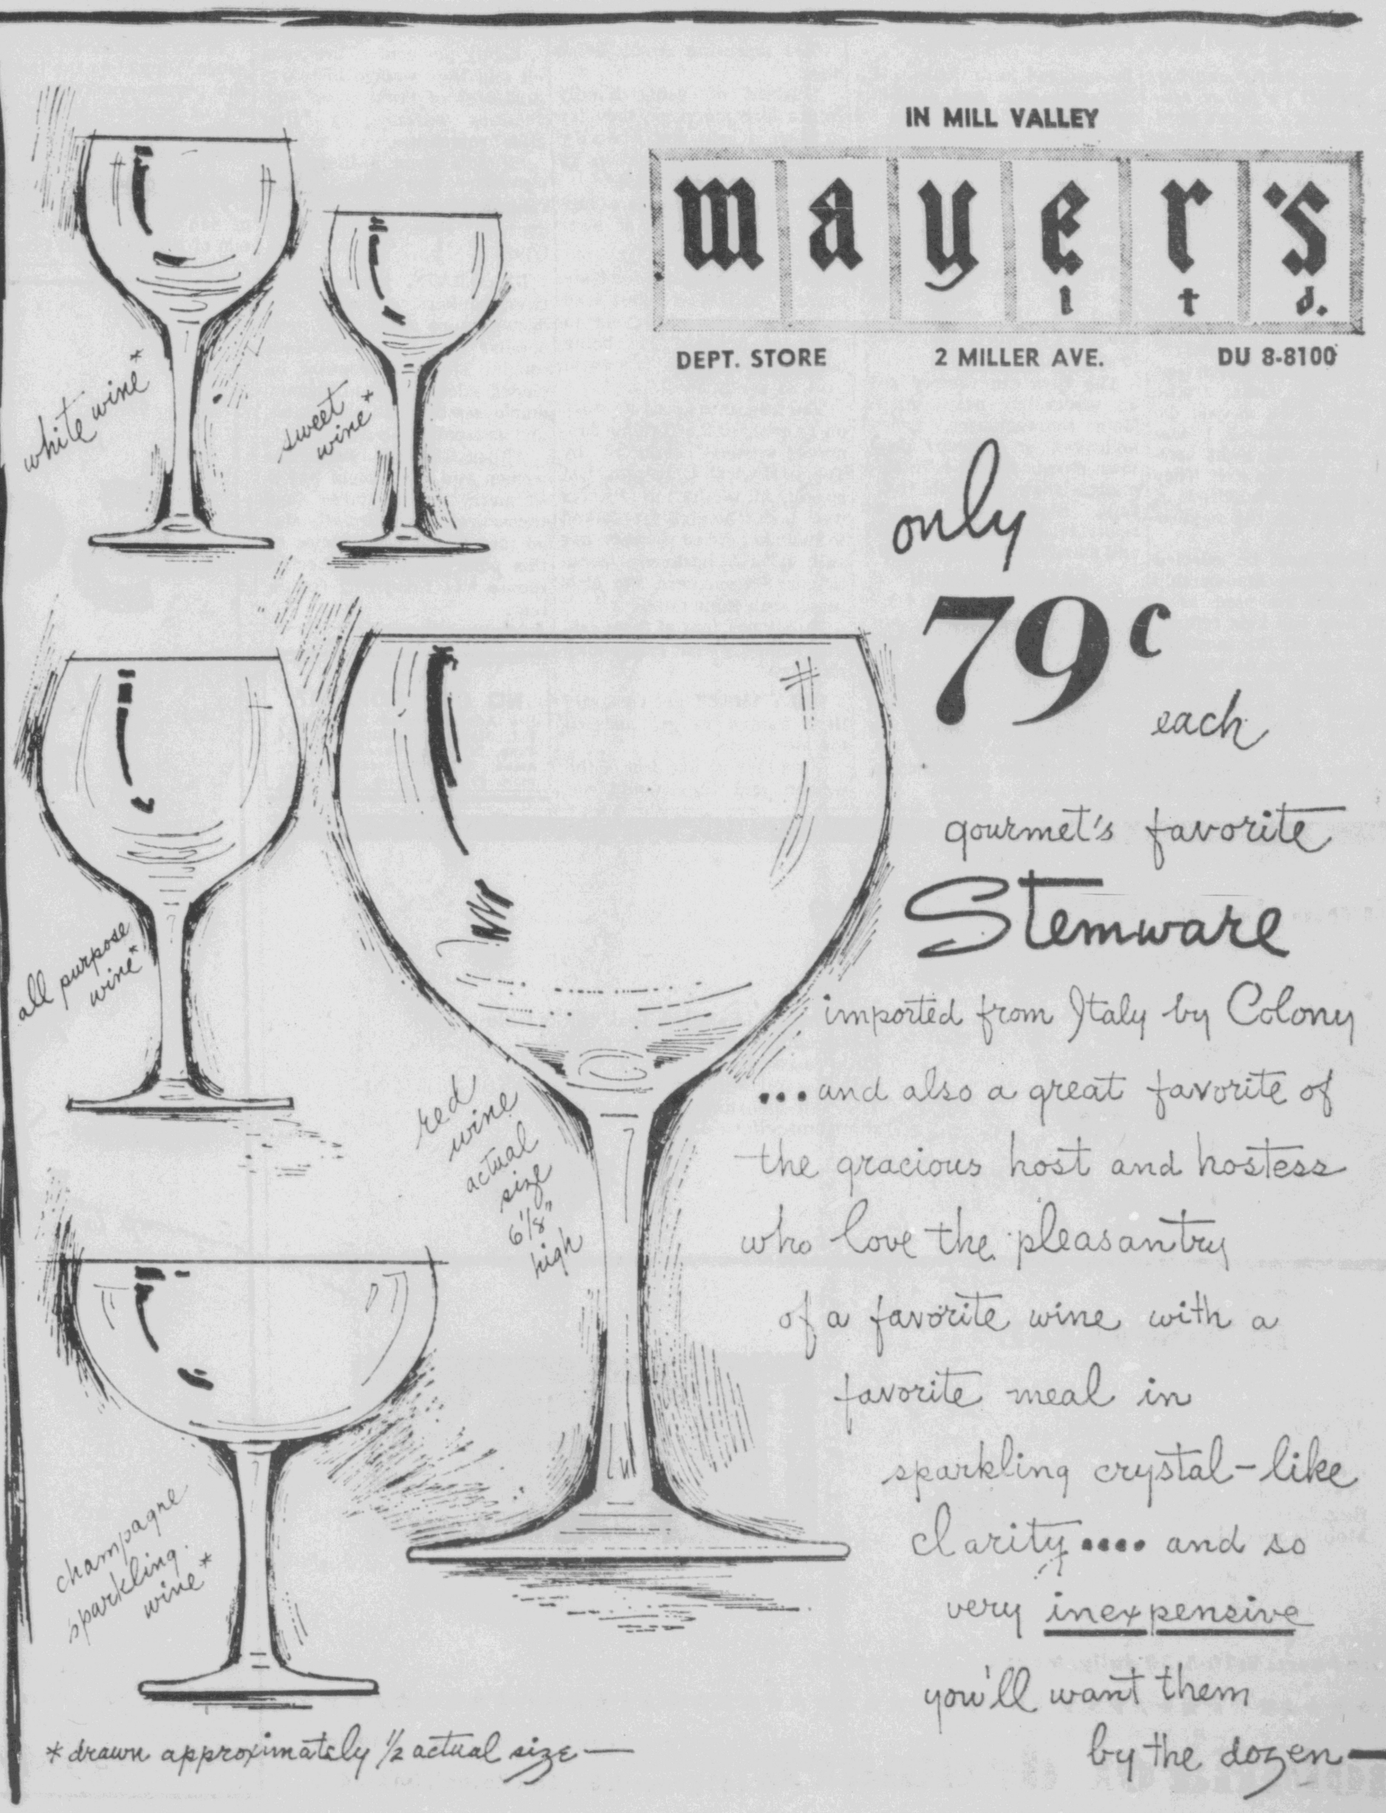
UNEXPECTED was the reunion in Japan of three Marinites. Mrs. E. A. Peters of San Rafael, who is making a tour of the Orient with her husband, Lieutenant Colonel Peters, in her letter to me written Oct. 28 and mailed in Manila, said: "A very strange thing happened in Tokyo." They were on a special train from Tokyo bound for Nikko to attend the Festival of Fall Leaves. "So in all that crowd we sat across the aisle from Mildred Dunshee of Winship Park with her friend Elsie Semrau (of Berkeley). I'd heard she was coming to Japan but in a city of more than 10 million, never expected to see her." Colonel and Mrs. Peters spent 24 days in Japan. They were three days in Manila and left there for three weeks in Hong Kong. Jean Peters wrote they would go to Bangkok, Singapore, Malaya, then to Australia, traveling from Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne and finally to Perth to visit their long time friend, Eva Penn.

Milly Dunshee and Elsie Semrau who worked together a year in Europe for the Red Cross carefully planned the round the world trip they are making. Milly has a three and a half months leave from her secretarial position at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. The two have arranged to stop for four days each month in some of the beautiful places they come to on the seashore or in national parks.

They'll ski in the Himalayas, fly from one large city to another and tour the countries by bus and train. Elsie and Milly were in Hawaii a short time, then went to the Philippines. They left Japan for Formosa yesterday and will fly to Hong Kong, Indonesia, Bali, Singapore, Cambodia, New Delhi, Bombay, Darjiling, Madras, Colombo, Damascus, Cairo, Beirut, Jerusalem, and Tel Aviv. They'll fly back to New York from Israel.

DATESETTER, U.S.A.

Gentleness marks the season's most elegant Datesetter fashions. Soft fullness prevails in this shapely bell skirt below a tightly fitted bodice . . . scooped and sleeveless for very special evenings. Cotillion formals designed this prom parfait of William Rose' dazzling metallic brocade of acetate, mylar and nylon in moonbeam white, green and silver.



ELEGANT LIVING ROOM

A feeling of serenity is created by this living room from "Decoration and Design 1963" the world's largest design show, sponsored by the American Institute of Decorators. Done by Joseph Braswell and Inman Cook, it carries out a Palladian architectural theme with solid vinyl walls of forum gray. The room is accented by a landscape painting over the sofa and a delft porcelain tulipiere holding flowers in the window arch.

Given Proper Safeguards Junior Traffic Control Plan Effective

"Is it safe to let young boys direct traffic?" a father asks. "In the past we haven't needed any traffic control at our school, but now we do. The P-TA suggested hiring a retired policeman to direct the cars during the rush hours. County authorities refused to spend the money. Now our principal is organizing a traffic patrol of fifth and sixth grade boys. He says they can do the job. Can they, safely?"

Yes, they can. When I first heard of the junior traffic patrol plan, I felt as you do. But I soon learned I was wrong. Given the right safeguards, the boys do well. They direct traffic near hundreds of schools. Here are the requirements:

The Boys must be selected carefully. Patrol membership never should be used as a trick to help bad kids reform. Only the wisest, the most dependable boys can do the job. They should earn patrol membership by good citizenship during all their years in school.

The boys must be properly trained. A police officer should be assigned to drill them. Military precision and discipline are needed.

The boys must wear distinctive clothes. A bright red cape, for example, and a special cap. They should stand out from other children who may be near them.

The boys must work from the curbs. They never should stand in the street. They shouldn't be where they're apt to get hit.

The boys can succeed only on moderately busy corners. Main thoroughfares, arterial highways, or crowded downtown streets should have automatic signals, or adult traffic cops. Boys cannot control really tough traffic situations, and shouldn't try.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "I'm a boy of 14. I hate my stepmother. She doesn't give me enough food. If I complain she beats me with a long leather whip. Could I go live with my grandparents?" G.R.

(A) Ask your father. He should be able to help you. If he can't, go to your county Probation Office.

Japanese Women Put Security Above Love

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's women, who took up the American idea of getting married for love after World War II, and reported going back to the old Japanese system of arranged marriage.

The magazine Asahi Geino says:

"Instead of going blindly into a love marriage, they try to steer a safe and steady course of cold calculation in choosing their husbands."

The magazine quotes a Japanese salesgirls view of marriage:

"IF HE IS a man I don't absolutely dislike or detest love will come, "its ridiculous to think of married life being based on love alone. The world isn't so sentimental."

The magazine based its story on a survey of 2,340 young Japanese women conducted by Tokyo Medical University last spring. All of the interviewers were men. The girls they talked to included office workers, bar and cabaret hostesses, beauticians, dressmakers, and girls living with their families.

Ninety per cent of them said that money is what makes marriage go.

ONLY THREE per cent said they wanted to get married for love alone.

More than 95 per cent of the women said they would not marry a man earning less than 25,000 yen (about U.S. dupl a month—the median Japanese wage.

"Otherwise we can't live," observed a 24 year-old textile factory worker.

Eighty per cent of the women said they wanted to marry graduates of "first class" universities working for "first class" companies.

"If he's from a first class university and with a good company, he has self-made credentials," observed a pretty typist.

DIPLOMATS, junior executives, bankers, engineers and doctors were among the most popular types of husbands sought. The least popular included salesmen, shop owners, employees of small companies, and newspaper reporters.

Although 60 per cent of the women said they would prefer to marry a man taller than themselves, they hurriedly added they would compromise on this point—if the prospective spouse was financially competent.

Viva La Liberte—French Women Taking To The Road

PARIS (UPI)—Women crowding to look at prettier French cars at the Paris auto show confirm that the woman driver, a new addition to the French scene, is here to stay.

Such features at the annual world-famed show of cars as models in pastel colors with colored upholstery and fingertip gear control indicate automobile manufacturers know that the French wife now has a say in the purchase of the family automobile.

More and more French families can afford automobiles instead of just motor scooters in these prosperous days. And women taking over the wheels are but one of the revolutions of French life in postwar years.

Now The Bowler

Pot and wear it. That's the heady fashion news from London. The pot? A hat that resembles the male's bowler. Pots, properly worn, sit on the head straight across the brow. Tilting makes the pot something it's not meant to be, say fashion pace-setters pushing bowlers.

Shoppers' Guide To Toys Can Help End Guesswork

When shopping for toys there is no more need to face row after row of boxes in self-service toy departments and wonder what kinds of toys are inside, how they work, if they are any good and if they are appropriate for this or that child. A new publication, Toy Shoppers' Annual Guide — 1962-63, claims to have the answers.

The guide, published by Toy Guidance Council, Inc., is a complete handbook, with 240 pages which are devoted to helping shoppers to buy toys sensibly and economically for children of any age. Articles by Dr. Benjamin Spack and other leading child development experts define the play needs of children and tell how to fill them. Also, the functional benefits inherent in over a dozen major categories of children's play equipment are described.

The Council doesn't pull any punches in its approach. Some of the most sensitive subjects concerning toys are faced squarely.

Toy Shoppers' Annual Guide is on sale where magazines are sold. It can also be obtained directly from Toy Guidance, Inc., 1 West 25th Street, New York 10, N.Y.

Great Fluctuation In Cost Is Created By Vitamin Units

(Editor's Note: Following is the third of three dispatches on vitamins).

By BARNEY SEIBERT

CHICAGO (UPI)—Why is there such a fluctuation in the cost of multi-purpose vitamin pills?

A spokesman for Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill., explained that the answer is on the label.

"We make three multiple vitamin mixtures. One is low priced, one medium priced and the other high priced. All contain vitamins A, C and D along with certain of the B-complex group. But in the low priced pill there are 5,000 units of Vitamin A, in the medium priced pill 10,000 units and the high priced pill 25,000 units," he said.

"Generally speaking, the higher priced pill contain more units of a given vitamin, and they may contain varieties of vitamins and minerals not found in the lower priced capsules," the spokesman said.

Which price range should the purchaser buy?

"I'M NOT A physician, but I would say that you shouldn't buy the highest potency (highest priced) vitamins unless a physician has suggested it," the Abbott spokesman said. "For the healthy adult the low priced vitamin mixtures are adequate. In case of illness you might want to go to the medium priced capsules. Low or medium priced multi-purpose vitamins make up for imbalance in the diet. High priced vitamin capsules fall into the treatment category."

The drug industry believes the danger of an overdose of viatmins—of "vitamin intoxication"—has been overstressed.

An official of one drug firm said, "I'm not trying to pick a fight with the AMA, but there are very few instances of this. While it is humanly possible to get an overdose of Vitamin A or D, the likelihood is one chance in many millions. On the other hand, extremely high doses of Vitamin A are sometimes given for therapeutic purposes. Some physicians prescribe daily doses as high as 100,000 units for certain illnesses."

DRUG INDUSTRY leaders accept with reservations the AMA claim that most people do not need vitamins.

"It is true that healthy persons who eat the five classes of food needed for good nutrition in the quantities recommended do not need supplementary vitamins. But there is a question of how many people get a normal diet," an industry spokesman said.

The ethical drug industry also admits there has been some misleading advertising for vitamins, but it blames most of it on "health food faddists" and door-to-door vitamin pill salesmen.

"OURS IS THE most policed industry in the nation," an industry official said. "We are regulated by the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

"The FDA requires us to have a stable product which contains only the substances and quantities specified on the label. The FTC polices our advertising."

Non-Academic Skill Needs Development In Early Age

By DAVID NYDICK

Is there more to learning than the academic subjects? The individual who is "handy around the house" has many skills. These special abilities are valuable and should be developed.

Many schools have included the development of manual skills in their total program. However, there is limited emphasis on these areas before the junior and senior high schools. Even at these upper grade levels, there is little or no attention given to these subjects for girls and boys enrolled in regular academic courses.

THERE ARE, of course, vocational type high schools, but these are only for those choosing the highly specialized programs. Generally, in the elementary school, the extent of these types of subjects depends upon the interest and ability of individual teachers and the limits of available equipment.

There are many opportunities for teaching these techniques to children. Judgment as to the age for introducing particular skills is important. As in all areas, individual children vary in growth rates. You can show a six year old how to hold a hammer, while you would consider it dangerous to have him working with electricity. The development of the basic abilities is necessary before the learning of the actual useful skill.

There is a direct connection between operating many toys and operating drills, screw drivers, and hammers. Watch your child as he plays and you will get an idea of when he has developed the physical ability to handle particular equipment safely.

YOUR PURCHASES of toys and games can be planned to include those which will help your child develop coordination. For the young child, you will find many devices such as building and construction sets, hammering toys, etc. As the child grows older, these items should become smaller and more detailed. The building of model cars and airplanes is helpful if they are not too difficult to complete. Do not give the child materials which are so advanced that he loses interest and becomes frustrated.

BEYOND THE USE of toys, you will have to be resourceful. Help your child understand how to repair minor problems around the home. Building a simple shelf, or putting a "do it yourself" table together all are part of this learning.

This field of education is highly dependent upon the efforts of parents. Your emphasis should be upon growth of confidence and a wide variety of skills.

The rewards of being handy are great. Besides the monetary savings, there is the wonderful feeling of accomplishment. (UPI)

News Must Not Be Used As Weapon Or We Are Lost

On Tuesday in Washington, Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, flatly stated that the government controlled release of news concerning the Cuban crisis as a "weapon" in the drive to force dismantling of Soviet missile bases.

To quote Sylvester:

"News flowing from actions taken by the government is part of the weaponry. In the world we live in, the generation of news by actions taken by the government becomes one weapon in a strained situation."

He declared that the whole emphasis of news releases was aimed at "speaking in one voice to your adversary.' And, he added, "The results, in my opinion, justify the methods we used."

The result to which Sylvester obviously does not refer is the breakdown of confidence in what he and his department will say in the future. Forever more, or at least until this attitude can be eradicated, the gnawing question concerning administration news releases will be, "what results are they after now?"

The Kennedy administration almost from the start has been under criticism for its "control" and "management" of the news. This is the first time, however, that such censorship policy has been designated as a "method" of getting "results."

The more you consider the situation, the more sinister Sylvester's words appear.

Democracy can not operate unless the people are informed truthfully and fully of what is happening. The declaration that news is a weapon is foreign to American thinking; it is a weapon only of totalitarian countries. Dictatorships and communist countries immediately take control of and eliminate the free press. The people are allowed to hear only the government "speaking in one voice."

Despots are used to such things and accept them for what they are. The American people are dependent upon reliable news. They have, until now, accepted the administration's releases at face value.

We acknowledge that in times of peril or crisis, all news media must accept the responsibility of self restraint in matters of security. In wartime, censorship is reluctantly accepted in the national interest.

But this is a long way from using news as a weapon, of attempting to manage releases so the nation will seem "speaking in one voice." On few issues do we speak in one voice.

Is Sylvester inferring that if he hadn't so cleverly managed the news, the results of the Cuban strategy would be different? We hope he doesn't believe this. It is too tenuous a rope to hang our foreign policy upon.

We hope the result of his boastful statement, however, will be a re-evaluation of news policy by the administration and a return to the democratic right of the people to know what their government is doing.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

Some 800 years after her death, the solicitude of an Englishwoman for the poor continues to have its effects.

To this day, as a result of her remarkable bequest, a supply of six pounds of flour is given to each adult and three pounds to each child in two small Hampshire villages.

Her husband, the story goes, who had little compassion for the poor, was impatient when she asked, shortly before her death in the 12th century, that he give something to the poor every year in her memory.

Setting fire to a branch, he told her he would donate the produce from as much land as she could crawl around while the branch burned.

Despite her weakened condition, she is said to have crawled around twenty-three acres before the flame died out. Touched by her love for others, her husband kept his word.

Let your own generosity for God's poor match the spirit, if not the manner of this good woman's bequest.

"Deep waters cannot quench love, nor floods sweep it away."
(Canticle of Canticles 8:7)

Make my every prayer, word and deed, O merciful Father, be a reflection of Your universal compassion.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By AL BOCK

Early Dark Hours Could Be Used To Prepare Us For Space Travel

Since daylight saving time ended a month later this year in California, we have been plunged into darkness more abruptly than usual, and this results in mixed feelings toward things in general.

Of course, it depends on which end of the day you prefer to dwell whether you have the impression of enveloping night in late afternoon or unexpected sunshine at 7 a.m.

If you're like Robert Benchley and sorely resent being jolted too early in the day, you probably are more concerned with the decline of day into night.

DAWN AS SEEN from our hideout in the Fairfax hills is a pretty grand event, somewhat Wagnerian with Mount Tamalpais, the Bay and a bit of Richmond all thrown in for good measure.

This is all well, but it somehow doesn't command the respect that a long night does.

First, there's real comfort in the realization that nightfall at the early hour of 6 p.m. marks the beginning, all at once, of winter. It brings an end to the uneven time of year when you know it's not summer and yet ragged edges of the day linger as though it should be summer.

GETTING INTO the heart of winter with no fooling around about it is reassuring. But at the same time, so much darkness so soon brings a disconcerting finality—as though we went out with the light.

Any uncertainty seems best put aside by surrendering to the night and crawling into a corner with a cozy Victorian novel. Even better, it would seem ideal to settle down for a long winter's nap.

This is a scheme which I understand is being closely studied by scientists. They seem to have the idea that man will be better off in a science fiction future if he imitates bears and other hibernating beasts.

THEIR PREMISE is that we face many long nights in the years ahead while waiting for our space ship to arrive at some distant planet.

The long trip might even result in our finding fault with our fellow passengers and proceed to tiresome carping and end in sulking. We might even come to blows.

If instead we could climb aboard the space ship and promptly go to sleep, these dreadful hours would cease to threaten us. After all, long rides on the train or bus were bad enough.

But this would be cheating, it seems to me. Maybe dangerous. What if Columbus and Sir Francis Drake had decided the trip to a New World would be pretty monotonous so they may as well sleep through it.

WHY GO INTO outer space at all if we don't especially care to see where we're going? Besides, we might miss a chance to get some first-rate color slides to bring back and show the family at Christmas.

I may welcome darkness and Oberon and all that. But I would just as soon stay awake as long as possible and try to find out what's going on, even if the light isn't too good.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Don't Abandon Bay Master Plan

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The enclosed copy of my letter addressed to the Marin County Supervisors is self-explanatory. As you can see, it was caused by your alert reporting, for which I wish to thank you.

Board of Supervisors
San Rafael

I am very much perturbed by an article in the Independent-Journal of Oct. 24. This news item indicates that you are about to "get rid of the Richardson Bay Master Plan."

If I get my facts right, I must express my surprise that the Board of Supervisors—a body representing a majority of the voters of Marin County—are ready for an action which is indistinguishable from complete capitulation. I venture to doubt, whether this capitulation is really in the interest of the voter, and furthermore, whether it should be done at all.

As one of the reasons for abandoning the master plan, we are offered the very obvious fact that some developers, able to pay for good legal advice and willing to run certain risks, have for some time been acting in defiance of existing zoning laws and related regulations. Neither this reason, nor the additional difficulty of not having an organized canal assessment district to negotiate with, should prompt the supervisors to abandon the existing master plan.

Mr. Allen's reported statement, ". . . Rescind the master plan so the tideland owners will know how they can go ahead . . ." is only another way of describing the complete anarchy resulting from such action.

Apart from doubts regarding the legal aspects of "abandoning" the master plan, I respectfully urged the board not to void this plan as a whole or in parts without at the same time—in fact, with the same motion—replacing it by an amended version.

In this connection I urge the board to keep in mind, that the bulkhead line of the existing master plan is based on careful considerations, of flood problems. Redrawing this line must not create a situation which will predictably involve the general public in substantial costs for locks, pumping stations, etc.

Water levels, sewer gradients and floods are physical facts; they are also engineering problems and like all such problems, they can be solved in a rational way.

However, such problems are not amenable to administrative decisions. The tides, having shown their disregard for King Canute's command, are unlikely to show more respect for the Board of Supervisors of Marin County.

Why Smoking In Library?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Being something of a newcomer in Mill Valley I have hesitated to criticize the operation of the Public Library, which I sometimes visit. However, enough is enough.

This evening it was quite apparent that insufficient ashtrays are provided for teenaged smokers. For instance, only two trays on one table, whereas at least four would have been a minimum requirement.

Ashtrays are inexpensive items; surely, Mill Valley should be able to meet the demand here, especially for 13, 14, 15-year-old types who could not reasonably be expected to bring their own. Or am I being unreasonable?

Possibly, of course, I'm just out-of-date. You see, over the years, in the course of visiting well over 100 public libraries throughout these United States, your correspondent has acquired what might be called a conditioned reflex. He doesn't even think about smoking in a library, because in any he has ever previously visited, such a move would induce an instant Out-OUT-OUT! reaction on the part of the librarians.

As would the high-beam conversations which so often annoys visitors of the old-fogey type, down here, or over here, in Mill Valley.

Probably all the result of—how do they call it?—fallout, maybe.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

GOP Plans Pep Rally, Democrats Big Parade To Wind Up Campaign

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

Republicans are going to kick up their heels tomorrow night in a gala pep rally in Bermuda Palms and the Democrats plan a day-long "all candidates" parade throughout the county Saturday in their big campaign windups. Both are perfecting telephone and personal contact programs in the precincts to get out the vote next Tuesday.

Tomorrow night's affair is designed for Republican precinct workers and will feature humorous skits by local GOP clubs, a mock political convention (so I'm told) and a featured speech by Joe Martin, Jr., of San Francisco, state national committeeman. (If the party goes the way it's being planned, he'd better be funny.)

Edwin W. Thomas of San Rafael is chairman of the rally, scheduled to start at 8 p.m., assisted by William D. Keeler of Mill Valley as program director. Henry B. Grandin, Jr., of Ross is master of ceremonies.

The Democratic parade and motor caravan will start Saturday morning in Marin City and wend its way through the county, winding up in Novato in the late afternoon or early evening.

Sponsored by the Democratic County Central Committee and the Council of Democratic Clubs, the parade will move from shopping center to super market to street corner in an effort to whip up interest in the election, encourage Democratic supporters and get out the vote. Mrs. Elaine Guthrie is general chairman.

On Saturday, too, the Republicans plan an auto caravan for Congress candidate Don Clausen. It will start in Sausalito and go all the way to Eureka for a big rally there.

YOU MAY RECALL some weeks ago we reported about an internal fight in the Democratic Party over division of the Brown dinner revenues.

Seems Governor Brown's campaign was only scheduled to get 30 per cent of the proceeds but he wanted 50 per cent. The dinner didn't make as much money as hoped anyway, so other candidates were worried they wouldn't get much money for their campaigns.

Thought you'd like to know how it came out.

Some Solomon must have worked out the details. Governor Brown took 30 per cent and the other candidates got their proportionate share. Then the Democratic headquarters advanced to the Brown campaign the difference between what he got and what he would have gotten if he'd gotten 50 per cent. The Brown Committee in Marin agreed to raise and repay to the headquarters the about $800 which was advanced to the governor.

Everybody happy?

A POLITICAL DEBATE, or rather three of them, is (or are) scheduled Monday at San Rafael High School. The Young Democrats (of high school years) and the Teen Aged Republicans will pit debaters against each other at assembly hours, we're told. The issue will be Edmund G. Brown vs. Richard M. Nixon. If you want to hear some hot political debating, you might drop by.

THE PROBLEM of financing political campaigns has always been a stickler. Therefore we're interested when a large concern starts and sticks to a program which involves its employees.

We've just received the report of Aerojet-General Corp. of Azusa and Sacramento, which in 1960 started a voluntary employee contribution plan to political action. This year more than 73 per cent of the 33,000 employees participated and the average contribution was nearly $4 each. The total was more than $95,000.

This compares with Aerojet's $3.20 average contribution for a $60,000 total from 25,000 employees in 1960.

The contributions were "substantially evenly divided" between Brown and Nixon and between Sen. Thomas Kuchel and his opponent, State Senator Richard Richards. Hundreds of other candidates also benefit, the company said, even $14.85 going to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona getting $139.72.

CONTROLLER Alan Cranston stops briefly in San Rafael tomorrow at a 5 to 7 p.m. buffet in the Democratic headquarters. He is making a two-day, 30-county swing just before the election. Members of his committee here, Democratic clubs, county central committee and Cranston worshipers are welcome.

President Knew How Far To Go So Neither Big Power Is Loser

WASHINGTON — The outcome of these anxious days shows that the President has used military force boldly and successfully to achieve a specific and limited objective.

Cuba is to be disarmed and neutralized as a strategic base in the Western hemisphere. There has been no appeasement and there has been no retreat or surrender. At the same time the President has obtained his objective without total blockade, bombing, or invasion.

This was possible because he sought a negotiated settlement which did not call for and does not mean an unconditional surrender. The crux of the settlement is the dismantling under UN supervision of the strategical weapons in return for the President's promise that Cuba will not be blockaded or invaded.

THIS RESULT could not have been achieved at all without readiness to use the military power of the United States, which in the Caribbean is overwhelming. But the results could not have been achieved simply and peaceably if the President had made his objective, not the dismantling of the bases but, unconditional surrender — that is to say, the dismantling of Castro's Communist regime.

To be sure, the United States is quite capable of invading Cuba and destroying the Castro regime. But it is not capable of doing this without serious losses (the current estimate has been 40,000 casualties) and not without unmeasurable conflicts with the Soviet Union and with our allies and friends all over the world.

LIKE A GOOD general, the President has known what to go for and where to stop.

The world will be impressed with Kennedy resolution. It wil lalso be impressed by his wisdom.

As in all good settlements, neither party is a loser and both are the gainers. President Kennedy has freed the United States and the Western hemisphere from a serious danger—that there would be established in our midst, and within reach of a desperate and somewhat demented Castro, sufficient nuclear power to strike a terrible blow without warning.

Chairman Khrushchev has freed himself of a dangerous entanglement in an area where the vital interests of the Soviet Union are not involved.

WE ARE NOT, of course, at the end of the Cuban problem. But Castro and his Cubans now know that they do not have the military backing of the Soviet Union, and that while they will not be blockaded or invaded by the United States, they will still be watched carefully and no adventures in Latin America will be permitted.

Castro will have to consider whether he can long survive with the economic support of only the Communist bloc, and how, if he can't, he can work his way back into the community of American states.

That is for the future.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You Ask For Whom The Bell Tolls? It Tolls For East's Bridge Hand

When you look at a hand in a bridge column, you have the advantage of knowing that somebody is supposed to do something bright.

If you were playing the same hand at the table, you might think it was a routine hand and therefore miss the point.

Nobody rang a bell to wake East up when today's hand was played, and he eventually discovered that the bell had tolled for him.

Opening lead — ♠ K

West opened the king of spades, and South shrewdly played a low spade from dummy.

He feared a six-card spade suit in the West hand and saw no sense in playing the ace of spades from dummy and forcing East to ruff.

DELIGHTED

East was delighted to see his partner's king of spades hold the first trick. He discarded the deuce of diamonds and waited for the next move.

Unfortunately, East had already missed his chance.

West could see that a spade continuation would do no good. The only chance was to cash the ace of clubs in the hope that East had the king.

But West could get only one club trick.

NO MATTER

No matter how West continued, South was sure to get in to draw a round of trumps and then ruff his losers in dummy.

If West hadn't taken the ace of clubs South would have discarded both clubs from dummy on high diamonds, and then declarer would have made an extra trick.

As it was, South made game and rubber.

It's easy to see what East should have done. He should ruff the first spade trick and return a club.

Then the defenders get two club tricks and West takes the setting trick with one of his trumps.

Today is Thursday, Nov. 1, the 305th day of 1962 with 60 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1765, the Stamp Act levied by the British crown to raise revenue in the colonies went into effect.

In 1960, John F. Kennedy, then a senator, denied that he was downgrading America in his presidential campaign speeches.

A thought for today: Former President Harry S. Truman said: "The responsibility for the great states is to serve and not to dominate the world."

Fontez, Lauterwasser Battle For Tax-Treasurer Job

Candidates Both Strong In Primary

STANLEY J. FONTEZ

Two victors in a four-candidate June primary contest will battle to a finish in Tuesday's vote for county tax collector-treasurer, sole countywide fight in the general election.

They are Stanley J. Fontez, 41, now on leave from his job of senior accountant in the office of county auditor-controller, and Russ Lauterwasser, 55, who is a former Larkspur city councilman, city treasurer and city clerk-tax collector-assessor.

Fontez, first to announce his candidacy last December, polled top vote of 15,295 in the primary. Lauterwasser announced second and ran a strong primary second with 13,275 votes. The other two candidates, Lucien D. Miller and Gordon Weld Strawbridge, between them drew a total of 14,414 votes.

Both Fontez and Lauterwasser have stressed their years of public service, each pointing to his own record as embodying special qualifications for the post to be vacated by retirement of M. F. Donohue.

Fontez has been able to claim direct acquaintance with the work of the treasurer's office through his service with the auditor. He has Donohue's support.

Lauterwasser attributes Donohue's support for Fontez to the incumbent's desire that his successor follow his own investment policy.

Fontez declares in rebuttal that he has no commitment to follow Donohue policies. He offers a three-point program which, if elected, he says he will implement:

1. Create more revolving bank accounts, paying by check rather than by warrant to obtain automatic reconciliation, with savings estimated at $2,000 yearly in clerical time.

2. Create an abstract of the unsecured tax roll, placing all delinquent taxes of a given individual on a single sheet of paper to avoid record search.

3. Install cash registers with paper tape to eliminate key punching of collections, estimated to save $4,000 yearly.

Lauterwasser, a contractor and developer, claims that his years of public service "have been honest, conscientious and efficient" and says he has proved his ability and will to achieve results in every job undertaken.

"I had many years of experience in handling other people's money, both as treasurer and in the investment business," Lauterwasser says "and deeply recognize the confidence required in this trust. I have always operated my office on a basis of economy resulting in savings to the taxpayers. I have been successful in all fields of business in which I have engaged."

RUSS LAUTERWASSER

Born in San Francisco and educated in schools there, Lauterwasser has lived in Marin County since 1924. He was elected Larkspur city councilman in 1937 but quit three years later when appointed city treasurer-budget director.

Thrice elected treasurer, he served 14 years until appointment as fulltime city clerk-tax collector-assessor in 1954. He resigned in 1957 to become a subdivider and developer.

Lauterwasser was for several years chairman of the governing board of the San Francisco Mining Exchange. He has been a director of several corporations, was chairman of the Republican County Central Committee in 1950, and was on the committee in 1940 and 1959.

He tried for a State Assembly seat in 1950.

With his wife, the former Grace Monaghan, and a daughter he lives at 111 Ridgeview Road, Larkspur.

Fontez also was born in San Francisco but came to Marin County when only six years old and has lived here since that time. He took accounting and political Science at San Francisco State College after attending Fairfax elementary and Tamalpais High School, then served four years in the army, winding up as first lieutenant after South Pacific and Far East duty.

His work record includes service with the Marin Municipal Water District and at San Quentin Prison. Fontez has been a licensed real estate salesman and a public accountant. He has elementary and secondary teaching credentials and has taught accounting, finance and tax matters for 14 years.

Fontez installed an accounting system for the Marin County Employees Retirement Fund and is technical adviser to the fund. He designed and installed major accounting systems used by the auditor's office. He has been certified in programming of electronic computers and systems.

With his wife, Florence, and three children, Fontez lives at 501 Heather Way, Terra Linda.

Dealer Expanding Facilities For Those Little Volkswagens

Leon C. Felton Co., Volkswagen dealer on Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, is in the process of expansion. New service facilities are being constructed two blocks away at Hoag and Mills streets.

The entire facility of 40,500 square feet includes a new building of 11,000 square feet to house the parts department, service space (with nine hoists and 17 working stalls) and offices. A new car salesman will be on hand at all times. Completion is expected in about a month by contractor Ron Antonioli. Lots of parking will be available.

Following completion, present quarters at Francisco and Harbor will be remodeled and devoted exclusively to new and used car sales, with more room to display them to advantage.

LARKSPUR floral director Katherine Eubanks will hold her seventh annual "Holiday Preview" Sunday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The all day open house will feature a wide display of Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday arrangements. A special with continuous showings is a new color film on Christmas arrangements — "Holiday with Flowers."

A. CLYDE JONES, president, and E. Douglas Roberts, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, attended the State Builders Exchange in Sacramento last week where Jones was elected to the executive committee. Roberts was previously on the committee as managers council representative.

Marin Builders Exchange will hold its annual dinner dance at the Meadow Club in Fairfax on Saturday, Nov. 10.

MILL VALLEY MEN in business: B. Albert Malone, branch office manager in San Francisco for RCA Communications, Inc., during the past seven years, has been appointed administrator of radiomarine sales for the Pacific Coast. . . G. Paul Leal of the sales force at Marin Bay has been awarded a Certificate of Real Estate as a result of studies at University of California's Extension Division.

"THE REASON FOR the recent stock market decline was simply that prices were too high and had to come down sooner or later," Charles F. Eaton Jr. told members of brokerage houses and security dealers today at a meeting held in the Bohemian Club, San Francisco.

Eaton, head of Eaton and Howard, trustees of two large mutual funds, is sometimes known as the "dean of the mutual fund industry."

He said inflation is still with us but is tapering off, adding that "deflation is. . . difficult to bring about, one of the reasons being that we have gotten a little used to inflation."

He noted that the recent Wharton report on the mutual fund business has amounted to giving the funds a clean bill of health and has had little detrimental effect on investor confidence, with fewer people turning in shares for cash than they did a year ago.

Eaton said California leads all other states in the purchase of mutual fund shares.

Discussion Due On Relocation In Marin City

Rights of Marin City residents with regard to relocation by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency will be explained at a meeting of the agency commission at 2 p.m. Monday in the Marin City Community Lounge.

Mrs. Florence Conland, relocation advisor of the Urban Renewal Administration in San Francisco, will answer questions and explain residents' rights.

"This issue has been raised frequently in the past several months," said executive director Bert Klahn.

The redevelopment agency will meet immediately following the Marin County Housing Authority, which meets at 1:30 p.m.

Sales of electricity in the United States are increasing by about 10 per cent each year.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cooler Weather Means Trouble For Circulatory Disorder Victims

VAN DELLEN

Cooler weather means trouble for the millions of people who have circulatory disorders. Victims of Raynaud's disease, for example, will develop the same degree of coldness of the hands and feet that occurs in normal individuals at freezing temperatures.

They have a poorly understood, inherited disturbance that makes the blood vessels in the extremities overreact to cooling. A slight chill causes the small arterioles at the ends of the fingers and toes to clamp down in a state of spasm. The skin over the digits becomes numb, cold, and blue or white in color. Shaking or rubbing the hands or feet does not help.

RELIEF COMES ONLY on getting warm. Heat relieves spasm and when blood surges into the affected parts, the skin turns red and may burn and tingle for some time thereafter. The feeling is comparable to taking a hot bath or shower immediately after being out of doors in sub-zero weather.

The nervous system controls the blood vessels and blanching of the fingers often is linked with anger or other emotional outbursts. This means Raynaud's syndrome can be brought on in the susceptible by periods of anxiety or frustration as well as by exposure to cold. This is an important consideration when considering treatment and also explains why those with this disease are not cured simply by moving to a warm climate.

VICTIMS OF POLIO, neuritis, frostbite, and trench foot also develop symptoms similar to Raynaud's disease. In these instances, the small blood vessels and nerves have been damaged and are hypersensitive to cold, as a rule, this type of circulatory trouble is more annoying than serious. The tissues suffer from a deficiency of blood in a small percentage of Raynaud's sufferers, leading to painful ulcers at the end of the fingers. Gangrene of an entire finger rarely if ever occurs.

Most individuals with this condition remain comfortable by wearing warm clothes, including gloves and wool hose, and avoiding overexposure to extreme cold. The removal of certain nerves (sympathectomy) in the back helps some, whereas others need psychiatric care. Drugs that relax the victim and his blood vessels usually are recommended.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

INHERITED DEAFNESS

D. K. writes: A mother and her two children wear hearing aids The father and husband has perfect hearing. Will the grandchildren develop this bony growth that causes deafness?

REPLY

There is a greater chance that these grandchildren will develop otosclerosis than if there were no family history of the disease.

SALT AND BLOOD PRESSURE

J. D. writes: Can a woman use salt on her food after medicine has brought her blood pressure down to 150?

REPLY

It is not advisable, especially if the medicine decreases the blood pressure by encouraging the kidneys to eliminate sodium.

LUNG SPOTS

R.Y. writes: If a calcified area is found in one lung of a man in his twenties, could this spot remain inactive through his lifetime?

REPLY

Yes. These lesions represent healed infections and contain calcium instead of scar tissue.

AGING EYES

A.N. writes: Is there a drug or treatment to retard aging of the eyes?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge.

Today's Health Hint—Anger, frustration or gloom will wear out the strongest man.

Marin Peace Officers To Nominate

The Marin Peace Officers Assn. will nominate officers at a business meeting at Hamilton Air Force Base Nov. 28.

The meeting will begin with dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the officers club, said Sgt. David L. McIntosh of Corte Madera police, program chairman. A quartet from the air base will entertain.

Officers will be nominated to succeed Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, president; sheriff's Deputy Robert Scheiner, first vice president; McIntosh, second vice president, and Sgt. Lincoln Borba of San Rafael police, secretary-treasurer.

Election will be on a date to be set in December, and installation in late January.

Two Boys Picked Up For Car Theft

Two Sausalito boys, 15 and 14, were placed in juvenile hall on auto theft charges after being caught in stolen cars Tuesday night near Christ Episcopal Church at 61 Santa Rosa Avenue, Sausalito.

The two were apprehended by reserve officer Herbert Smith after George Kowski and William Winkler, employees of the Sausalito Pharmacy, identified one car owned by Richard Less, also a pharmacy employee.

Less reported at 9 p.m. yesterday his 1962 Triumph TR-3 roadster had been taken from the city parking lot near the plaza. The other car, a 1962 Austin-Healey Sprite owned by Leon Sivertson of 1240 Morningson Drive, Mill Valley, was reported taken from in front of Sivertson's home.

Ohio production of farm products has increased about 35 or 40 per cent in the last 20 years.

Warrant Issued For Divorcee

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for Carole J. Anderson, a San Rafael divorcee, when she failed to appear for trial in San Francisco Municipal Court on charges of disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Anderson, whose last address was 175 Nova Albion Way, was arrested Sept. 5 at the Gold Street Club in North Beach, where she had been employed as a cocktail waitress, demanded final wages and refused to leave until paid.

Her trial was first set for Oct. 17, but was put over to yesterday due to conflicts in the court calendar. When she failed to appear, Judge Clayton Horn ordered bail forfeited and ordered Mrs. Anderson's arrest.

Tomales School Tuition Raised

Tuition for seventh and eighth grade students from Bloomfield who attend Tomales Bay School was raised Tuesday night by the Tomales Bay District trustees.

The Bloomfield district will be required to pay $250 per student in the future, according to Mrs. Lois Parks, clerk of the Tomales Board. The present tuition is $205, she said.

The Bloomfield School has only six grades and sends seventh and eighth grade students to Tomales Bay School. This affects only five or six students per year, Mrs. Parks said.

"Saay, the I-J's got more new features than me!"

Quite a family the Independent-Journal has adopted in the past twelve months—eleven lively new features.

Some to bring you more information, some for education, some for entertainment—all for better editorial service. An average of one new feature every 4 to 5 weeks!

Why so many? A matter of policy, based on editorial responsibility to the community. Yes, and a little pride. Marin is growing. As the journal of the entire county, it is our feeling that a newspaper must lead, not lag.

All the ink and paper in the world won't do it. It takes a feeling for the community . . . that comes only from living closely to your tastes, working closely to your needs. Our job then, is not only in reporting the news, locally and nationally, but in helping interpret events . . . helping to bring you new views, new ideas, new brighter facets of "the right to know."

To these eleven features, add one we keep constantly in the making—new and better ways to serve you.

Novato's Baget Enters Hospital

Novato City Administrator J. Julien Baget yesterday entered the Veterans Administration Hospital in San Francisco for treatment of a blocked nerve.

Baget missed last night's meeting of the city council. "This is only the second time in seven years as city administrator that I have ever missed a council meeting," he said.

He has been off work since Thursday last week with trouble in his back. He said doctors have diagnosed it as a blocked nerve to the leg. He expects to be in the hospital about a week.

British Week Is Coming To San Francisco

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, will headline a gala "hands across the tea" celebration of London Week in San Francisco, Nov. 12 through 17.

Besides a peep at the handsome prince consort, visitors to the city also will have a chance to make free phone calls to London, sip ale in two authentic British pubs, ride on a red double-decker London omnibus, and inspect displays of British goods in numerous downtown shops.

FORMAL BANQUET

Prince Philip will attend the formal banquet of the English-Speaking Union (of which he is Commonwealth president) at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel on Nov. 14. He also is scheduled to take part in the organization's plenary sessions the following day at Hotel Mark Hopkins. Both affairs are open to ESU members and invited guests.

Of interest to Marin County is the Drake luncheon at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel on Thursday, commemorating the visit of the great English navigator to California's coast in 1579. Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz will preside. British Ambassador Sir Davis Ormsby-Gore will be present.

DAILY FEATURE

A daily feature will be a British exhibition in the St. Francis Hotel, with free cups of tea, brewed British-style. It is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and there will be daily drawings for six free phone calls to London. The St. Francis Hotel also will convert two of its rooms to "The Brittania Pub" and the "White Horse Cellar," with authentic ale and atmosphere.

The omnibus tickets are obtainable during London Week at the British Overseas Airways Office, 237 Post Street, for free rides about town.

FOREIGN EDITORS

Marin Redwoods Impress Visitors

The giant redwoods of Marin County were among the most impressive sights seen on a three-week tour of the United States, it was agreed by 13 top foreign editors who left the Bay Area on Tuesday.

"They were truly awe-inspiring," said Dr. Sandro Salvadori of Rome's "Il Tempo," after a visit to Muir Woods. "One could hardly believe there are such magnificent trees."

Dr. Salvadori and his colleagues, representing millions of readers from Melbourne and Tokyo to London and Hamburg, were guests of the Redwood Empire Assn. on a Sunday tour of the redwoods, capped by a late luncheon at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Fine weather plus a sailboat regatta helped contribute to the visitors' impression. They were the first journalists to be brought here by the U.S. Travel Service, as part of a "Visit America" program to acquaint more foreign travelers with foreign travelers with American attractions.

The Golden Gate Bridge was voted the most spectacular span seen on the nation-wide tour. Gaetan Fouquet of "Connaissance du Monde" in Paris was among those who photographed it thoroughly during the tour, conducted by Stuart Nixon, REA publicity director.

The editors spent part of the next day touring San Francisco, lunching at Fisherman's Wharf and taking an hour's boat ride down the bay and around Alcatraz, before leaving to the various destinations.

Los Angeles surrounds the independent cities of San Fernando, Culver City and Beverly Hills.

Atomic Energy Investment $213.7 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission's investment in plant and equipment in California totaled 213.7 million dollars July 1.

Projects under construction have a total remaining cost of 149.5 million dollars, including 114 million for the Stanford University linear accelerator.

The summary of plant investment was included in the annual financial report on nonsecret operations. Information on weapons and production inventories are excluded from the report for security reasons.

Most of the AEC California investments is in the Lawrence Radiation laboratory of the University of California.

Bartholomew Columbus, brother of Christopher, founded the first organized community in the New World on Aug. 6, 1496, in what is now the Dominican Republic. He named it Santo Domingo.

HOSPITAL ADOPTING NEW PLAN

Ross General Will Inaugurate Progressive Car

On Dec. 1 Ross General Hospital will adopt a new concept in nursing for its patients.

It is known as "progressive care" and will place patients according to the need for nursing. It will be the first use of such a program in Marin County.

At present various wards will have patients with varying needs for care. Under the new program, intensive care patients, those who are acutely ill or who need special nursing, will be in the second level of the west wing of the hospital.

Patients needing the average amount of care, about five to six nursing hours per patient per day, will be placed in the intermediate area to be located in the center of the second level.

Patients who have recovered enough to care for themselves will be in the self care area on the newly remodeled third floor.

A hospital committee was appointed last summer to study the proposal. The committee also requested comments from doctors on the plan.

The committee listed several advantages expected from the program:

"The patients who need special treatment and careful observation will all be where facilities and staff are readily available.

"The convalescing patient will be away from the atmosphere of acute illness and will be encouraged to care for himself in preparation for discharge."

The hospital recently has added a social service department under direction of Mrs. Janet H. Stump. She will help patients and their families arrange for home nursing care, find rest homes, learn of welfare or other financial assistance that might be available, and offer family counseling.

Relocation Of Shoreline Highway At Bolinas Is On Planning Agenda

A policy discussion on relocation of the Shoreline Highway along the Bolinas Lagoon is scheduled for the end of next Monday's session of the Marin County Planning Commission at 1711 Grand Avenue.

Both harbor and wildlife conservation aspects of the lagoon have recently been declared reason for special consideration of the state's plans for highway realignment in this area.

Also put at the end of the day's agenda are two reconsiderations, of the Mount Tiburon subdivision projected by Irving Moulin and others, and of the Sirvain development plans which are to be gone over again before final action by county supervisors.

Eichler Homes has applied for an adjustment to permit setbacks of less than the prescribed 25 feet for 58 one-family homes in Lucas Valley. This will be 21st item on the agenda.

Continued items coming at the start of the agenda from 9 a.m. comprise almost all the items affecting other than single-family applications.

First on the list is a continued hearing on a proposed amendment to the Marinwood Master Plan, designed to delete the elementary school site now projected for the intersection of Las Gallinas Avenue and the Lucas Valley Road and to redesignate the site for other uses.

The second item is Bowman Pollock's application for use permit for a 20-unit apartment house on Olema Road, a quarter mile west of Fairfax. First hearing has already been conducted.

A third continued item is the P. J. Tarrang application on plans for a 10-unit apartment addition to the Tarrang Building in North San Rafael. It will be followed by hearing on a use permit asked by Mary Lowell for instruction of 10 children daily in arts and crafts at Lyford's Hygeia, Vistazo East Street west of Matschek Drive, Tiburon.

Persons enrolled in college and professional schools at the beginning of the last school year numbered 3,731,000, an increase of about 850,000 over six years ago.

SALINGER ANNOUNCES BLOCKADE RESUMPTION

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced yesterday that the naval arms quarantine of Cuba was to be resumed at daybreak today. He said air surveillance of Soviet missile sites in Cuba would also be resumed. Salinger said President John F. Kennedy reached his decision after a conference with top advisers and after the departure from Cuba of U.N. acting Secretary-General Thant. (AP Wirephoto)

Soviet Satellites Appear Straddling Fence On Cuba

By GENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Apathy among the Soviet satellite regimes in Eastern Europe apparently was a factor in Premier Nikita Khrushchev's agreement to ship his missiles home from Cuba.

Many diplomats think Poland's Communist government for example, straddled the fence as much as it dared during last week's crisis.

There wasn't even a "hands off Cuba" demonstration outside the American Embassy in Warsaw such as occurred before the embassies in Moscow, London, Copenhagen, Tokyo and Prague.

U.S. diplomatic notes about the arms quarantine were fired back by the Kremlin. Similar notes got only polite oral rebuttals here.

Many a Pole privately abhorred the idea that the Soviet Union might fight over Cuba. "If there is war over Cuba, I have two requests of America," a Polish writer told this reporter. "First, don't use nuclear weapons. Second, win it."

Despite the sustained propaganda buildup, Castro and his bearded cohorts are not regarded as comrades in arms by many East Europeans.

About one-third of Poland's trade is with the West, and the country exchanges mail with perhaps eight million people of Polish stock in America and Western Europe. These are ties local Communist leaders cannot ignore when they consider a showdown over such a remote place as Cuba.

Polish Communist party chief Wladislaw Gomulka is thought to have considerable influence with Khrushchev. Presumably he counseled caution on Cuba.

Many Polish officials have indicated they had no advance knowledge of Soviet missiles in Cuba. The secret buildup is now being interpreted in two ways.

Some are surprised and dismayed that the Soviets would risk peace with such a step. Those who think more in terms of strategy feel Khrushchev made a smart move that may pay off for him by prolonging the life of the Castro regime.

They reason that completing the Cuban installations must have been a maximum objective which Khrushchev had little hope of achieving. So by yielding at the brink of war, the Soviet Union, they say, has a good chance to save Castro from what looked to the Communists like a threatened U.S. invasion.

These Polish Communists consider President John F. Kennedy's statement that Cuba will not be invaded a distinct gain. They want it backed up with a guarantee of Cuban sovereignty.

Troops Dig In For Stay At Key West

KEY WEST (AP) — American troops strung barbed wire barricades along a portion of the Key West shore facing Havana 90 miles away and appeared today to be digging in for an extended stay.

Military installations, rushed here during the Cuban crisis, were at the alert, while patroling by armed planes continued around the clock.

Military equipment and some fresh troops continued to arrive.

Machine-gun emplacements on the beach, behind the barbed wire, were piled with sandbags.

However, a flight up the Florida Keys—the chain of coral and sand islands stretching from the Florida mainland in the general direction of Havana—revealed no military preparations there.

There were no guards on the pipeline whcih carries water down the keys, or on the island-hopping highway.

No military installations were visible from the air north of the Key West area, where portable radar units and anti-aircraft missiles guarded by soldiers in sandbagged foxholes, have been dug in.

The airstrip at Marathon, about midway up the keys, appeared almost deserted, in contrast to the Boca Chica Naval Air Station near here, where the sun glints off rows of fighter jets rushed here for the emergency.

News 'Weaponry' Held As Threat

MIAMI (UPI) — The president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors said yesterday the Defense Department's present policy of using newspapers and major wire services for cold war propaganda "poses a dangerous threat to the American public." (See editorial, page 30.)

Lee Hills, executive editor of the Miami Herald and other Knight newspapers, made the protest in a telegram to Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

The telegram was in reply to an official statement by Sylvester that "news flowing from actions taken by government is part of the weaponry" in the Cuban crisis.

Copies were sent to President John F. Kennedy and the wire services.

The telegram said:

"Your statement that 'news flowing from actions taken by government is part of the weaponry' in the Cuban crisis comes as deep shock to responsible newspaper editors. Having only recently returned from the Soviet Union where controlled news is standard Kremlin policy, I feel strongly that any manipulation of the news in free societies imperils the right of the people to be fully informed under our Democratic processes.

"Your view that the 'results justify methods' and that such a policy will continue as a propaganda weapon of government poses a dangerous threat to the American public which cannot make independent judgment without accurate information.

"The press has demonstrated its willingness and ability to cooperate and protect national security, but it must not be used as an implement to mislead the public."

The telegram did not draw comment from Sylvester, a reporter of 37 years experience himself.

Sylvester said in Washington he would withhold comment on the telegram for the present, but added he had no intention of trying to manage or stop the flow of news in a "normal situation."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Three Die In Halloween Traffic

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—Three boys, out for Halloween's traditional trick-or-treat, were killed by automobiles in the Muskegon area last night.

Two brothers—Judson York, 11, and Alvin, 7, were struck by a car one mile from their Muskegon township home. They were dead on arrival at Huckley Hospital.

The driver, Earl Roomsburg, 27, of Muskegon, said the boys were walking along the side of the road when they suddenly turned into the path of his car. Roomsburg swerved, but his right fender struck the boys. He was released after making a statement to police.

David Vaughn, 8, of suburban Fruitport Township was struck and killed by a car while he was out celebrating Halloween with his twin brother and a sister.

N.Y. News Struck

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily News — largest circulation newspaper in the country — was struck and shut down by the New York Newspaper Guild today.

Mediation efforts, including one by the mayor of New York, proved fruitless and the strike threatened to spread to the other six major dailies in this city of eight million.

The Guild, finding itself in a deadlock over wages with all of the publishers, has vowed to strike each of the newspapers, one by one if no settlement is reached, and it picked the News as its first target.

The Guild sought a general 10 per cent wage increase, and a weekly top minimum wage of $200.

Mrs. FDR's Condition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was reported still in serious condition today, but a family spokesman said "she is better than holding her own."

The 78-year-old widow of President Franklin D. Roosevelt has been ill since Sept. 26 when she was hospitalized with a lung infection and anemia. She was released from the hospital Oct. 11 and has been confined to her apartment.

Cable Indictments

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Four of six big aluminum conductor cable manufacturers indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of price fixing have vigorously denied the accusations.

The six firms, suppliers of 90 per cent of the aluminum conductor cable sold in the United States, were charged with conspiring to fix prices in violation of the antitrust laws between June, 1958, and August, 1960.

Denials came from the Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh; Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., New York; Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Sales Inc., Oakland and Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., New York.

Also indicted yesterday were the General Cable Corp., Perth Amboy, N.J., and Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond, Va.

Pay Boost Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The California State Employes Assn., contending the salaries of its members are 2.4 per cent behind private business, today asked for a five per cent pay raise for state workers next year.

The proposal was made to the State Personnel Board, which makes recommendations on state employes' salaries to the governor each year.

Conference Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy canceled the news conference he had scheduled for today. The White House said the conference would be rescheduled when the Cuban situation is "clarified."

Three Die In Fire

MORGAN HILL (AP) — Three persons, including two children, burned to death in a fiery car-truck collision last night.

Their bodies were charred so badly that hours after the accident on U.S. 101 four miles north of here the children remained unidentified.

The operator of the auto was identified as Jesse Caudillo, 38, Santa Clara.

Operator of the truck, Donald B. Stockton, 50, South San Francisco, was not hurt.

Star's Kin Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Griffin, 78, father of actress Debra Paget, died Tuesday of a heart ailment.

Fireball Flashes In Atom Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — A fireball flashed across the Pacific today as the United States set off its fourth high-altitude nuclear device in eight attempts above tiny Johnston Island.

A brilliant series of rainbow colors, visible here 750 miles from the test area, lighted the skies for almost a minute before blending into the darkness.

The fireball wasn't expected to be visible here and observers were surprised by the sudden brilliance of the sky. The flash of last Friday's blast was barely visible through the clouds.

The device, sent aloft an estimated 30 to 40 miles last night by a Thor booster, packed a nuclear punch in the submegaton range, equivalent to between 20,000 and a million tons of TNT.

Joint Task Force 8 officials had held up the shot for nearly four hours because of apparent technical difficulties.

Four earlier attempts to detonate nuclear devices above Johnston fizzled because of malfunctions in the Thor missile tracking system.

Another high-altitude, low-yield test is planned for Saturday, possibly the concluding shot in the current test series that began last April 25.

Garberville Fire

GARBERVILLE (UPI)—A gasoline can exploded in an auto agency here last night, setting off a fire which destroyed the agency and an adjacent hotel.

Automobile Heir Kidnapers Given 20 Years In Solitary Confinement

VERSAILLES, France (UPI) — Two men who kidnaped 4-year-old automobile heir Eric Peugot for $100,000 ransom in 1960 were sentenced last night to 20 years in solitary confinement.

The sentence of "criminal reclusion," pronounced by Judge Pierre Jacquinot, is the most severe permissible under French law. It was imposed on Pierre Larcher, 39, and Raymond Rolland, 26, who also were sentenced to work at hard labor during their imprisonment.

The verdict climaxed a three-day trial in which both men confessed to full details of how they kidnaped Eric from the sandlot of St. Cloud Golf Course west of Paris April 12, 1960.

They also told how they collected a $100,000 ransom from the boy's father and spent most of it in a year of riotous living.

The kidnapers freed Eric on a downtown Paris street 56 hours after the kidnaping.

They were not arrested until March, 1961, when police tracked them to the luxury ski resort of Megeve where they were celebrating with their girl friends.

The sentence came after prosecutor Henri Toubas told the jury:

"Twenty years criminal reclusion, that is the maximum penalty. It is also the maximum indulgence because we do not want this crime which is virtually unknown in France to be repeated.

"I have spoken in the name of all the mothers and fathers of France. Do not let them down."

Defense lawyers Jean-Louis Tixie Vignancourt and Rene Floriot pleaded in vain for indulgence for the two kidnapers at the summing-up.

Everything Saved At This Office

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Bob Weaver, manager of a savings and loan branch office says he found the following items when he inspected the attic just prior to a change in location:

A school of purple wooden fish, a disheveled paper Santa, a cracked fishbowl, two handsful of plastic banks that predated everyone's memory and a barometer forecasting rain.

$100 For Tree To Civic Center

A $100 donation from the Marin County Assn. of Insurance Agents, Inc., to buy and plant a tree at the Civic Center, was accepted with pleasure by county supervisors Tuesday.

After reading of a letter from William McLaughlin, association secretary, with check enclosed, Supervisor Peter Behr said "this is a happy precedent and we must express our appreciation."

Architect Aaron Green was asked to recommend the kind of tree.

Lowest Illiteracy Rate Found In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Utah has the nation's lowest rate of illiteracy, according to Congressional Quarterly.

Only 3.3 per cent of the people in Utah are unable to read and write.

Alcoholism Costs $1 Billion Every Year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Members of the San Francisco Commercial Club were told yesterday that alcoholism is a "respectable disease" which costs an estimated billion dollars a year.

Speaking at a seminar on alcoholism in business and industry, R. Brinkley Smithers, president of the National Council on Alcoholism, emphasized that industry could save money by persuading victims of alcoholism—who include many top executives—to submit to treatment.

Such a program has been initiated in many industries including Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Allis-Chalmers, and Consolidated Edison.

Smithers said where such programs are in effect recovery runs from 50 to 65 per cent, whereas among the general public the recovery is only about 10 per cent.

"Among businessmen, victims are found chiefly among men who work irregular hours under heavy pressure," Smithers said.

Judge Gerald Levin, moderator of the seminar, noted, however, that the San Francisco council had had success in encouraging alcoholic housewives to report to its clinic at Presbyterian Medical Center.

Painter Denies Attack Charge

A 42-year-old Fairfax sign painter, accused of raping an 85-year-old Kentfield woman last Saturday, denied the charge yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

John Henry Bopp Jr., of 67 Spruce Road, Fairfax, appeared with his attorney, Thomas E. Schaal, before Judge Joseph G. Wilson. The judge set 11 a.m. next Monday as the time for a preliminary hearing.

Bopp is being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $10,500 bail.

Disc Jockey Colvig Sued For Divorce

Sausalito disc jockey Robert Colvig, 46, who drew headlines in December of last year when a San Francisco model stabbed her newborn baby and dumped it into his garbage can, is being sued for divorce in Marin Superior Court.

Pamela B. Colvig, 25, a free lance writer and former House of Charm model, filed for divorce today through her attorney, Jerome Berg of San Francisco. She had previously filed for divorce, but at the time of the baby death incident, she went back to him and "stood by him all the way," attorney Berg said.

She alleges that Colvig is earning $1,000 a month. She seeks reasonable alimony and community property including household furnishings and a 1958 vehicle.

They were married in Virginia City, Nev., in 1955 and separated last month. She is now staying in a motel in Marin.

The disc jockey was called in for questioning after a baby was found in his garbage can at 121 South Street, Sausalito, on Dec. 22, 1961. San Francisco model Antoinette (Toni) Wahlen, 24, later admitted she had delivered her own baby and dumped it in the garbage can.

Colvig was cleared of any connection with the baby's death.

Since the medical society adopted this position, Dr. Arons said, its disaster committee, headed by Dr. Weden, has been "extremely active" in preparing a realistic program for the county along non-war disaster lines.

The society has a continuing program of emergency care training for fire, law enforcement and ambulance personnel, said Dr. Arons.

The point of view of the committee and of the society was expressed in a report from the Marin Disaster and Civil Defense Council to the Board of Supervisors on May 29 of this year," said Dr. Arons. "We are not aware if any action has been taken on this report."

Dr. Weden said today that he knew of no board action on the council report, and that the board had never called the council together again.

Dr. Weden said he wanted to clarify his feelings and purpose in resigning from the committee. He said he did so without bitterness, and that he even telephoned Castro in advance to read the resignation letter and assure him that he was not resigning in anger.

Marin City Resident Beaten Up

A Marin City resident complained he was beaten up by a gang of youths after a minor auto accident last night.

Harry Langland of 15 Cole Drive said a dozen youths followed him into his apartment and mobbed him, injuring him in the elbow and hitting him on the nose. Langland swung a rifle to defend himself.

He named one of the assailants as James Cooper, 20, of 89 Cole Drive. Cooper told Sheriff's Deputies James L. Current and George Reuss that Langland had backed a truck into his (Cooper's) 1952 hardtop. Cooper said Langland refused to dicsuss the damages with him. Therefore, Cooper followed Langland to the apartment.

According to Cooper, Langland came out swinging a rifle and hit him over the shoulder.

Someone broke Langland's living room window from the outside while the scuffle was going on inside.

Langland's wife and 19-year-old daughter came to his aid during the fight.

tions about U.S. policy on Cuba.

Sounding much like a "white paper," the pamphlet said the Soviets tried to upset the strategic balance of power by sneaking missiles into Cuba.

"The U.S. course of action was required to show the USRR that the U.S. means business," said the pamphlet entitled "Cuba Questions and Answers."

One effect of the Cuban crisis, it was learned yesterday, was a complete freeze on all licensing of American goods for shipment to Communist countries.

East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht flew unexpectedly to Moscow tonight, apparently for key talks with Khrushchev on Berlin and Cuba.

Richardson Says Rafferty Ducked Talk

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Ralph Richardson, candidate for state superintendent of public education, today charged that his opponent, Max Rafferty, had ducked a television debate commitment.

Richardson said he had agreed July 12 to the debate, which was scheduled for last night over station KQED's "Candidates and Issues" program.

According to Richardson, Rafferty objected to the make-up of the panel of newsmen who were to question the candidates.

Richardson says two concessions regarding the panel were granted to Rafferty, who then "flatly refused to appear."

"I can only say that his fear of this forum must mean he is also afraid to deal with facts, with reporters, and with me."

Firemen were called at 6:25 a.m. to the Barrett home at 6 Dawn Place and administered resuscitation to Mrs. Barrett for 20 minutes, until Dr. John C. Lee pronounced Mrs. Barrett dead.

She was 38, the wife of Charles Barrett, a Marin newspaper dealer. She was born in San Francisco and lived her entire life in Califlornia. Surviving her, besides her husband, are five children, Arthur, Dayna, Bonnie, Peter and Diane.

trouble-shooter, en route to Cuba.

It was expected that Mikoyan and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov would see Thant late today.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was scheduled to see the U.N. chief at 3 p.m.

Riad, who saw Thant with Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, the other "non-aligned" member of the security council, said the acting secretary general was "still optimistic about settling the immediate problem"—removal of Soviet missile bases from Cuba.

Although Thant failed to gain Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's assent for a U.N. observer corps to watch the removal of the missiles and war bases, he said on his return last night from two-day talks in Havana he had been "reliably informed" dismantling of the bases would be completed by tomorrow.

Riad said he believed "the situation will become clear within the next few days."

Immediately after seeing Riad and Quaison-Sackey, Thant received Carlos Lechuga, then new Cuban ambassador, for a 15-minute ceremony of presenting the envoy's credentials.

Journal bureau at 42 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera.

Police departments confiscated dozens of eggs and other vegetables and fruits from youths before they had a chance to throw them. There were reports of candy being taken away from small children and water being squirted.

Sausalito police reported that one egg had hit the front window of the police station.

In the unincorporated areas, two youths were jailed and a young couple hurt by flying glass.

Sheriff's deputies and police, who raced from trouble spot to trouble spot dispersing pranksters most of the night, reported "it could have been worse."

In Loma Verde, two boys who fired eggs and other missiles at pedestrians, homes and passing cars, were booked on suspicion of malicious mischief. They are Gary Loyd Amos, 18, of 87 Eagle Drive, Novato, and David Jack Zahniser, 18, of 110 Fairway Drive, Novato.

Sheriff's Deputies William Johansen and Carl Mead said eggs and other objects came flying toward their patrol car as they cruised down Alameda de la Loma about 10:30 last night. They caught the youths hiding in tall grass on a hill south of Alameda de la Loma.

In Sleepy Hollow, vandals in a pickup truck tossed a two-by-four board against a passing car, smashing the windshield and splattering the occupants with glass about 9:30 last night.

John Wallace, 17, of 348 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, and passenger Judy L. Mulder of 130 Crane Drive, Sleepy Hollow, were cut about the face when the board smashed the windshield. They were treated at Marin General Hospital and released.

A flying rock knocked out two windows at the Marin City Cleaners in House C-64 about 8 p.m. William Harris was working in the back room when he heard the windows break. By the time he ran out, the culprits were gone.

Greenbrae, Marinwood and parts of Kent Woodlands were also littered with eggs, tomatoes, water bombs and rocks.

L. T. Taylor of 325 Los Cerros Drive, Greenbrae, reported that someone in a red pickup truck tossed a fire bomb in front of his home, setting off a small fire.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

7th, 8th Grade Problems Discussion Set Nov. 14

A symposium by four speakers on seventh and eighth grade problems will be conducted in San Clemente School in Corte Madera Nov. 14.

The meeting, open to all interested parents, will be sponsored by the parent-teacher associations of the four Larkspur School District schools. It will begin at 8 p.m. in the multi-use room, said Mrs. Jay Simon, president of the San Clemente P-TA.

The symposium was prompted by a dispute of a proposed consolidation of all seventh and eighth grade classes in one building. Trustees hope the discussion will bring out enough public opinion to help them make a decision.

Mrs. Simon, who will be chairman, outlined this schedule as arranged by Mrs. W. W. Nichols, Neil Cummins School P-TA program chairman:

Six Scouts of Corte Madera Troop 14, under Scoutmaster J. H. Sutherland, will serve as a color guard and present the flag. One Scout to be designated later will lead the pledge of allegiance.

Mrs. Simon will introduce Mrs. Robert Troppmann, San Clemente P-TA program chairman. Mrs. Troppmann will introduce the remaining P-TA presidents and program chairmen and the four school principals.

Mrs. Troppmann then will turn the meeting over to the symposium moderator, Roy Davis of Corte Madera. He will introduce the following, who will each speak 10 minutes:

1. Douglas Lindauer, Henry C. Hall teacher, who will report on recommendations made by seventh and eighth grade teachers and by principals of the district that all seventh and eighth grades be combined in one building.

2. HANLAN THARP, principal of Davidson Intermediate School, San Rafael, who will speak on the topic "What are Seventh and Eighth Graders Like?"

3. H. C. Stephenson of Larkspur, chairman of a citizens committee that studied seventh and eighth grade problems in the district.

4. William G. Thompson of Madera Gardens, who will summarize views of parents who oppose combining the grades in one building.

After all the speakers have finished, members of the audience may submit questions. The questions will be written and then delivered by Scouts to a screening committee before being answered.

P-TA leaders have been planning the symposium since last summer after school trustees delayed action on proposed changes because of opposition by many parents to combining the seventh and eighth grades in a single location.

School trustees chairman Pauline Secor has said the board will not make any decision before January when it will consider personnel for the 1963-64 school year — so no change could be made before next September.

However, the trustees will hold a special meeting Nov. 20 to discuss the problem anew in the light of the sentiments expressed at the P-TA symposium, Mrs. Secor said.

Vote Campaigner To Be On Video

Teddy Smith, chairman of a campaign carried on by 75 senior girls at Marin Catholic High School aimed at getting out the vote, will be a guest on Lee Noble's Community Circle program at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on television station KRON-TV (Channel 4).

Miss Smith will tell about the "Object: Vote" campaign which has urged Marin County residents to obtain the views of all candidates and then vote.

The group will offer baby sitting service and will run a car pool for the convenience of voters from 3:30 p.m. to the closing of the polls on Tuesday.

Educator Says Colleges Should Broaden Field Of Agency Links

FRESNO (AP)—A Southern California educator warns the link between the college and the community should not be restricted to agencies which might fit an administrator's definition of "safe and respectable."

Dr. John Lombardi, president of Los Angeles State College, told the California Junior College Assn. last night:

"There is always the possibility students may select a community group or project that will embarrass the college. But this is a calculated risk that must be taken.

"There are agencies which we may find troublesome and we may wish to avoid them."

Among them he named labor unions in some communities, the American Civil Liberties Union, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Muslim Society, the John Birch Society, Americans for Democratic Action, and the political parties.

Lombardi said a college must involve all lawful community agencies in campus life if students are to be convinced of the school's sincerity in this area.

Small Arsenal Found On Ole Miss Campus

SOLDIERS BAR STUDENT — U.S. Army military police force an unidentified student back into his room in Lester Hall at the University of Mississippi. A search of the men's dormitory last night unearthed a small arsenal. Earlier, an MP was wounded by a firecracker apparently tossed from a window of the building. (AP Wirephoto)

OXFORD, Miss.—A surprise Halloween night search by combat-ready soldiers unearthed a small arsenal in a men's dormitory at the University of Mississippi.

University officials vowed swift disciplinary action against students involved.

The sudden action followed the wounding of a military policeman by a firecracker, apparently tossed from a window of Lester Hall—adjoining Baxter Hall where James H. Meredith is housed.

Meredith, 29, begins his second month of classes today as the first Negro ever knowingly admitted to the 114-year-old university. He studied in relative silence last night. There were no firecracker barrages like those which disrupted the campus the previous two nights.

University officials cooperated in the dormitory search. Student Affairs Dean L. L. Love commented: "We just can't have things like that going on here. That soldier could have been seriously hurt."

The search turned up at least one dismantled M-1 rifle, a dismantled pistol, several tear gas grenades, a full five-gallon can of gasoline and several noisy firecrackers known as cherry bombs.

Neither university nor Justice Department officials would detail the weapons found in the search.

The soldiers turned over to university officials the student identification cards of at least a half dozen persons. But no one would disclose the exact number or the specific charges.

Under university procedures, a student is considered under arrest when his ID card is confiscated and must face action of the Student Judicial Council. asked students to disperse.

Explosive feelings on the campus this week have been As the bayonet-wielding MPs withdrew their cordon around Lester Hall, Mississippi highway patrolmen and police from Clarksdale, 60 miles away, arrived on campus. The university, moving rapidly after deputy U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach flew here for talks about mounting tension, asked for the reinforcements to boost campus security forces.

Just before Meredith went to the campus dining room for supper, the soldiers encircled Lester Hall, blocking all entrances.

More than 100 male students quickly gathered outside, shouting at the boys temporarily imprisoned inside.

Dean Love and other key officials arrived quickly and attributed in some parts to the usual feverishness preceding the Ole Miss-Louisiana State University football game. The two teams, bitter rivals more than a half century, meet Saturday night at Baton Rouge, La.

Alcatraz Warden Aide Transferred

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Associate Warden Arthur M. Dollison will be transferred from Alcatraz to a minimum security prison at Seagoville, Tex., Dec. 1.

Dollison, a 32-year veteran in the federal penal system, was acting warden last June when three southern bank robbers broke out of Alcatraz in a daring escape from the prison.

Whereabouts of the escapers, Frank Lee Morris and brothers John and Clarence Anglin, are unknown but prison officials list them officially as drowned.

Dollison will be succeeded by Richard J. Williard, associate warden of Terminal Island Penitentiary in Los Angeles harbor.

DERAILED FREIGHT TRAIN BURNS

A fire which started in oil cars of a wrecked Illinois Central train near Newton, Ill., yesterday spread to 33 freight cars following derailment. The intense heat caused evacuation of two nearby farm houses. No injuries were reported. (AP Wirephoto)

Sheriff Group Wants Island For Clubhouse

The Marin Sheriff's Deputies Assn. wants to build a clubhouse-gymnasium and police training center on a 200-acre island in Nicasio Lake.

However, the use of the island ofr that purpose is highly unlikely, according to William Seeger, manager of the Marin Municipal Water District.

"That island is a valuable piece of property and we've had quite a few offers for it," said Seeger. "We've told them (sheriff's deputies association) that the island is out. However, we will look around to see if there is any other property available."

Dennis Shine, president of the Marin Sheriff's Assn., and Kenneth Irving, committee member, appeared before the water district board yesterday afternoon to present their plan and ask for use of the island.

In addition to the clubhouse and gymnasium for use of law enforcement officers, the association plans to install pistol and rifle ranges that would be open to the public.

"We could hire a rangemaster and, in times of stress, have him teach the public the use of firearms," said Shine. "At present there is no range in the county which is open to the public. This site would be ideal for the use of such groups as the junior rifle teams."

Shine said the Marin Sheriff's Assn. and all other police departments in the county would be able to use the gymnasium for training. It would also be available for civilian defense purposes, he pointed out.

Mayors Told Smog Can Become Worse

Smog in Marin may not be a terrific problem yet, but it can become steadily worse if smog throughout the Bay Area is not curbed, members of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen were told last night.

Benjamin Linsky, control officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, spoke to 34 mayors, councilmen and fire chiefs at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax. He said a district officer, Paul Brand, is now assigned to Marin and urged fire chiefs to seek the district's assistance with any air pollution problems.

Incinerator burning is the major pollution of air in Marin, Linsky said, and the district must eventually find a way to control such burning in the entire Bay Area.

"If it were not for the strict controls now in effect in Los Angeles County," Linsky said, "Los Angeles would be a disaster area. They have controlled 'stationary' causes such as smoke from dumps, incinerators and factories. But now 70 per cent of their smog is from autos."

The Bay Area's problem is just the reverse at this time, Linsky added. About 70 per cent of the smog is from stationary sources and the remainder is from cars.

Linsky made these comments on smog control also:

Light dust from San Jose can reach Marin in 20 hours if sun and wind conditions are appropriate.

The coastal hills of the Bay Area make it a worse smog potential than the Los Angeles area, where smog is blown away at night.

By about 1968, all cars in California should have exhaust control devices.

A kind of fog, similar to smog, was observed as early as 1912 in the San Francisco area from Mount Tamalpais.

Supervisor William Gnoss, Marin County member of the pollution control district, said the county spends $20,000 a year for the district.

Fairfax Mayor W. E. Radtke presided at the meeting, and the council adjourned until Nov. 28 when the San Anselmo City Council will be host at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

Forces Rivalry Blamed For Space Money Loss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Space Committee says friction between the Army and Air Force partly explains why the nation has very little to show for the 170 million dollars on the military's Advent communications project.

"If the Advent program is not a good example of interservice rivalry, it is certainly a poor example of effective interservice cooperation," the committee said in its report Wednesday.

Advent was conceived in 1958 as a worldwide jam-proof military communications system.

As originally planned, Advent would have used a 1,000-pound satellite placed into a tricky orbit by the Centaur rocket—then on the drawing board. But, the report said, the satellite's weight grew to 1,300 pounds as it developed. The Centaur, far behind schedule, seemed less and less capable of handling such a payload.

Now, the idea is to develop a new 500-pound package for an interim system using an Atlas-Agena rocket.

"The original estimates of the total costs of the Advent research and development program reportedly were 140 million dollars," the committee said. "By the time the project was canceled, well over 170 million dollars had been spent, much of which has been written off as an unrecoverable loss."

Man, Girl Hurt In Cycle Crash

A San Francisco man and a Santa Rosa girl were hurt last night when a motorcycle skidded from under them and threw them onto a Sausalito connector road.

David A. Freiberg, 24, a railroad rate clerk, was riding north and had just turned off Highway 101 onto the connector leading to Bridgeway, when the accident occurred at 9:10 p.m. With him riding a pillion seat was Patricia Frances Stadelhofer, 20.

Both were taken by Sausalito Fire Department ambulance to Marin General Hospital. Freiberg was treated for cuts on the face and head, and Miss Stadelhofer for multiple scratches of arms, legs, face and abdomen.

SOME MARIN WATER RATES GOING UP

Water rates for customers of the Marin Municipal Water District went up today about 10 per cent, but the customers won't see the difference until they receive their bills in December.

District Secretary B. J. Brusatori explained that it is "impossible to make a distinction" for billing purposes between water sold in October and water sold starting today.

So the higher rate won't be applied until the first meter readings taken this month. These will be billed in December.

Water District Calls For Bids

Bids were called for yesterday by the Marin Municipal Water District board for 30,000 feet of asbestos-cement pipe of various sizes to be used in routine line extension and replacement work, said B. J. Brusatori, district secretary.

The board met yesterday afternoon at the district offices. The pipe bids will be opened Nov. 14.

In other business the board awarded a contract to Roberts and Brune of San Carlos for 500 miscellaneous asbestos-cement pipe fittings.

Satellite's Lights To Blink Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The blinking beacons on the United States' new "Firefly" satellie will be triggered for the first time Saturday night, officials report.

The flashing of the four high-intensity xenon gas lights will signal the beginning of a program which officials hope will lead to more accurate determination of the size and shape of the earth, location of its center of gravity and distances between far apart places.

The satellite, named Anna, was rocketed into orbit yesterday from Cape Canaveral. Project spokesmen reported all systems were functioning well and that precise determination of the vehicle's path was being made before the lights are winked for the first time.

Exact time and place for Saturday's initial flashes will be determined by the Applied Physics Laboratory, Johns Hopkins University, where the satellite was developed. Laboratory scientists will send a radio signal to activate the lights.

The beacons will be activated at night when the sky is clear so that telescopic cameras will be able to photograph them against a background of known stars. The flashes should be visible to anyone through binoculars and the Defense Department said it hoped to release the flash times in advance.

HERE'S WHAT NOVATO POOL BONDS WOULD BUILD

This architect's drawing shows the proposed three swimming pools in relation to the buildings at Novato High School. Novato residents will vote Tuesday on a $100,000 bond issue to build the pools, probably on the high school property. Here the locker and shower rooms of the boys and girls gymnasiums would be used for the pool. A parade Saturday afternoon will boost the pool bond campaign. Wayne Womack, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Pool Bonds, says that a committee is carrying on the phone campaign to get out a favorable vote. Reid, Rockwell, Banwell and Tarics, school architects for Novato Unified School District, made the drawing for the pool committee, Womack stated.

Sticky Stuff Cleared Away In Corte Madera

The contractor completing a drainage interceptor and reconstructing Harbor Drive at Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, has pumped out 20 gallons of seal coat accidently spilled in the area several days ago.

Town Mgr. Arthur M. Brandow said the oily substance was cleared away by the E. A. Forde Co. of Corte Madera yesterday.

The sticky stuff had filled gutters and was being tracked over a wide area, including into homes, and caused the town to delay sending a progress payment of $16,614 to the contractor, Brandow said.

Check for the amount was written late yesterday but is being withheld pending next Monday night's town meeting because the firm is still behind in its work, Brandow said.

The council will determine whether to go ahead with a threat to penalize the Forde Co. $50 for each day it is late.

The firm was granted a seven-day extension—to Oct. 21—at the Oct. 15 council meeting. The firm had asked 30 days.

The contractor thus was 11 days beyond that extension today, with "about two days of concrete patching" needed to be done to complete the work.

Brandow said the council might retroactively grant Forde a further extension. Penalties voted by councils in such matters rarely are enforced, Brandow said.

The work being done by Forde is costing the town $39,240—nearly 10 per cent of the town's fiscal budget of $419,660. The firm already has received one payment of $12,000, Brandow said.

In another phase of Corte Madera improvements, lawn seed has been planted in the town park being constructed along Tamalpais Drive and it soon will be watered. "It should be green in about two weeks," Brandow said.

Russian Food! Just A Nibble

little to appeal to the gourmet palate.

"The service was poor," he said, "and I understand this is partly because the waiters and waitresses are not supposed to take tips. If that is true, then I made them sin every time I ate—and they sinned with pleasure!

"When we dined together as a group and they understood who we were, we got better attention; but if we went to another hotel alone or in twos and threes, there wasn't any service, period."

Rubini inspected the kitchen in the Metropole Hotel and while the equipment was comparatively new, "in style it was 40 or 50 years out of date."

"But I can't honestly say the Russians are not good cooks—it's just that they do not have the variety of food," he reported.

Beef is scarce. At a food store where he examined the meat offered to the public, he was disappointed in what he saw. "It looked worse than our utility beef," he commented. "For the first time in my life I couldn't tell the grade and if it came from a cow or a steer. The Russians have a different way of cutting it—and that didn't help."

Meal prices at the hotels he did not find excessive—for an American. Breakfasts came to about $1, lunches $1.50, dinners from $2.50 to $3—out of reach, however, of a Russian whose income may be anywhere from $50 to $90 a month, according to Rubini. He was struck by the number of Africans and Indians who were hotel visitors.

In the evening an orchestra played Amercian jazz and there were teen-agers trying to do our dance steps.

"Their daddies must have been big shots," he opined. "There is as much class distinction there as anywhere else in the world."

Surprisingly enough he discovered that the hotels served exceptionally good champagne—made in Southern Russia, he was told.

"There are only two bars in Moscow—at the American Embassy and at the British Embassy. You can order champagne, wines, vodka and a type of brandy served with your meals, and there is a retail counter at the hotels—but I could never buy a bottle of vodka there. And no American whiskey. Bourbon is outlawed."

He said the regular water "didn't taste good" so he avoided it, substituting mineral water.

Rubini had no Russian counterpart in the restaurant business with whom to compare notes, so he teamed up with members of the group on inspection tours and struck up conservations with visitors from other countries when there was no language barrier.

A women's apparel shop he described as "like Bianco's Garage when it's used for a rummage sale. And the women paw over the goods the same way."

He made the acquaintance of an Italian clothing representative who was selling overcoats to the (Russian government) stores at $19 to $29. "But those same overcoats were resold in their stores at $200 to $250," he reported.

Rubini returned home 10 days after the other Marin travelers. He left Moscow before them but stopped in Belgium and toured through parts of Italy by car.

"There was all the difference in the world between the people in these places and those in Russia. And West Berlin is almost like an American city. Moscow was depressing," he concluded.

THEY SAW THROUGH THIS VOTE

CHICAGO (AP) — Striding briskly into the City Hall Election Board office, an unidentified woman stopped in front of a demonstration voting machine yesterday and took off her coat.

"Are you," a helpful employee asked, "a judge of election?"

"No," said the woman.

"Well," the employee said, "this machine is for the instruction of election judges."

"Oh," the woman said, putting her coat back on, "I just wanted my chest X-rayed."

Rafferty Against Teachers Striking

Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction candidate who spoke in Corte Madera Tuesday night, opposes strikes by teachers and sanctions against school districts by teacher organizations.

The Independent-Journal inadvertently and incorrectly said yesterday he approves such actions.

School Candidates' Aides Battle

Free information versus indoctrination of fundamentals is the major issue in the campaign for state superintendent of public instruction, spokesmen for the two candidates said today on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speaking for Max Rafferty, Ray Haas of San Rafael, chairman of the Marin County Parents for Rafferty Committee, said his candidate would "put a stop to the extreme progressive education methods used in California schools" and would "return to the material of our cultural heritage, taking the best of classical education and the best of progressive education."

$45 Theft Reported

Theft of $45, contained in a cigar box on top of a dresser, was reported to San Rafael police last night by Gertrude D. Powers, manager of the Lincoln Hotel, 805 Fourth Street, San Rafael. She said the money was taken from her room between 5:45 and 5:55 p.m. yesterday.

Richard L. Foster of Greenbrae, former superintendent of Marin County Schools and now superintendent of Jefferson School District in Daly City, represented Ralph Richardson. He said so-called progressive education was not being used in California schools, and said Richardson would encourage "free, open information in the schools while relying on a fundamental program."

Richardson would develop a "sound curriculum from history and geography to art and home economics and yet let students reason and think," Foster said. "Rafferty, on the other hand, wants indoctrination."

Haas compared Rafferty's "indoctrination" with the condition of "two healthy teenagers who are physiologically ready to marry but not emotionally mature. . .

"Rafferty would not bother them with the subtle ramifications of the Spanish-American War but would teach them to love their country," Haas said.

Haas said Richardson's endorsement by the California Teachers' Assn. was "not representative of the true feelings of teachers because it was the vote of one-fifth of 1 per cent of the association."

Foster answered that the endorsement was the result of "a democratic poll" and that Richardson also had the endorsement of several other groups of teachers and school administrators. "The teachers who served under Rafferty in his own district favor Richardson 3-to-1," Foster added.

In answer to a question from a radio listener, Haas said Rafferty had rejected any help from "super-nationalist" organizations who allegedly endorsed him. "As far as the John Birch Society is concerned," said Haas, "I understand it is a secret society, so I have no way of knowing whether he gets their support."

Haas said a vote for Richardson is urged by the Marin County Democratic Committee. "So I guess we know where he stands," he said.

A difference in the philosophy of the two men is indicated, Foster said, by the "fact that Richardson is against Proposition 24, and Rafferty has indicated he will vote for it."

Haas said Rafferty's only comment about the controversial anti-Communist Francis Amendment was " 'I haven't looked at it, I might vote for it."

The discussion, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be re-broadcast by tape recording Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Clausen-Miller Survey Ends

Price Hall of San Rafael, campaign manager for Republican congressional candidate Don Clausen, said the postcard poll conducted by the Napa Register was closer than indicated in an Associated Press report yesterday.

The report yesterday said that the late Clem Miller, the incumbent killed in an Oct. 7 plane crash, led by 59 to 41 per cent.

Hall said that the poll was concluded today with 242 of the 300 cards returned. It showed 123 for Miller and 119 for Clausen.

School Football Star Expelled For Marrying

GRAY, Ga. (AP) — A lot of folks in this small middle Georgia town are fighting mad because the school board expelled the county high school's star halfback because he got married.

Frank Childs, Jones County School Board chairman, told a special public meeting last night the board felt it best to expel all married students because "females who get in a family way in school are not a very good influence on the other children." He noted the marriage ban first went into effect in 1960.

While Childs was on his feet, Mrs. J. R. Cochran, who has a child in school, jumped up and snapped:

"You've had your say. Now sit down and let me have mine. If Castro were doing something like this I could understand it."

She accused the board of discriminating against the football star, Johnny Arnold, 18, a senior, and other married students. Johnny's wife, 15, a sophomore, also was expelled.

Arnold's mother, Frances Arnold, said she and Johnny's father are separated. She works, Mrs. Arnold said.

"If Johnny doesn't win a scholarship on his athletic ability, I guess he won't get a college education," she said. "We cannot afford to send him to college on our own."

The board refused to budge from the action it took two weeks ago after learning of the halfback's marriage. But it said it would consider at next Tuesday's regular meeting several proposals put forth last night.

One was that the marriage ban should apply only to girls because as family breadwinner a boy's education is more important. Another was that married boys should be allowed to continue classes but be barred from athletics and other non-classroom activities.

Young Arnold sat through most of the meeting gnawing at his fingernails. He told newsmen he had hoped to be reinstated so he could play in tomorrow night's game with a Macon school because a University of Alabama scout was supposed to be there to consider him for a scholarship. He said Florida State University also had indicated it might offer a scholarship.

Gray, a town of about 2,000, is about 80 miles southwest of Atlanta.

Signal Lights Bids Expected

Bids are expected to be asked about the end of November for installation of two signal lights in the eastern part of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, according to county public works director Donald R. Frost.

One will be at the Eliseo Drive intersection, the other at the Bon Air Road intersection.

Frost said underground equipment for these signals is already in place.

The pedestrian overpass at Wolfe Grade and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard probably will be completed early in December, Frost said.

Mothers Warned Against Drugs In Early Pregnancy

CHICAGO (AP)—A California obstetrician told a national assembly of baby doctors today that expectant mothers should take no drugs during the first three months of pregnancy unless essential to the preservation of their health.

"We do not know and we may never learn how many drugs currently in use may affect embryonic development in a small percentage of cases," Dr. Ernest W. Page of San Francisco told the American Academy of Pediatrics.

He cited recent findings that many instances of baby deformities in Europe have been linked with the expectant mother's taking thalidomide, a sedative, in the first three months of pregnancy.

Dr. Page is chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of California School of Medicine.

'Emergency Center' Found Lacking Some Essentials

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR
Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The "emergency communications center for the governor," which Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced earlier this week had been established as part of the state's civil defense program, was to be ready for an organized press tour today.

Governor Brown, on his return from a briefing in Washington lasts weekend, assured California the state's civil defense setup was second to none. Among the six major accomplishments of the program he listed was the establishment of the emergency communications center for use by the governor and the disaster control board, in time of emergency.

The two rooms in the basement of the public works building in Sacramento designated as the "nerve center" for state communications in event of a disaster looked somewhat less than that when inspected by Capitol News Service yesterday.

This reporter was informed once that the public was not allowed to see the rooms. Later, a photographer was denied permission by Col. Harold W. Webster of the California disaster office to take a picture of the nerve center. Permission later was granted by Bradford M. Crittenden, commissioner of the California Highway Patrol, who heads the public safety agency which includes civil defense.

The nerve center included five short-wave radios in one room. Two were set on cardboard cartons, one was on the floor and two more were on desks that had been moved into the room. In the second room was one inoperative teletype machine. A sergeant from the air national guard was making some installations.

One workman on the scene said the work of assembling and moving the equipment into the emergency center had not commenced until the afternoon of Oct. 26, the same day Brown was flying to Washington for his briefing on the Cuban crisis. First work on the rooms, sealing the windows off with concrete, had been done nearly a year ago.

One spokesman in the communications division of the department of finance said it had been "an all fouled-up deal."

"It was a big rush thing, you know," he said. "They were slinging paint around one place and another."

The governor's office said there were other rooms to the center, including living quarters, and much of the work on these had not started until last Friday. But it was hoped all would be in readiness for the press tour scheduled for today. The tour was to be conducted by Crittenden.

Gaining information on the communications center was a difficult proposition to begin with, with the reporter passed along from one man to another. It finally developed that the two men in the communications division of the department of finance who were most concerned with the communications center were Dellver Seastrom and Marvin Karman.

Both men were on vacation yesterday.

The short-wave radio units in the governor's emergency operating center were plugged into the fluorescent light fixtures overhead. Officials of the department of finance said auxiliary power equipment had been purchased for the nerve center recently but was not yet installed.

Meanwhile, Allan K. Jonas, director of the California disaster office, issued a press release answering charges of Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for governor, that the civil defense setup in California was not ready.

"Our state is prepared to use every available resource to protect Californians from the effects of nuclear war or natural disaster," Jonas said. "Assistant Secretary of Defense Steuart Pittman told Governor Brown in Washington last weekend that California is 'unexcelled' among the states in disaster preparedness.

"Thisi s the second time in the past few months that Mr. Nixon has made ill-advised statements about civil defense," Jonas said. "His first statement about the disaster office contained inaccuracies which were pointed out by many newspapers in the state. The facts were not correct."

CRISIS BUYING SPREE REVERSES—$$ NEEDED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television stations that covered the wave of panic buying here early in the Cuban crisis could almost bring their film up to date today by running it backwards.

Some housewives who went on a buying binge a week ago, fearing a food shortage might develop in event of war, apparently have run into a shortage of an equally important commodity—money.

Having spent too much of it last week, some of them decided Wednesday to go shopping in reverse. They were showing up at their markets with armloads of groceries and, in some cases, leaving with money.

Market owners said there were many pleas for refunds or credit. Whether the shoppers got either depended on the individual market.

Trading stamps complicated the issue. Many hoarding housewives, even in the face of possible nuclear disaster, carefully pasted their stamps in their books.

Now the question of how to unstick a stuck stamp has them stumped.

UNICEF Fund Drive Report Due Wednesday

Area chairmen will report on funds collected for the UNICEF Trick or Treat drive held in Marin County last night at a 10 a.m. meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Dore Schwab of Winding Way, Ross.

Mrs. Schwab, chairman for drive sponsored by the Marin chapter of the American Assn. for the United Nations, said final figures would be totaled at that time. "I am sure we have done far better than last year," Mrs. Schwab said today.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, right, and his Marin County Campaign Chairman Fred F. Enemark discuss the steady development of Marin County.

The steady growth of Marin and Sonoma Counties has increased the problems of land use, transportation, recreation and water supply to name a few. The dedication to the office shown by Bill Bagley in his first term in the Legislature and his knowledgeable representation of the Assembly District have been appreciated and acknowledged by the support from business, labor, agriculture and conservationists for his re-election to this important office.

Russ Physicist, Two British Chemists Get Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1962 Nobel Prize for physics was awarded today to Soviet scientist Lev Davidovic Landau, whose probes into the mysteries of the universe helped pave the way for the Soviet sputniks.

The 1962 prize for chemistry went to two scientists at Cambridge, England, whose work unfolded secrets in the human blood. Dr. John Cowdery Kendrew and Dr. Max Ferdinand Perutz share the $49,656 prize for their studies of globular proteins.

Landau, 54, is one of the few Jews to attain a high place in Soviet science. He was awarded the $49,656 physics prize for "his pioneering theories for condensed matter, especially liquid helium."

Landau's research was halted Jan. 7 by an automobile accident. His car skidded on ice and crashed in Dubno, 75 miles from Moscow. He lapsed into a coma and was still unconscious in March when a Canadian neurosurgeon, Dr. Wilder Penfield, flew to Moscow to join French, Czech and Soviet specialists working to bring him around. Landau is reported making progress but there are doubts in Moscow he ever will recover fully.

Kendrew and Perutz have worked together at the newly started laboratory of molecular biology at Cambridge since the beginning of this year.

The structure determinations of large protein molecules for which the prize has now been awarded were made at the Cavendish laboratory at Cambridge with the aid of X-ray diffraction, a photographic optical method which became available through the discoveries of German Nobel Prizewinner Max von Laue.

Kendrew, born in Oxford 45 years ago, came to Cambridge in 1947. Perutz, born in Vienna, Austria in 1914, left the university there in 1936 to settle in Cambridge, where he has engaged in research on hemoglobin since 1937.

BEE CASUALTY

Girl Gets Stung With Own Story

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A bee sting caused three hours of agony and a bit of irony in the life of a 19-year-old Birmingham girl.

Becky Chancey, record librarian for a radio-television station, was returning from lunch yesterday when she slapped at a bee in her automobile. The bee retaliated with a sting. Her car ran off the road and plunged 75 feet down a slope.

Three hours later she had crawled almost to the roadside before a boy on a motorcycle heard her cries for help. She suffered a cracked back disc.

And her station's news department was scooped on her story. The boy who found her works for a rival television station.

All's Quiet On India Front

Minor Red Mortar Fire Reported

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—An ominous quiet settled over the fighting fronts today in India's undeclared border war with Communist China.

An official spokesman reported there was no change in the situation in Ladakh in the northwest. He reported only some minor Chinese mortar firing on Indian patrols in the North East Frontier Agency (NEFA) area of Jang in the northeast. Jang is about four miles east of Towang, an important monastery town which fell to the Reds more than a week ago.

The spokesman said there were no Indian casualties from the mortar fire.

He reported, however, that India suffered 10 killed and 10 wounded in fighting near Damchok in southern Ladakh before the Indians withdrew Oct. 29.

"Chinese casualties were considerably higher," the spokesman said without giving any figures.

This report was in sharp contrast to the figure of 2,000 to 2,500 dead and wounded which India previously was reported to have suffered in the first 10 days of fighting that started Oct. 20.

Meanwhile, the Indian government thanked the United States for offering military supplies and said that further requests would be placed as the need arises.

"We are grateful for United States sympathy and support and for their offer to help us in procurement of supplies required for our defense," a spokesman said. "Our immediate requirements of defense and other essential supplies have been communicated to the government of the U.S.A. through the U.S. ambassador in Delhi and our ambassador in Washington."

The United States already has announced that it will begin an emergency airlift of weapons to beef up India's badly outgunned army by the end of this week.

The poor showing of the Indians in initial battles with the invading Communist Chinese has been attributed to their antiquated weapons.

DIGGING IN — This photo released in New Delhi yesterday by the Indian government is described as showing an Indian soldier digging a trench fortification in the lighting area of Ladakh where Chinese troops have made an advance. (AP Wirephoto)

POOR JUDGMENT

Phone Call Releases Prisoner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "This is Judge Gene Williams," said the voice on the telephone. "I want you to release a prisoner, Kenneth James Lamond."

"Yes, sir, judge," said the jailer, and forthwith freed Lamond, 41, a parole violator.

Then someone at the Dade County Jail decided to check with the judge.

"What telephone call?" the judge asked. "What prisoner?"

Lamond was picked up at his home and returned to jail. Police arrested Michael J. Peters, 41, and charged him with impersonating the judge. Peters said he knew nothing about Lamond's release.

Around two million members of the nation's labor force suffer from alcoholism, costing American industry around one billion dollars per year in absenteeism, reduced efficiency and increased accidents, according to the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program.

Marin Banker Marks 45 Years On Job

A. L. Cencio, who has been manager of the Point Reyes Station Bank of America branch since 1946, is observing his 45th anniversary with the bank today.

One of only 21 persons on active duty with the bank to reach the 45-year milestone, Cencio will be a guest of honor in San Francisco next month at the Fairmont Hotel at a dinner of the bank's Founders Club, whose members all have completed 25 or more years of service.

A native of Genoa, Italy, Cencio came to California in his youth, joining the bank at its San Francisco head office in 1917 as a messenger.

He became an officer in 1925 while serving at the Sonoma branch, and in 1937 was promoted to manager at the branch in Tomales, where he remained until his appointment to Point Reyes Station.

A resident of Petaluma for many years, he belongs to the West Marin Lions Club, the West Marin Chamber of Commerce and the Marin Chapter of the American Institute of Banking. He is past master of Temple Lodge No. 14, of F. & A.M. in Sonoma, he is also a member of the Elks of Santa Rosa and the Petaluma Golf and Country Club.

Space Age Small Investment Firm Grows To Sixth Largest

Through expanded capitalization, the Space Age Small Investment Co., 819 A Street, San Rafael, has become one of the sixth largest firms of its kind in the Bay Area, Clyde A. Stevens, executive vice president and general manager announced today.

Stevens who resigned last March as executive vice president of Marin County Abstract and Title Co. to head the new firm said expansion has doubled the company's capital, enabling it to loan a total of $900,000 to small business firms. He said Space Age has $330,000 in loans and investments in Los Angeles ,Montclair, San Carlos, Sacramento, San Francicso and Novato, leaving it $570,000 for new loans. The maximum loan the firm can make to any small business is $120,000.

Additional capitalization resulted from sales of more stock to several of the company's directors and to new shareholders. Twenty-one Marin County residents are included among the shareholders of whom eight are on the investment committee.

Stevens said additional paid-in capital expected during November will allow the company to acquire a loan portfolio of 1.2 million dollars.

The three-game June series between the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Angels drew a total of 146,623 fans to Chavez Ravine.

Uganda Women In Rights Fight

By LYNN HEINZERLING

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Africa is still a man's world. All the shouting about freedom leaves most women grubbing for food, carrying water and firewood on their heads and being sold to their husbands like cattle.

But a gentle revolution is under way in Uganda, the latest colony to become independent. A small group of women is leading a campaign to bring women into the new world of freedom.

British colonial officers, the churches and a few progressive Ugandans have made some progress in emancipating women in the cities. In the rural areas, where 90 per cent of the population live, tribal customs condemn women to a life of toil and bearing children.

Uganda fathers still extract a bride price for their daughters from prospective husbands. In some places this may amount only to a goat and a few small presents. In northern Uganda it may run to 10 or more head of cattle.

The bride, once paid for, becomes little more than a chattel. The husband's responsibility in the family runs to growing whatever cash crops he may choose, handling whatever money there is and sitting in the sun.

He may occasionally mash up green bananas, add water and sugar and wait for it to ferment into "African gin" or waragi. On ceremonial occasions he will dress up in leopard skins and monkey hides and get out his spear.

The bride is expected to take care of the sweet potatoes, beans, turnips and bananas outside the family's hut and to bring the water from whatever spring or stream is available. She must also raise the family and provide daughters who will, in their turn, bring a fancy bride price. Sons are welcome too because they enlarge the clan.

If the marriage breaks up for any reason, the husband can send the woman back to her parents and claim the bride price he paid. Some men marry one woman in Christian rites and take others in tribal rites.

The only women smashing these ancient tribal practices are those who get an education or marry more advanced African political leaders or businessmen.

From this group of women comes the move to improve the lot of rural women. One of the leaders is Mrs. Pumla Kisosonkole, a South African from the Transkei African Reserve who graduated from Fort Hare University and married a visiting Uganda chief.

She is a former president of the Uganda Council of Women and a vice president of the International Council of Women.

"One of our problems," she said, "is simply recognition of women by men."

Since women have so little in common with African men, Mrs. Kisosonkol said, the council is sponsoring courses in citizenship, civic duties, home improvement and English.

The ability to speak English, official language of the new nation, has become a status symbol. The Uganda Council of Women has asked United Nations aid in teaching English.

The council also is pushing to get more women in government positions. With few women college graduates in Uganda, the number of qualified women is limited. Only two women work in government ministries.

For the rural woman, the uplifting will be slow and painful. Most of them are illiterate as are their husbands.

The husbands do not take kindly to wives working outside the vegetable patch and the hut.

Animals often burn up anger in actions that do no harm. A fiddler crab, frustrated in love, makes repeated gestures with a claw.

How Menon Rose To No. 2 Job

Friendship With Nehru Helped Him In The Past

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Vengalil Krishnan Krishna Menon rose from an impoverished radical politician to the No. 2 position in India during his 27 years of close friendship with the man who became India's first prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru.

Countless times during his controversial career, Krishna Menon has been defended by his friend, and after each controversy emerged stronger than ever. As defense minister and adviser to Nehru he held a position of power second only to the premier. As diplomat and international negotiator, his gaunt figure and long gray hair became familiar throughout the world.

But when thousands of Chinese Communist troops poured over India's borders this month, two of Krishna Menon's previous positions became untenable: his long years of support for Peiping at home and abroad, and his failure to prepare the armed forces for the fighting. Nehru took over the defense ministry himself, demoting Krishna Menon to organizing the economy for war.

"I do not seek out controversies—they seek me out," Krishna Menon said recently in New York. "And we meet amicably half way."

But to many diplomats and officials, Indian and foreign, it seemed that Krishna Menon had gone much farther than half way many times.

After building a reputation as a mediator by solving the Korean prisoner issue and aiding in the French Indochina settlement, he:

1. Refused to condemn the Soviet suppression of the Hungarian revolution;

2. Refused to join in a United Nations resolution against Peiping for crushing Tibet on the grounds that "it does not help the Tibetans";

3. Consistently advocated Communist China's seating in the United Nations;

4. Consistently condemned colonialism, but refused self-determination for Indian-held Kashmir and directed the invasion of Goa.

KRISHNA MENON
Center of controversies

"Menon represents China—not India," his opponent charged in this year's parliamentary elections. But Krishna Menon won handily despite the border situation.

Krishna Menon is a 65-year-old bachelor who neither drinks nor smokes and has few close friends. His bitter tongue has estranged many diplomats and his arrogance is resented among other Indian officials. But until the border war began Krishna Menon's international standing had won him considerable support among the Indian masses.

In debating the Kashmir question in the United Nations, he set a record that still stands for the longest speech—seven hours and 45 minutes on Jan. 23 and 24, 1957. He collapsed shortly afterwards with a heart insufficiency, and an Indian correspondent commented:

"When an ordinary man faints, you wave smelling salts under his nose. When Krishna Menon faints, wave a microphone in front of him and he revives."

Krishna Menon was born in 1897 to a middle class family in Calicut, Southern India. He could have had a comfortable life under British rule but chose instead to go to England to study and agitate for Indian independence.

He went to London University, the London School of Economics, and the Middle Temple, where he won the right to wear the curly white wig of an English barrister. He entered labor politics and became a labor councilman for the working class borough of St. Pancras.

But most important for Krishna Menon was the friendship he formed with Nehru, who is seven years his senior. They worked together for Indian independence, making soap box speeches, writing pamphlets and lobbying.

When it was granted in 1947, Krishna Menon's rise was swift. He became Indian high commissioner in Britain, head of the Indian United Nations delegation, and then defense minister.

He had been widely picked as the next foreign minister if Nehru should give up the post, and as Nehru's eventual successor as head of government.

PAT AND THE PLUMBER—There was something that the plumber had that the man with money didn't. Pat Finnegan and Chuck Royster, the plumber prince, play leading roles in the eight-star cast of "Invitation to a March" now at Sausalito Little Theater.

WORTH SEEING

'Invitation To March' Laugh-Packed Comedy

By the time the plumber kisses the princess in "Invitation to a March," now playing at the Sausalito Little Theater, the laughs are rolling.

The Arthur Laurents comedy is light entertainment with eight equally cast actors taking stabs at some of our hipocrisies.

Merle McDill turns in an exceptional performance, being able, hatted and huggable. She makes use of Laurents' direct lines to the audience the best of the crew. Being told intimate things by the actors in such a tiny theater can be disarming if you're in the front row.

Strong parts are played, too, by Amanda Scheyer as the tight-pantsy, worldly Deedee and Pat Miller, the Southern mama.

Chuck Royster is the funny plumber-prince to Pat Finnegan. Miss Finnegan, we thought, was funniest in her sleep scenes. "She's a nut," said Miss McDill, herself a nut.

Charles Heller plays Tucker Grogan who makes eyes at Miss McDill and Allen Chamness is a natural as the snooty fiance. Douglas Gower, 11, of Terra Linda rates plaudits as the drum-beating little brother.

The octet does a fine job. It creates a pleasant easy-going life of the Jablonskis who do what they want to do on the sand dunes. And, in balance, brings pressures on the Jablonskis way of life.

Don Eaton, Sausalito jeweler and director, says "the play goes 'round and 'round but gets nowhere." This may be true but the laughs are worth the while.

The play runs tomorrow, Saturday and for two more weekends at the theater at 745½ Bridgeway.

Followup On Viet Victory Is Failure

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. helicopters lifted 600 Vietnamese troops into the Mekong River delta today to follow through on an air force victory of the preceding day, but they came up almost empty handed.

In several operations into which the drive was divided, a total of only three Viet Cong were reported killed for the day. Air strikes may have accounted for a few more.

CHAIN OF FIGHTS

A chain of fights began about midnight Tuesday when an estimated 400 Viet Cong troops laid siege to an outpost of a village 110 miles south of here. The outpost, under command of a Roman Catholic priest named Father Tong, was strongly defended.

At the height of battle, Father Tong's forces were believed to have about 300 men fighting. Soon after the attack began, the priest was able to call Saigon for help. The defenders held the fort against repeated onslaughts, but almost ran out of ammunition, and suffered heavy losses.

DEFENDERS SUFFER

The Viet Cong entered part of the compound, and carried off a number of weapons. The defenders suffered 18 killed and 32 wounded.

But air force fighters swept in before dawn, and by flare light poured cannon shells and rockets into the attackers. The air strike was followed by more strafing runs after dawn. Thirty-three Viet Cong dead were counted and verified on the ground near the post, and officers estimated a total enemy dead, including those not found or carried off, as more than 100.

Generally speaking, Soviet cosmonauts are air force officers, members of the Communist Party of the Young Communist League, married and in excellent physical condition.

CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Edmund G. Brown and Richard M. Nixon, contenders for the California governorship, yesterday accused each other of presenting distorted pictures of the state's economy.

Democrat Brown, seeking re-election to a second term, declared California with continuing steady economic growth will overtake New York this year in industrial wealth as well as population.

Brown told an audience of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. employees that Nixon "has been hoisting false storm warnings about the economy and it's time someone hauled them down."

He declared personal income, retail sales and employment are at record highs in California.

In a statement, Nixon charged the State Economic Development Agency with publishing "phony statistics, gross misrepresentations, complete lies, and half truths."

Nixon said an Economic Development Agency pamphlet on industrial plant expansion listed three planned plant expansions in San Leandro, Ventura, and Fresno which had been canceled or indefinitely delayed.

The statement said nearly half of 35 other plant expansions listed would employ no new workers "or were gross misrepresentations."

Nixon contended the challenged expansion claims emphasize the need "for a California crusade for new business investment."

Brown declared in a telethon broadcast last night his opposition to the death penalty for narcotics offenders.

"We have the toughest laws in the United States for narcotics peddlers. The death penalty is absolutely unnecessary in connection with narcotics. I don't believe that more gassing of human beings is the answer to crime in California," Brown said in a telethon broadcast from Oakland.

The Democratic governor's view was in contrast to that of his Republican opponent Richard M. Nixon who has consistently recommended a crack down on narcotics trafficers, including the death sentence.

Brown, in his stretch drive for re-election, also reiterated an accusation that the former vice president would accept a presidential draft in 1964 — despite repeated Nixon statements to the contrary.

"I think Mr. Nixon really would run for president again. I just don't believe that if another draft came along he would be able to resist it," said the governor.

Nixon, meantime, in one of his strongest attacks on Brown, predicts that his rival is set to launch "the most massive campaign of fear and smear in the history of California politics."

Nixon told rallies in Lodi and Santa Rosa yesterday that the governor's campaign is running behind and he'll have to resort to "a desperate last minute scare campaign."

The Republican candidate charged that Brown has spread seven lies to frighten voters, including "the lie that I support right-to-work laws."

Brown, whose campaign tempo has picked up significantly with the apparent easing of the Cuban crisis, appears today in San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties before moving south for an evening political rally in Anaheim.

Nixon appears for a rally in Roseville, Placer County, then travels south for rallies at Cerritos College in the Norwalk area of Los Angeles County.

With the election only six days off, each candidate is accusing the other of dirty politics with an increasing degree of regularity.

For example, Nixon yesterday accused Brown of conducting ". . . the cheapest sort of Tammany Hall tactics to run a campaign to lead the first state in the nation like a kid's game of trick or treat."

Brown, meantime, angrily accused the Nixon organization of handing out "smear literature charges that I'm just a little less a good American than my opponent."

Terming the GOP gubernatorial campaign the dirtiest he's seen in 20 years, Brown replied, "I'm just as good an American as Richard Milhous Nixon—and just a little bit better."

PROOF OF UNDEMOCRATIC TACTICS USED BY OPPOSITION:

A LETTER OF PROTEST

October 10, 1962

Board of Directors
California Teachers Association
1705 Murchison Drive
Burlingame, California

Gentlemen:

It is of considerable distress that I write this letter.

Early in September, at a meeting of the Executive Board of my District's local Association, I was elected as a delegate to the CTA's leadership conference at Camp Seeley, near San Bernadino.

On September 28th, I arrived there. During the ensuing two days, I witnessed what to me was an unbelievable series of events. I was deeply disturbed. In short, I was confronted with a compromise of my personal and professional ethics. My only alternative was speaking out for democratic principles.

At the first meeting that I attended, I was shocked to hear one of the chairmen indicate to the delegates that there should be no deviation from the designated policy of the leaders, that he wanted everyone to think alike, that he wanted unity in CTA, as far as backing Dr. Richardson was concerned.

During the question and answer period, I stated that in my district we had not endorsed either candidate, and that I personally knew of neighboring districts that had not endorsed either candidate. I stated that the endorsement decision was to be voted on the following week in my district. I further stated that I did not understand why Dr. Rafferty was not there to speak along with Dr. Richardson, as I was under the belief that both sides should be heard to make the best and the wisest decision. I noted that the CTA had printed articles by Dr. Rafferty on education in their CTA magazine, while no articles were printed by Dr. Richardson. I also stated that teachers had confided to me that the top echelon of CTA was trying to make decisions for all of us while in reality they thought themselves quite capable of making their own decisions. In fact, I stated, it was even said to me that CTA was like Jimmy Hoffa's union, in which the leaders made the decisions and the teachers went along—right or wrong.

In response, another teacher arose and stated that the CTA employed a truly representative form of organization. Another teacher asked how many delegates made the decision and what was the total membership of CTA? The answer: approximately 123,000 members and approximately 350 delegates. (Simple arithmetic indicates that this is ¼ of 1%). Later in the session I again raised my hand. The chairman, upon seeing this, said that the meeting was over and adjourned.

The afternoon session was entitled "The Campaign for Richardson"—I was surprised by the title itself. As a delegate from the San Diego area, I was under the impression that they would permit me to express my feelings regarding endorsement. My position was and is that it was unfortunate that the CTA endorsed Richardson as I noticed that it was causing a lot of dissention among the delegates, since they had not been able to express their views by voting.

I raised my hand and was recognized by Mr. McKay. Upon standing I was rudely asked by Mr. McKay to sit down with the comment that I was probably one of those very few teachers for Rafferty. He then recognized several other teachers in the room to speak. I again raised my hand, asking "when was he going to permit me to speak?" Someone in the back shouted "let her speak." He asked the audience "Shall I let her speak or shall I not?" Several shouted in the affirmative. I asked several question, namely:

1. Was it true that John F. Kennedy was endorsed by this same top echelon group of the CTA when he ran for President in 1960?

2. I thought that the material put into the folders of the 600 delegates was extremely biased when they had falsely linked Dr. Rafferty with the John Birch Society. Why wasn't it also stated that the American Legion, V.F.W. and the Masons' had given Dr. Rafferty Americanism Awards, besides his Freedom Foundation Award? On the other hand, why wasn't is stated that Dr. Richardson had been supported the three times he ran for public office by the People's World, a west coast Communist newspaper?

Many delegates came up and talked to me about the American Federation of Teachers Union and another union endorsing Richardson before the primary. Someone then pointed out that Dr. Richardson, while on the L.A. Board of Education had an interesting voting record. They said he had voted against placing an "Americanism Desk" in the L.A. schools and that he had voted to amend the motion forbidding the Communist Party use of the Los Angeles school property. (I am bringing this up because these are some of the things that should have been discussed at the conference.)

On October 2nd, after returning home, a state CTA delegate from my district visited me at school. During our discussion he asked me why I had spoken out at the conference. He then informed me that he had received a long distance call from Camp Seeley seeking information about me. He refused to divulge the caller's name but stated that THE CTA ETHICS COMMISSION MIGHT INVESTIGATE ME for asking the above questions in the conference.

What I experienced at Seeley sickened me as well as several other teachers present. I ask you—was it right to present one candidate in a falsified and dishonest light, then urge teachers to give financial support to the other candidate? Is this legal or ethical to pressure teachers in this manner? Was it right to place on top of the snack bar counter, material endorsing only Democratic candidates in the upcoming election? Was it right to vote this endorsement in JULY, before teachers returned to school? Was it right for Mr. McKay to speak as Richardson's campaign manager considering his leadership in the CTA? Do you, the Executive Board, approve of the tactics used?

As one teacher stated to me: "The CTA may try to tell us how to vote and we can pretend that we go along with them, but they'll never know just how we vote when we get to the polls." This statement shows the pressure exerted on teachers by the CTA.

Should not our differences be aired inside the organization rather than alienate those that differ, so that they do not have a voice to air their opinions. When our right to differ and to question is suppressed, democratic processes are no longer in effect.

Under these condition, I will not and cannot compromise my principles by supporting the CTA.

Sincerely yours,

Beverly C. Snodgrass
9499 El Granito Avenue
La Mesa, California

On the other hand MAX RAFFERTY says: (These quotes from his speech "The Passing of the Patriot" which won for him the George Washington Gold Medal award from Freedoms Foundation.)

"What will History have to say of my generation of educators—the generation of the '30's, the '40's, and the '50's? We were so busy educating for 'life adjustment' that we forgot that the first duty of a nation's schools is to preserve that nation."

"Do we believe it ourselves? I am convinced with all my heart that we do. It's not the fault of teachers that our profession has been brainwashed for thirty years with slogans like: 'There are no eternal verities'; 'Teach the child, not the subject'; and—worst of all—'Nothing is worth learning for the sake of learning'."

MAX RAFFERTY says: "California students can learn if given the opportunity. Insure their future with qualified leadership."

New Nursery, Pool Service Opening

A new nursery and an expanded pool service will open Saturday on Highway 101, across from the Civic Center.

Herb's Pool Service and Murata Nursery will open for business at 3765 Redwood Highway, about a block north of Wiltshire Towers and next door to Bamboo Reef.

The nursery is operated by landscape designer George Murata of Corte Madera, whose Oriental gardens have won top prize at the Marin Art and Garden Show for six consecutive years.

Herb Dougan, who has been in the pool chemical supplies and equipment business for seven years, is moving to the new location from his former site on Francisco Boulevard.

"Because of growing business, we needed a bigger display area," said Dougan. "We're the biggest pool service in the county now."

The two establishments, located in the same building, will be open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Customer parking is available both in front and rear of the new firms.

Customers southbound on Highway 101 can turn off directly from the highway into the nursery and pool service. Northbound cars must turn off toward Santa Venetia and take the underpass.

Murata and Dougan announced that their grand opening will probably come next spring, after their building has been completely remodeled.

Two other drivers drew fines and probation for their first offenses.

Philip James Steckel, 42, of Santa Clara, must pay $193 fine and remain on six months probation. Steckel was arrested on Highway 101 on Oct. 11.

WHY LAUTERWASSER DESERVES YOUR SUPPORT FOR TREASURER—TAX COLLECTOR

It is my wish in writing this letter to bring to the attention of the voters of Marin County, the opportunity they have to elect to the office of Tax Collector-Treasurer, a person of the fine qualifications of Russ Lauterwasser for that office.

As City Engineer for the City of Larkspur, and other cities in Marin County, I had occasion to observe his conscientious attention to his various offices as Assessor, Tax Collector-Treasurer, and Director of Budget in the City of Larkspur.

I found him not only honest and conscientious, but able, and noted that he made it a policy to run his office for the benefit of the taxpayers and citizens of the city, in each of the offices in which he served them. He believed in giving efficient service, and in keeping the tax rate as low as possible.

When he held office at Larkspur, one of his many accomplishments was in working out a re-organization program with holders of defaulted municipal bonds, to their satisfaction, putting them on a current basis, and saving the city considerable money. It was not long until, under Russ Lauterwasser's guidance, the City of Larkspur's cash position increased many thousands of dollars, while the tax rate remained low.

Although the office of Tax Collector-Treasurer is not a policy-making office, and does not fix the assessments or tax rates, it is helpful to the citizens to have in that office a person whose spirit and attitude are behind the lowest possible tax burden, and the most efficient operation of his own office toward that end, in the public interest. It is well recognized by all through Russ Lauterwasser's record that he makes it a practice to go to the bottom of things, no matter how difficult or involved, and to give them thorough analysis, to the end of getting the best result.

As a taxpayer and person interested in the well-being of Marin County, I honestly believe that the people of Marin County have a real opportunity, in the candidacy of Russ Lauterwasser, to elect a man who is well qualified and has the will to achieve objective results for all the people of the County.

5 Running For Bolinas Harbor Board

Five persons are contesting three seats on the Bolinas Harbor District board in Tuesday's election at Stinson Beach and Bolinas.

They are John R. Pepper and Louis J. De Ghelder, incumbents, Clyde W. King, Roy C. Gillman Jr., and Mrs. Mary B. Goddard. Holdover commissioners are Gene V. McDaniel, board president, of Bolinas, and Seibert L. Sefton of Stinson Beach. Commissioner John B. Love is not running for reelection.

Pepper was born in Bolinas of one of the village's founding families. He, assisted by his wife, Hattie, runs the John R. Pepper Market in Bolinas.

De Ghelder has lived in Stinson Beach 10 years, since retirement from a position with a refrigerator agency in Woodland. He has owned a home in Stinson for many years and, prior to formation of the harbor district, was a member of the Bolinas Harbor and Park Assn. He is past president of the Progressive Club.

King has lived in Stinson Beach one year. He is a retired rear admiral. He has been a member of the Naval Reserve for 41 years. He retired in 1960 after 34 years with Fibreboard Products Inc., where he handled industrial and labor relations, and now has an office in the same field in Mill Valley.

Gillman is a carpenter. He has lived in Stinson Beach since 1955. He is a volunteer fireman and a member of its ambulance corps, being in charge of maintenance of the ambulance. He has a sportsman's interest in the opening of the lagoon.

The harbor district was formed six years ago for development of the lagoon. Last month the Senate appropriations committee approved a $15,000 outlay for a navigatoin study of the lagoon. The study is to be of a jettied entrance to the lagoon which is proposed to be developed as a fishing and recreation harbor.

Crusade Reaches 63 Per Cent Of Goal

With $92,079 reported, the United Crusade campaign in Marin has reached 63 per cent of its $145,893 goal, Burton R. Kirchner, chairman, announced today.

This is eight per cent ahead of the same date last year, when the county had reached 55 per cent of its quota, Kirchner noted, adding, "It is a very hopeful sign."

So far only one campaign division, public employees, has exceeded its quota. However, said Kirchner, all but one of the other divisions are over the half-way mark. The single exception is business, with $5,001 reported for 30 per cent of quota.

Standings of the other divisions are: professional, $13,925, or 84 per cent; commerce and industry, $19,939, or 72 per cent; advance gifts, $16,520, or 67 per cent; public schools, $4,632, or 62 per cent; colleges and seminaries, $1,687, or 61 per cent; residential, $27,226 or 57 per cent.

In the professional division, medical employees were announced as the second group to go over its goal. They reported a total of $2,394 or 130 per cent of their $1,841 quota. Collections are still incomplete, according to Dr. John C. Siemens, chairman.

Employees of the county's four general hospitals and Ross Valley Medical Clinic were cited for "greatly increased gifts" and for helping to push the professionals into second place in division standings.

Old West (As It Never Was) Recreated

The frontier returns to Novato this weekend and next when the Community Club presents "Frontier Fling" at the Community building.

Curtain time will be 8 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday, and Nov. 9 and 10.

It is a locally written and produced musical farce of the Old West as it never existed, except in the ideas of Joe Jacob, who wrote it with the help of Leo Wagner, Elaine Jacob and Chris Kollgaard.

The action starts when Penelope Plumwhistel, a sweet young girl from the East, played by Eunice Layton, comes West to claim her inheritance which she thinks is a gold mine. It turns out to be a saloon named "Golden Ore House.

Penelope meets and falls in love with Mat Basterson, played by Robert Kone, a handsome well-dressed man about town, who robs the local bank.

The sheriff, played by Alex Cansagra, gets together a posse and chases Mat into Indian territory. Here the posse meets the Indian chief, played by William Hints, and a bevy of dancing Indian maidens.

The sheriff is tied to the stake and threatened with death unless he marries the chief's daughter, Ha Ha Minnie, played by Mrs. Roland Brown.

Colorful costumes, designed by Marie Dank, and dance routines created by Wanda Blackwell brighten the production. Donald Leaf is the producer and Paul Terry is the director. De Long Kone is the musical director. Sets were designed by Jerry Young and Robert Young is the stage manager. Eric Kollgaard is the lighting director.

Reservations can be made with Mrs. Howard Dank of 15 Plaza Demira for any performances.

Trade Cepeda? Nonsense, Says Stoneham

President Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants says he is irked by rumors that the Giants intend to trade all-star first baseman Orlando Cepeda.

Stoneham, bouyed by a report that there is nothing wrong with Cepeda's eyesight, said yesterday there is "absolutely no truth" to rumors that Cepeda is to be dealt away.

"I doubt there's a club in the league that could offer us enough for a player of Orlando's caliber even if we entertained such an idea," said Stoneham.

Stoneham also tossed a bouquet in the direction of Willie McCovey, the elongated first baseman-outfielder who was reported on the trading block prior to the 1962 season. The Giants' president said he was happy that the Giants retained McCovey.

Asked about Cepeda's late-season slump, which carried over into the World Series, Stoneham said he felt Cepeda was exhausted from too much baseball. He played 100 games of winter ball in Puerto Rico before the National League season began.

"This was bound to catch up to him sooner or later," said Stoneham, "and he lost his batting eye at a crucial time during the pennant race."

Winter baseball is off Cepeda's schedule during the 1962-63 off season. He plans to play basketball, stay in condition and take it easy.

It had been feared that Cepeda's eyesight was impaired by a cataract, but Dr. George Campion chased the fears Tuesday when he reported that the "Baby Bull" had better than normal vision.

49ER NOTES

Hickey Says 'I'd Still Trade Y.A.'

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Even though Y. A. Tittle passed for more than 500 yards last Sunday at New York, Coach Red Hickey of San Francisco says he would trade him again under the same circumstances.

Asked about that yesterday, the 49er coach naswered: "If the circumstances were the same, I certainly would trade Tittle again."

Hickey explained that John Brodie played most of the 1960 season because of injuries to Tittle. If Tittle's performance with the 49ers had been as outstanding as for New York, the spread offense Shotgun would never have been born.

It was because of the Shotgun that Hickey kept Brodie, Bill Kilmer and Bob Waters, three guys who can run as well as pass.

Tittle was traded for Lou Cordileone, who was a disappointment. But Cordileone was traded to Los Angeles for defensive back Elbert Kimbrough, now a regular. So in the long run it was Tittle for Kimbrough.

STILL STRONGEST

Hickey also refused to back down from his pre-season claim that this was his strongest 49er club since he took over in 1959. But he added that he did not necessarily expect to win the championship, because Green Bay and Detroit were also loaded.

Hickey said Baltimore, the 49ers' foe next Sunday in San Francisco, also was loaded.

"Now that they've got Lennie Moore back at tight back, their attack is vastly improved. John Unitas has been overthrowing this year, they say, but we all know he is on of the great clutch quarterbacks. So let's forget about Tittle and think about Unitas."

Stormy Ump Larry Goetz Dead At 67

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Larry Goetz, 67, former National League umpire, who died yesterday enroute to Cincinnati General Hospital after becoming ill at his home.

Goetz' death ended a stormy career which saw him dismissed from the umpire staff by National League President Warren Giles in 1957 after sitting out that season because of illness.

He had hoped to be named supervisor of the league's umpires, but his long battle with the league office and with players proved costly as he failed to get the job. One of his main points of contention was that umpires should be included in the players' pension fund.

The loud and fast talking Goetz later was hired as a baseball commentator by the Mutual Broadcasting Co.

He and his wife recently returned from a four-month tour of Europe. They had planned to leave next week for Florida.

Cars Quieter Thanks To Satellite Check

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (UPI) The same type of equipment used to check on earth-orbiting satellites and missiles is helping automobile engineers make cars quieter.

To get an accurate check on all noise and vibration, car manufacturers can use a two-channel electronic telemetry system that "listens" to the sounds test cars make on the road and transmits signals to a sensitive receiver in a following vehicle.

U.S. Aid To Airports Is Over $69 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — The federal aid to airports program in 1962 provides $69,491,748 for 326 airport projects in all 50 states, reports the official publication of the Aerospace Industries Assn. of America, Inc.

About 41 per cent of the money will be used for construction of runways and taxiways, and 26 per cent for land acquisition.

World Cage Official

M/Sgt. William Ross, athletic director of the 78th Fighter Wing at the Hamilton Field Air Defense Command Base, has been chosen as the only United States official to officiate at the fourth World Basketball Championship in Manila, Philippines, Dec. 1 through 15.

Dick Tiger Named Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger of Nigeria, newly crowned middleweight champion of the World Boxing Assn., was named "Fighter of the Month" by Ring Magazine.

Ring, however, rates Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., as the middleweight champ, placing Tiger in the No. 1 contender position, followed by Gene Fullmer, the West Jordan, Utah, battler dethroned by Tiger.

There were no changes in the heavyweight division, ruled by Sonny Liston, but Doug Jones advanced one step to third in the light heavy class following Eddie Cotton's defeat by Mauro Mina of Peru, the No. 2 contender to Harold Johnson.

Oakland Oaks Sign Another Cager

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball League increased their roster to nine yesterday by signing Govoner Vaughn, former University of Illinois Star.

Vaughn, who stands 6-4, played last season with the Chicago Majors and the Hawaii Chiefs.

PREP OF WEEK

Mike Kemp, Drake's break-away runner who returned a Marin Catholic kickoff for 72 yards and a winning touchdown last Saturday night, explains to Pirate back coach Carl Brown how it was done. Kemp, a junior who stands 5-6 and tips the scales at a mere 135 pounds, received the kickoff on his own 28-yard line with only 1:15 left in the game and the Drake Pirates trailing 13-12. He ran straight up the middle and broke free for a 72-yard TD gallop, giving the Pirates an 18-13 victory. It wasn't his first long return of the season, as the little speedster returned one for 85 yards against San Rafael and another for 80 yards against Terra Linda, both for touchdowns.

Marin Gal Bowls 288, Best League Mark Here Since '46

The bowlers at Greenbrae Lanes were still murmuring today about Vivian Gray.

Mrs. Gray rolled a near-perfect 288 game Tuesday morning in the Coffee Cuppers League at Greenbrae Lanes. Her great effort for the "perfect game" was the highest line bowled in Marin league competition for either men or women since 1946, when a 298 game was rolled at the old San Anselmo Lanes.

Mrs. Gray, who lives at 1122 Court Street in San Rafael, started her big game with 10 straight strikes. As the crowd held its breath on her first extra shot, the ball whizzed down the lane, crashed into the pins and knocked over eight, leaving the five and nine.

She picked up the two remaining pines on her next extra heave, giving her the 288.

Mrs. Gray, mother of two, has been carrying an average of 165 in league competition. The big game came between a pair of 175's, giving her a tremendous 638 three-game series.

The woman kegler was to get a $288 cash prize from the Freeswing Co., makers of the Coffee Cuppers team bowling uniforms. The sponsor of the team is the Bowlers Shop in San Rafael.

Hall Led Jocks At GG Field

ALBANY (AP) — Jockey Dean Hall and the horses he rode won the most races and earned the most money—in that order—during the 44-day Golden Gate Fields meeting which ended Tuesday.

Of the 219 mounts Hall rode, 47 won and 38 placed. Another 28 came in third and helped him collect $104,730 in money-earners.

Farrell W. Jones led trainers. His horses won $100,190 in purse cash during the meeting and he saddled 32 winners in 112 starts.

Chase Eddie ($7.20) with jockey Johnny Longden getting his 5,650th winner, won the $10,000 added San Francisco mile in the windup feature.

WILL OWENS HAUNT 49ERS THIS SUNDAY?

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—R. C. Owens, the former San Francisco 49er pass catching specialist, will start against his ex-teammates Sunday when the Baltimore Colts invade San Francisco.

Owens, who has been a second stringer for Baltimore, strained knee ligaments early in the season and didn't recover until he second game.

"I'm playing behind an All-Pro guy," Owens said yesterday, referring to Ray Berry.

Then Owens added, "I'm not unhappy at Baltimore. I'll do my job, whether it is to be a sub or sit on the bench and cheer."

Cal Tackle Will Miss UCLA Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

BERKELEY, University of California tackle Ron Calegari, shaken up last week against Penn State, will be on the sidelines when the Bears meet UCLA Saturday.

Coach Marv Levy, who sent the Bears through a short scrimmage today, said Warren Bock will replace Calegari.

INDIANS SHARP

STANFORD — The Stanford Indians held a light workout today and prepared to leave for Portland for Saturday's contest with the Oregon Ducks.

Coach Jack Curtice held a 30-minute drill last night which he described as the best of the season. He said fullback J. D. Lodato and quarterbacks Steve Thurlow and Clark Weaver were outstanding in the workout.

DOUBLE FRACTURE

SAN JOSE — San Jose State Coach Bob Titchenal readied the Spartans today for their Saturday night clash with University of the Pacific, a team he described as "a big club with good speed."

The Spartans worked out for an hour and a half yesterday. Tackle Wendell Schell, injured in a scrimmage earlier this week, was found to have a double leg fracture requiring insertion of a metal plate.

STOCKTON — The University of Pacific Tigers stressed pass defense today as they drilled for Saturday night's game with San Jose State.

Cal's Morton Hottest Collegiate Attraction Since Albert, LeBaron

HANLEY

Craig Morton has stirred up more excitement about college football hereabouts than existed since Frankie Albert was at Stanford and Eddie LeBaron at University of Pacific.

Until the 6-4, 210-pound former Campbell High star made his electrifying varsity debut at California last Saturday, high priced publicity agents were waging a losing battle. They had just about run out of ideas in trying to rekindle a genuine public interest in the college game.

A hard core of loyal Old Blues always could be counted on each Saturday at Berkeley but, even counting the big Cal student body, there were only 31,500 in Strawberry Canyon for last Saturday's intersectional game between Cal and Penn State.

That was the game in which Morton made his debut. When Cal meets UCLA this Saturday at Berkeley, 50,000, maybe 60,000, will be there to see Morton. Before Morton did what he did against Penn State, the concessionaires in Memorial Stadium had planned for a crowd of 35,000 this Saturday.

"MORTON INDIVIDUALLY accomplished more in a single afternoon than I have been able to achieve in months of drum beating," frankly acknowledged Wiles Hallock, California's publicity man.

"The wire services have been after me all week for background, feature material on Craig."

Morton's background, of course, is well known in northern California. He was a 12-letter man at Campbell in football, baseball and basketball. He led the Cal freshman football team to an undefeated 6-0 season last year and hit .400 for the Cal freshman baseball team as an outfielder.

NOBODY IN northern Cal ever doubted that Norton would be a star at Cal. It was just a matter of whether he would shine as brilliantly as he did at Campbell where he won Northern California High School "Athlete of the Year" honors in 1960.

But even his high school coach, Jim Muir, had to admit that Morton's poised debut against Penn State was far beyond the expectations of anyone. Rip Engle, a coaching veteran who has been around a long time, thought Morton was going to beat his Nittany Lions in what Engle called "the greatest varsity debut I've ever seen."

The 19-year-old quarterback's debut came in the second quarter when Penn State was leading 7-0 and dominating the game.

BY THE time he finished throwing 28 passes, completing 20 of them for 274 yards and three touchdowns, Penn State was happy to settle for a shaky 23-21 victory.

It's no wonder why a dozen major league baseball teams and a score of colleges were after Morton at Campbell. He decided on Cal's football scholarship which he will repay in full this Saturday if the 50,000 or 60,000 do show up in Strawberry Canyon instead of the previously expected 35,000.

Naturally, the pros are keeping an eye on Morton—both baseball and football. But the young man's immediate objective is a degree in business administration, preparatory to studying law.

Detroit Tigers Win Japanese Game 6-2

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, sparked by Bubba Morton's hitting, defeated the Daimai Orions-Yomiuri Giants All-Star team 6-2 today.

MEET THE REAL MARIN SOCCER TEAM

It's Quail Season Saturday

Saturday will appeal to any guy with a gun who has a yen to furnish his family with a feast of quail, chukar partridge or tree squirrels. The season opens all three.

From Mendocino and Lake counties south to the S.F. Bay area, populations of quail are above those of last year, while from S.F. Bay south through San Luis Obispo County, many areas have twice as many birds as last year. Bag and possession limit is eight in most of the state (consult DFG Hunting Regulations, 1962, for exceptions).

Chukar hunting also is rated as better than last year. Like quail, the season will run through Jan. 1 with certain exceptions as noted in the hunting regulations.

The same season, with certain exceptions, applies to tree squirrel hunting. Best public hunting for squirrels is expected to be in the Mendocino National Forest and Jackson and Boggs Mt. State Forests.

MONTEREY COUNTY reports squirrel populations twice the average of the last three years in the Nacimiento-Cone Peak area, and up about 50 per cent in the Chews Ridge area.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
IJ Fish and Game Writer

No significant changes are reported in Mendocino, Lake, and Sonoma counties, but populations are ample for hunters willing to put forth the effort.

Remember, please, it is highly important that you get permission to hunt on private lands.

OKAY, that's that for the bright hunting prospects anent quail, chukars and tree squirrels: Now how about a few blasts at Thanksgiving size turkeys?

On Sunday, the Niles Sportsmen's Club is staging one of its famous Turkey Shoots. Everybody is invited to come and shoot or just fraternize. There will be refreshments, ammunition, and entertainment for everyone. In addition there will be 40 turkeys given away to lucky ticket holders.

Incidentally, should you wish to sharpen that shooting ability, the club will have its running deer and trap fields in operation from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. So why not drive to the club grounds located on Mission Boulevard between Niles and Mission San Jose on Sunday and join the merry throng?

THE SAN LEANDRO Marina bass and rough fish derby last Sunday was a big success with participants from S.F., Alameda, Marin County and Contra Costa County.

Some 90 skiffs from the Marina brought in 200 bass but none over six pounds. The rules of the derby allowed fishing any place, and as a result, the lads who offered bait to bass in the Suisun Bay and environs copped the prizes. First prize ($75) went to Ron Marino for his 34-pound, five-ounce striper; second ($50) was taken by Art Peterson of Oakland with a 26-opund, nine-ounce fish. Walt Guiboa won $25 for his 20-pound, 11-ounce bass.

In the rough fish classification, Preston Blue won the $75 first prize with a 22-pound leopard shark, and a father and son team, Dave and George Silveria took second and third prizes ($50 and $25) on leopard sharks. Son, Dave's went 21-10, and Dad, George's, 17-4.

NOVATO COACH HAS BRAND NEW FOOTBALL STAR

Marlin Olsen, head football coach at Novato High, was all smiles today and it was not because his Hornet gridders have won their last two games.

His most recent smile is over his new football player, a seven-pound, seven-ounce son his wife, Silvia, gave birth to Tuesday at Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco.

The Olsens have one other child, a daughter.

Dayton 'Accepts' NCAA Ban

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Dayton Flyers, perenially among the top basketball squads in the land, are out of tournament competition for the next two years because of excessive transportation arrangements made for a freshman hotshot in 1960.

The Flyers, 1962 National Invitational Tournament champions, were grounded yesterday when the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. council, winding up a three-day fall meeting here, ordered a two-year probationary period for the university.

The action, the result of illegal transportation provided on four instances to Roger Brown of New York two years ago when he was a freshman, knocked Dayton out of the post-season NCAA championships as well as the NIT and all other holiday tournaments except one in 1963 to which the Flyers already were committed.

The exception will be the 1963 Holiday Festival a year from December in New York's Madison Square Garden. Prior to the probationary action, Dayton had accepted an advance invitation for the festival and had signed a formal contract to compete.

In Dayton, the Rev. Raymond A. Roesch, university president, said "we accept the penalty imposed by the NCAA committee on infractions and will continue to make every effort to abide by all the laws and by-laws of the NCAA."

Dayton's violations included transporting Brown from his home in Brooklyn, N.Y., to enroll at the university, and during the 1960-61 season, when the 6-foot-5 former schoolboy ace was on the freshman team, paying his round trip transportation to New York three times for personal matters.

Father Roesch said Brown's trips were for appearances in traffic court in New York following an automobile accident in which he was involved and added: "The athletic department was motivated by what it judged to be a hardship case and felt that it was justified."

Idle Warriors Lead NBA As Hawks Lose

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore made its point. Detroit didn't make enough.

Baltimore, bidding for a 1963 National Basketball Assn. franchise turned out a respectable 4,912 for the first of seven NBA shows at the Maryland city this year and saw the well-balanced Syracuse Nats trim St. Louis 126-108.

In Detroit, the Pistons remained the NBA's only winless team, losing their sixth consecutive game as the Boston Celtics breezed to a 115-100 decision.

The Nats and Celtics are tied for first place in the Eastern Division with 4-1 records. The Hawks' loss dropped them out of first place in the West. Idle San Francisco took over with a 4-1 mark to St. Louis' 5-2.

The Warriors, meanwhile, asked for waivers yesterday on Dave Gunther, reserve forward who played his college basketball at the University of Iowa.

The Warriors said Tom Meschery, a regular recently released from a tour of duty with the Army, would be reactivated today, making it necessary to release one man to get down to the NBA's 12-man limit.

In the other game last night, the Los Angeles Lakers playing at home, ran off from the New York Knickerbockers, 115-95.

Baltimore, which hasn't had an NBA team since 1954, saw a tight game until midway of the third period when the Nats' Hal Greer and John Kerr led a spurt that turned a 72-71 edge into a 94-81 lead. Greer scored eight points and Kerr five during the spree. Kerr wound up with 26 points, and Greer with 19, but St. Louis' Bob Pettit took scoring honors with 29.

Cops Called To Break Up Seals Riot

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Police were called last night to break up a riot involving the Spokane and San Francisco Western Hockey League teams, which resulted in an injury to a feminine spectator, eight major penalties, and the game being called in a minute and four seconds remaining.

The fight at the Spokane arena began with San Francisco's Larry McNabb and Connie Madigan of the Comets slugging it out. Both benches emptied and five separate fights broke out. During the melee Spokane Coach Roy McBride was knocked to the ice.

The police swarmed on the ice but it was still several minutes before fighting subsided. Referee Lloyd Gilmore meted out major penalties to four members of each team and called the game. Spokane won, 4-0.

In more placid action around the WHL, Edmonton got two goals from Forbes Kennedy to down Calgary 4-2 and Portland moved into first place in the southern division with a 7-4 win over Los Angeles.

In the Spokane-San Francisco bout, goalie Claude Dufour registered his first shutout of the season for the last-place Comets. Gordie Stratton led the scoring with two unassisted second-period goals.

MARIN PROP WASH

Now Is A Good Time To Buy That Used Boat You Wanted

Are you planning to buy a good used boat? Fall is an excellent time to find one, because so many owners place their boats for sale this time of year. And they usually do so because they plan to rebuy. They are now interested in a larger model, or perhaps another design.

Buy now, and you'll have the winter months to get acquainted with your rig. Enjoy tinkering with it, glamorizing it. And there will be things you'll want to change YOUR WAY, personalizing it. The previous owner had the battery box in the left hand corner. So assert yourself. Install it in the right. The boat's blue. Make it a gay Comanche red. It's named "The Plugger." Give her the benefit of the doubt. Rename her "Scat."

If you're examiniing a used fiber glass boat, open the bilge access plug and pump out the condensation in the floatation chamber beneath the cockpit sole. Finally, launch the boat and check it for leaks. Pay no heed to the owner who may be chewing his nails. Leave it in the water at least an hour. Then test it under power.

SOME OF THE early models developed longitudinal cracks, and this will show up in slow leaks. Other cracks resulted from fatigue or from too much flexing. Push down hard on the topside with your thumb. This may cause the seller some anguish, but if you notice the hull bending beneath the pressure, you can be sure of one thing: The construction was too light.

The owner of poor marine merchandise knows it's inferior, although he may attempt to justify it. Move on to the congenial seller who has nothing to hide. You'll get a better buy!

Statistics show that more boats are used for fishing than any other single purpose. Yet even in this specialized area of boating, there is really no all-purpose craft. A simple rowboat might be just the item for your particular needs. On the other hand, complications might cause you to select an inboard or outboard. Your taste and bank account may lead you to the large "sport-fisherman" equipped with outriggers, a tuna tower and harpooning pulpit. Yet no one dream-boat will do EVERYTHING.

ARE YOU THE buyer who says, "I want a boat, but every penny has to count"? Then you should think also in terms of low maintenance—a big consideration. Examine the well-constructed lighter-weight boats. Those made of aluminum and some made of plywood. These make for lighter work too, when launching or loading a car top or trailered boat. It costs money to tow a boat. If you don't believe this, let your gas mileage speak for itself. Tow your rig 100 miles and keep track of your gas consupmtion. Make the same run again without the load and and check again.

While no one operational item represents a great expense, collectively, over the time your boat's in service, it can really add up.

Have a look at Marin's boat dealers' used boats — or the new 1963's. And look through the classified ads. The boat you want is someplace "out there."

A HALLOWEEN PARTY—an annual fun event of the Marin Ski Club members—was on schedule Saturday night. Fifty costumed clubbers and guests ghosted and witched in the American Legion Hall in Larkspur. Traditional snapping at bobbing apples, games and dancing went on until the stroke of midnight when a potluck buffet dinner was served.

THE SAUSALITO CRUISING Club's Halloween affair, featuring a steak dinner, was reported a huge success. John Gudelj headed the committee. The club house was the spot, and members and guests from Fort Sutter Club in Sacramento set the attendance at 85. These out of county guests powered down by boats, reporting smooth water, high overcast, and good cruising.

MRS. HAROLD J. EVANS watches as her daughter, Carole Christine, hugs her Spanish pajama doll with fur hair. The two are visiting her parents the Rev. and Mrs. George Loftness in Corte Madera. The Evans are visiting from Madrid, Spain. On display are several of Carole's handmade Spanish dresses.

Visitor From Madrid Tells Of Life, Spanish Fashion World

By PATRICIA ZINN

Living among a friendly people with the excitement of flamenco dancing, bullfights and soft guitars is Mrs. Harold J. Evans, who with her young daughter, Carole Christine, is now visiting her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. George Loftness of Corte Madera.

In Madrid, where her husband is the deputy superintendent of American Dependent Schools in Spain, Mrs. Evans has also enjoyed living in the capital of the city whose designers have captivated the world with this season's "Spanish Look."

AS A WRITER for a weekly American paper in Madrid, "The Guide Post," the attractive daughter of the retired pastor of the Marin Lutheran Church and his wife, has an insight into the world of both women's and children's fashions.

In discussing and displaying ensembles from the wardrobes which she brought to this country for herself and Carole, Mrs. Evans pointed out that most of her clothes were custom made and that everything is handmade for children.

IN SPAIN, she said, "All the children dress alike and as the Spanish like very short children's clothes, the little boys wear short pants the year around. She also remarked that Princess Grace of Monaco buys many clothes for her children in that country. Little Spanish girls have their ears pierced the day they are born and look adorable in wearing tiny gold or pearl earrings with their little dresses."

"Shopping for clothes is different in that customers sip sherry in the shops while designers, weavers and seamstresses make not only the garment but also the accessories as hat and handbag."

CUSTOM MADE clothes are relatively inexpensive as are most services in this country where one can live luxuriously on an average income.

The mother and daughter will conclude their six weeks visit the middle of this month.

SHOWING THE Spanish fashions which have had such an influence on the world this season, Mrs. Evans wears a handknit dress trimmed in fringe. She shows a custom made suit with matching purse and hat along with a replica of the toreador's jacket. (Independent-Journal photos)

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Parties For Bridal Couples, Newlyweds' Reception Slated

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Parties for engaged couples and plans for a reception for a recently married Marin couple have been revealed. Mrs. William H. (Ruth) Price and Ronald Brindley of Mill Valley who are being married this afternoon in Las Vegas, were honored Saturday night at a formal dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Podich at their Los Altos home. Covers were laid for 30 friends of the honored couple, mostly from San Francisco and the Peninsula. An orchestra played during the dinner hour.

Ron and his bride on return from a honeymoon in Nevada and Southern California, will live in her Kent Woodlands home. While they are away the house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Campbell (Margaret Obach) of Kentfield. The Campbells were married Oct. 20 at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel and Marge's mother, Mrs. Anna Marie Obach, came from Southern Califronia for the ceremony. Bob, film producer with Gordon News Film Co. in San Francisco, and his bride will entertain about 200 friends at a reception at Golden Gate Yacht Club in San Francisco, Nov. 10.

Ruth and Ron, accompanied by Gus and Peg Niederholzer of Kentfield, flew to Las Vegas this morning. The Niederholzers are to be the wedding attendants. Ron and Ruth are going to New York in December and are planning a cruise to the South Pacific early next year. Ron is an advertising executive.

Mrs. James Guilder of Greenbrae honored Ruth at a luncheon last week. Other guests were Mesdames Sherman Beers, Benedict Giusto, Karl Siewart, Howard P. Haswell, Elliott Seymour, Alfred Kuehl, Peter Giovanzana, and Niederholzer.

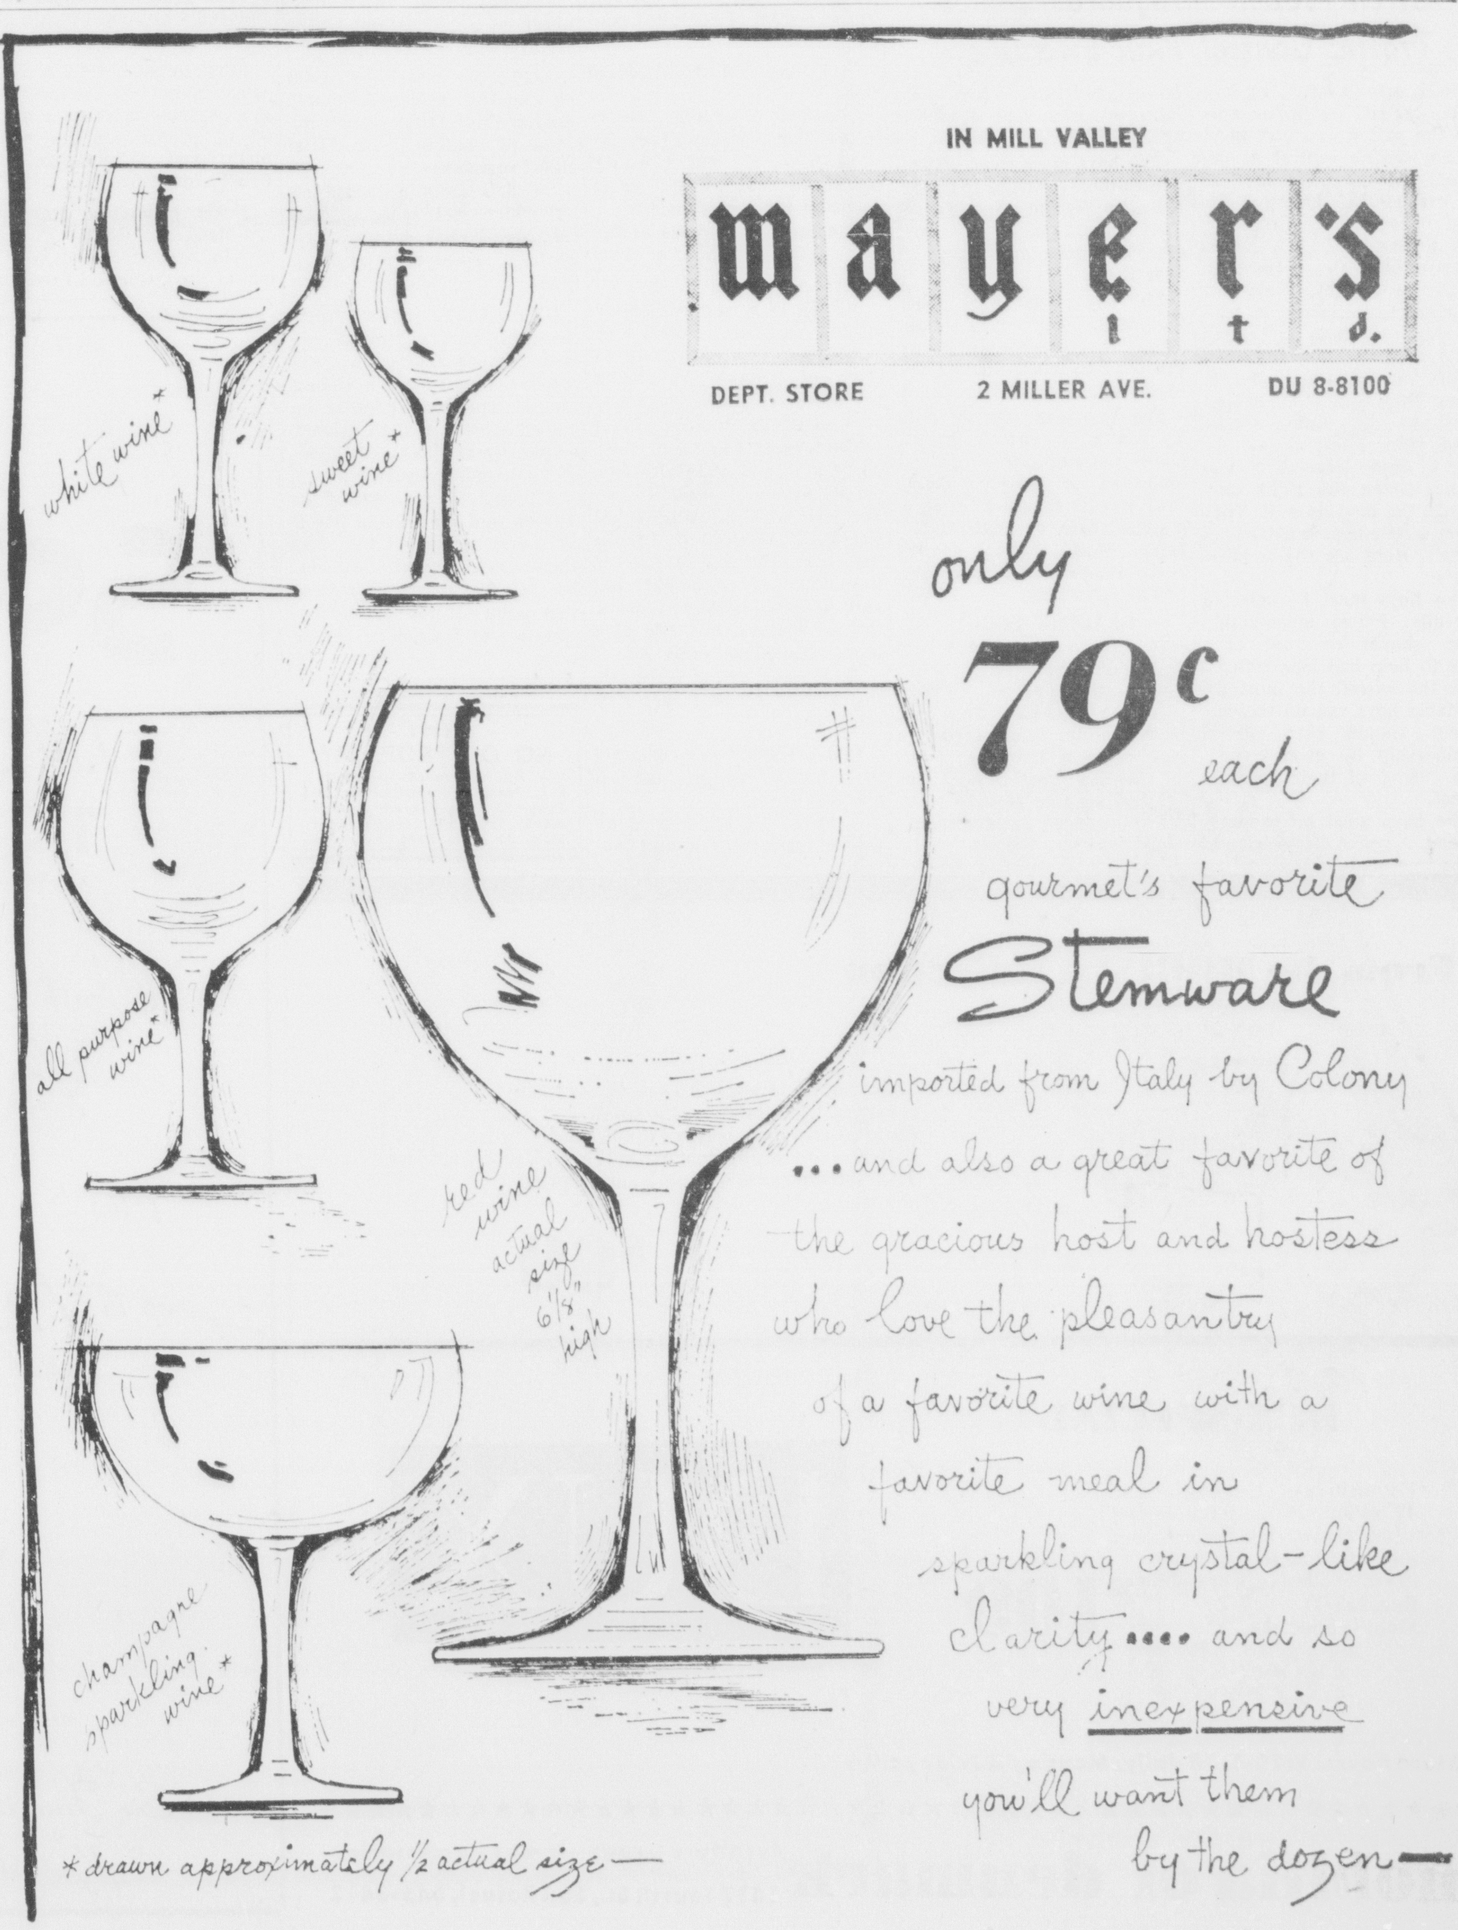
UNEXPECTED was the reunion in Japan of three Marinites. Mrs. E. A. Peters of San Rafael, who is making a tour of the Orient with her husband, Lieutenant Colonel Peters, in her letter to me written Oct. 28 and mailed in Manila, said: "A very strange thing happened in Tokyo." They were on a special train from Tokyo bound for Nikko to attend the Festival of Fall Leaves. "So in all that crowd we sat across the aisle from Mildred Dunshee of Winship Park with her friend Elsie Semrau (of Berkeley). I'd heard she was coming to Japan but in a city of more than 10 million, never expected to see her." Colonel and Mrs. Peters spent 24 days in Japan. They were three days in Manila and left there for three weeks in Hong Kong. Jean Peters wrote they would go to Bangkok, Singapore, Malaya, then to Australia, traveling from Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne and finally to Perth to visit their long time friend, Eva Penn.

Milly Dunshee and Elsie Semrau who worked together a year in Europe for the Red Cross carefully planned the round the world trip they are making. Milly has a three and a half months leave from her secretarial position at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. The two have arranged to stop for four days each month in some of the beautiful places they come to on the seashore or in national parks.

They'll ski in the Himalayas, fly from one large city to another and tour the countries by bus and train. Elsie and Milly were in Hawaii a short time, then went to the Philippines. They left Japan for Formosa yesterday and will fly to Hong Kong, Indonesia, Bali, Singapore, Cambodia, New Delhi, Bombay, Darjiling, Madras, Colombo, Damascus, Cairo, Beirut, Jerusalem, and Tel Aviv. They'll fly back to New York from Israel.

DATESETTER, U.S.A.

Gentleness marks the season's most elegant Datesetter fashions. Soft fullness prevails in this shapely bell skirt below a tightly fitted bodice . . . scooped and sleeveless for very special evenings. Cotillion formals designed this prom parfait of William Rose' dazzling metallic brocade of acetate, mylar and nylon in moonbeam white, green and silver.



ELEGANT LIVING ROOM

A feeling of serenity is created by this living room from "Decoration and Design 1963" the world's largest design show, sponsored by the American Institute of Decorators. Done by Joseph Braswell and Inman Cook, it carries out a Palladian architectural theme with solid vinyl walls of forum gray. The room is accented by a landscape painting over the sofa and a delft porcelain tulipiere holding flowers in the window arch.

Given Proper Safeguards Junior Traffic Control Plan Effective

"Is it safe to let young boys direct traffic?" a father asks. "In the past we haven't needed any traffic control at our school, but now we do. The P-TA suggested hiring a retired policeman to direct the cars during the rush hours. County authorities refused to spend the money. Now our principal is organizing a traffic patrol of fifth and sixth grade boys. He says they can do the job. Can they, safely?"

Yes, they can. When I first heard of the junior traffic patrol plan, I felt as you do. But I soon learned I was wrong. Given the right safeguards, the boys do well. They direct traffic near hundreds of schools. Here are the requirements:

The Boys must be selected carefully. Patrol membership never should be used as a trick to help bad kids reform. Only the wisest, the most dependable boys can do the job. They should earn patrol membership by good citizenship during all their years in school.

The boys must be properly trained. A police officer should be assigned to drill them. Military precision and discipline are needed.

The boys must wear distinctive clothes. A bright red cape, for example, and a special cap. They should stand out from other children who may be near them.

The boys must work from the curbs. They never should stand in the street. They shouldn't be where they're apt to get hit.

The boys can succeed only on moderately busy corners. Main thoroughfares, arterial highways, or crowded downtown streets should have automatic signals, or adult traffic cops. Boys cannot control really tough traffic situations, and shouldn't try.

Japanese Women Put Security Above Love

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's women, who took up the American idea of getting married for love after World War II, and reported going back to the old Japanese system of arranged marriage.

The magazine Asahi Geino says:

"Instead of going blindly into a love marriage, they try to steer a safe and steady course of cold calculation in choosing their husbands."

The magazine quotes a Japanese salesgirls view of marriage:

"IF HE IS a man I don't absolutely dislike or detest love will come, "its ridiculous to think of married life being based on love alone. The world isn't so sentimental."

The magazine based its story on a survey of 2,340 young Japanese women conducted by Tokyo Medical University last spring. All of the interviewers were men. The girls they talked to included office workers, bar and cabaret hostesses, beauticians, dressmakers, and girls living with their families.

Ninety per cent of them said that money is what makes marriage go.

ONLY THREE per cent said they wanted to get married for love alone.

More than 95 per cent of the women said they would not marry a man earning less than 25,000 yen (about U.S. dupl a month—the median Japanese wage.

"Otherwise we can't live," observed a 24 year-old textile factory worker.

Eighty per cent of the women said they wanted to marry graduates of "first class" universities working for "first class" companies.

"If he's from a first class university and with a good company, he has self-made credentials," observed a pretty typist.

DIPLOMATS, junior executives, bankers, engineers and doctors were among the most popular types of husbands sought. The least popular included salesmen, shop owners, employees of small companies, and newspaper reporters.

Although 60 per cent of the women said they would prefer to marry a man taller than themselves, they hurriedly added they would compromise on this point—if the prospective spouse was financially competent.

Viva La Liberte—French Women Taking To The Road

PARIS (UPI)—Women crowding to look at prettier French cars at the Paris auto show confirm that the woman driver, a new addition to the French scene, is here to stay.

Such features at the annual world-famed show of cars as models in pastel colors with colored upholstery and fingertip gear control indicate automobile manufacturers know that the French wife now has a say in the purchase of the family automobile.

More and more French families can afford automobiles instead of just motor scooters in these prosperous days. And women taking over the wheels are but one of the revolutions of French life in postwar years.

Shoppers' Guide To Toys Can Help End Guesswork

When shopping for toys there is no more need to face row after row of boxes in self-service toy departments and wonder what kinds of toys are inside, how they work, if they are any good and if they are appropriate for this or that child. A new publication, Toy Shoppers' Annual Guide — 1962-63, claims to have the answers.

The guide, published by Toy Guidance Council, Inc., is a complete handbook, with 240 pages which are devoted to helping shoppers to buy toys sensibly and economically for children of any age. Articles by Dr. Benjamin Spack and other leading child development experts define the play needs of children and tell how to fill them. Also, the functional benefits inherent in over a dozen major categories of children's play equipment are described.

The Council doesn't pull any punches in its approach. Some of the most sensitive subjects concerning toys are faced squarely.

Toy Shoppers' Annual Guide is on sale where magazines are sold. It can also be obtained directly from Toy Guidance, Inc., 1 West 25th Street, New York 10, N.Y.

Great Fluctuation In Cost Is Created By Vitamin Units

(Editor's Note: Following is the third of three dispatches on vitamins).

By BARNEY SEIBERT

CHICAGO (UPI)—Why is there such a fluctuation in the cost of multi-purpose vitamin pills?

A spokesman for Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill., explained that the answer is on the label.

"We make three multiple vitamin mixtures. One is low priced, one medium priced and the other high priced. All contain vitamins A, C and D along with certain of the B-complex group. But in the low priced pill there are 5,000 units of Vitamin A, in the medium priced pill 10,000 units and the high priced pill 25,000 units," he said.

"Generally speaking, the higher priced pill contain more units of a given vitamin, and they may contain varieties of vitamins and minerals not found in the lower priced capsules," the spokesman said.

Which price range should the purchaser buy?

"I'M NOT A physician, but I would say that you shouldn't buy the highest potency (highest priced) vitamins unless a physician has suggested it," the Abbott spokesman said. "For the healthy adult the low priced vitamin mixtures are adequate. In case of illness you might want to go to the medium priced capsules. Low or medium priced multi-purpose vitamins make up for imbalance in the diet. High priced vitamin capsules fall into the treatment category."

The drug industry believes the danger of an overdose of viatmins—of "vitamin intoxication"—has been overstressed.

An official of one drug firm said, "I'm not trying to pick a fight with the AMA, but there are very few instances of this. While it is humanly possible to get an overdose of Vitamin A or D, the likelihood is one chance in many millions. On the other hand, extremely high doses of Vitamin A are sometimes given for therapeutic purposes. Some physicians prescribe daily doses as high as 100,000 units for certain illnesses."

DRUG INDUSTRY leaders accept with reservations the AMA claim that most people do not need vitamins.

"It is true that healthy persons who eat the five classes of food needed for good nutrition in the quantities recommended do not need supplementary vitamins. But there is a question of how many people get a normal diet," an industry spokesman said.

The ethical drug industry also admits there has been some misleading advertising for vitamins, but it blames most of it on "health food faddists" and door-to-door vitamin pill salesmen.

"OURS IS THE most policed industry in the nation," an industry official said. "We are regulated by the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

"The FDA requires us to have a stable product which contains only the substances and quantities specified on the label. The FTC polices our advertising."

Non-Academic Skill Needs Development In Early Age

By DAVID NYDICK

Is there more to learning than the academic subjects? The individual who is "handy around the house" has many skills. These special abilities are valuable and should be developed.

Many schools have included the development of manual skills in their total program. However, there is limited emphasis on these areas before the junior and senior high schools. Even at these upper grade levels, there is little or no attention given to these subjects for girls and boys enrolled in regular academic courses.

THERE ARE, of course, vocational type high schools, but these are only for those choosing the highly specialized programs. Generally, in the elementary school, the extent of these types of subjects depends upon the interest and ability of individual teachers and the limits of available equipment.

There are many opportunities for teaching these techniques to children. Judgment as to the age for introducing particular skills is important. As in all areas, individual children vary in growth rates. You can show a six year old how to hold a hammer, while you would consider it dangerous to have him working with electricity. The development of the basic abilities is necessary before the learning of the actual useful skill.

There is a direct connection between operating many toys and operating drills, screw drivers, and hammers. Watch your child as he plays and you will get an idea of when he has developed the physical ability to handle particular equipment safely.

YOUR PURCHASES of toys and games can be planned to include those which will help your child develop coordination. For the young child, you will find many devices such as building and construction sets, hammering toys, etc. As the child grows older, these items should become smaller and more detailed. The building of model cars and airplanes is helpful if they are not too difficult to complete. Do not give the child materials which are so advanced that he loses interest and becomes frustrated.

BEYOND THE USE of toys, you will have to be resourceful. Help your child understand how to repair minor problems around the home. Building a simple shelf, or putting a "do it yourself" table together all are part of this learning.

This field of education is highly dependent upon the efforts of parents. Your emphasis should be upon growth of confidence and a wide variety of skills.

The rewards of being handy are great. Besides the monetary savings, there is the wonderful feeling of accomplishment. (UPI)

News Must Not Be Used As Weapon Or We Are Lost

On Tuesday in Washington, Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, flatly stated that the government controlled release of news concerning the Cuban crisis as a "weapon" in the drive to force dismantling of Soviet missile bases.

To quote Sylvester:

"News flowing from actions taken by the government is part of the weaponry. In the world we live in, the generation of news by actions taken by the government becomes one weapon in a strained situation."

He declared that the whole emphasis of news releases was aimed at "speaking in one voice to your adversary.' And, he added, "The results, in my opinion, justify the methods we used."

The result to which Sylvester obviously does not refer is the breakdown of confidence in what he and his department will say in the future. Forever more, or at least until this attitude can be eradicated, the gnawing question concerning administration news releases will be, "what results are they after now?"

The Kennedy administration almost from the start has been under criticism for its "control" and "management" of the news. This is the first time, however, that such censorship policy has been designated as a "method" of getting "results."

The more you consider the situation, the more sinister Sylvester's words appear.

Democracy can not operate unless the people are informed truthfully and fully of what is happening. The declaration that news is a weapon is foreign to American thinking; it is a weapon only of totalitarian countries. Dictatorships and communist countries immediately take control of and eliminate the free press. The people are allowed to hear only the government "speaking in one voice."

Despots are used to such things and accept them for what they are. The American people are dependent upon reliable news. They have, until now, accepted the administration's releases at face value.

We acknowledge that in times of peril or crisis, all news media must accept the responsibility of self restraint in matters of security. In wartime, censorship is reluctantly accepted in the national interest.

But this is a long way from using news as a weapon, of attempting to manage releases so the nation will seem "speaking in one voice." On few issues do we speak in one voice.

Is Sylvester inferring that if he hadn't so cleverly managed the news, the results of the Cuban strategy would be different? We hope he doesn't believe this. It is too tenuous a rope to hang our foreign policy upon.

We hope the result of his boastful statement, however, will be a re-evaluation of news policy by the administration and a return to the democratic right of the people to know what their government is doing.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

Some 800 years after her death, the solicitude of an Englishwoman for the poor continues to have its effects.

To this day, as a result of her remarkable bequest, a supply of six pounds of flour is given to each adult and three pounds to each child in two small Hampshire villages.

Her husband, the story goes, who had little compassion for the poor, was impatient when she asked, shortly before her death in the 12th century, that he give something to the poor every year in her memory.

Setting fire to a branch, he told her he would donate the produce from as much land as she could crawl around while the branch burned.

Despite her weakened condition, she is said to have crawled around twenty-three acres before the flame died out. Touched by her love for others, her husband kept his word.

Let your own generosity for God's poor match the spirit, if not the manner of this good woman's bequest.

"Deep waters cannot quench love, nor floods sweep it away."
(Canticle of Canticles 8:7)

Make my every prayer, word and deed, O merciful Father, be a reflection of Your universal compassion.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By AL BOCK

Early Dark Hours Could Be Used To Prepare Us For Space Travel

Since daylight saving time ended a month later this year in California, we have been plunged into darkness more abruptly than usual, and this results in mixed feelings toward things in general.

Of course, it depends on which end of the day you prefer to dwell whether you have the impression of enveloping night in late afternoon or unexpected sunshine at 7 a.m.

If you're like Robert Benchley and sorely resent being jolted too early in the day, you probably are more concerned with the decline of day into night.

DAWN AS SEEN from our hideout in the Fairfax hills is a pretty grand event, somewhat Wagnerian with Mount Tamalpais, the Bay and a bit of Richmond all thrown in for good measure.

This is all well, but it somehow doesn't command the respect that a long night does.

First, there's real comfort in the realization that nightfall at the early hour of 6 p.m. marks the beginning, all at once, of winter. It brings an end to the uneven time of year when you know it's not summer and yet ragged edges of the day linger as though it should be summer.

GETTING INTO the heart of winter with no fooling around about it is reassuring. But at the same time, so much darkness so soon brings a disconcerting finality—as though we went out with the light.

Any uncertainty seems best put aside by surrendering to the night and crawling into a corner with a cozy Victorian novel. Even better, it would seem ideal to settle down for a long winter's nap.

This is a scheme which I understand is being closely studied by scientists. They seem to have the idea that man will be better off in a science fiction future if he imitates bears and other hibernating beasts.

THEIR PREMISE is that we face many long nights in the years ahead while waiting for our space ship to arrive at some distant planet.

The long trip might even result in our finding fault with our fellow passengers and proceed to tiresome carping and end in sulking. We might even come to blows.

If instead we could climb aboard the space ship and promptly go to sleep, these dreadful hours would cease to threaten us. After all, long rides on the train or bus were bad enough.

But this would be cheating, it seems to me. Maybe dangerous. What if Columbus and Sir Francis Drake had decided the trip to a New World would be pretty monotonous so they may as well sleep through it.

WHY GO INTO outer space at all if we don't especially care to see where we're going? Besides, we might miss a chance to get some first-rate color slides to bring back and show the family at Christmas.

I may welcome darkness and Oberon and all that. But I would just as soon stay awake as long as possible and try to find out what's going on, even if the light isn't too good.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

GOP Plans Pep Rally, Democrats Big Parade To Wind Up Campaign

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

Republicans are going to kick up their heels tomorrow night in a gala pep rally in Bermuda Palms and the Democrats plan a day-long "all candidates" parade throughout the county Saturday in their big campaign windups. Both are perfecting telephone and personal contact programs in the precincts to get out the vote next Tuesday.

Tomorrow night's affair is designed for Republican precinct workers and will feature humorous skits by local GOP clubs, a mock political convention (so I'm told) and a featured speech by Joe Martin, Jr., of San Francisco, state national committeeman. (If the party goes the way it's being planned, he'd better be funny.)

Edwin W. Thomas of San Rafael is chairman of the rally, scheduled to start at 8 p.m., assisted by William D. Keeler of Mill Valley as program director. Henry B. Grandin, Jr., of Ross is master of ceremonies.

The Democratic parade and motor caravan will start Saturday morning in Marin City and wend its way through the county, winding up in Novato in the late afternoon or early evening.

Sponsored by the Democratic County Central Committee and the Council of Democratic Clubs, the parade will move from shopping center to super market to street corner in an effort to whip up interest in the election, encourage Democratic supporters and get out the vote. Mrs. Elaine Guthrie is general chairman.

On Saturday, too, the Republicans plan an auto caravan for Congress candidate Don Clausen. It will start in Sausalito and go all the way to Eureka for a big rally there.

YOU MAY RECALL some weeks ago we reported about an internal fight in the Democratic Party over division of the Brown dinner revenues.

Seems Governor Brown's campaign was only scheduled to get 30 per cent of the proceeds but he wanted 50 per cent. The dinner didn't make as much money as hoped anyway, so other candidates were worried they wouldn't get much money for their campaigns.

Thought you'd like to know how it came out.

Some Solomon must have worked out the details. Governor Brown took 30 per cent and the other candidates got their proportionate share. Then the Democratic headquarters advanced to the Brown campaign the difference between what he got and what he would have gotten if he'd gotten 50 per cent. The Brown Committee in Marin agreed to raise and repay to the headquarters the about $800 which was advanced to the governor.

Everybody happy?

A POLITICAL DEBATE, or rather three of them, is (or are) scheduled Monday at San Rafael High School. The Young Democrats (of high school years) and the Teen Aged Republicans will pit debaters against each other at assembly hours, we're told. The issue will be Edmund G. Brown vs. Richard M. Nixon. If you want to hear some hot political debating, you might drop by.

THE PROBLEM of financing political campaigns has always been a stickler. Therefore we're interested when a large concern starts and sticks to a program which involves its employees.

We've just received the report of Aerojet-General Corp. of Azusa and Sacramento, which in 1960 started a voluntary employee contribution plan to political action. This year more than 73 per cent of the 33,000 employees participated and the average contribution was nearly $4 each. The total was more than $95,000.

This compares with Aerojet's $3.20 average contribution for a $60,000 total from 25,000 employees in 1960.

The contributions were "substantially evenly divided" between Brown and Nixon and between Sen. Thomas Kuchel and his opponent, State Senator Richard Richards. Hundreds of other candidates also benefit, the company said, even $14.85 going to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona getting $139.72.

CONTROLLER Alan Cranston stops briefly in San Rafael tomorrow at a 5 to 7 p.m. buffet in the Democratic headquarters. He is making a two-day, 30-county swing just before the election. Members of his committee here, Democratic clubs, county central committee and Cranston worshipers are welcome.

20 YEARS AGO

Patriotic Marin citizens were told they should dry their used coffee grounds, reroast, and use double quantity to get desired strength in second brewings.

Don't Abandon Bay Master Plan

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The enclosed copy of my letter addressed to the Marin County Supervisors is self-explanatory. As you can see, it was caused by your alert reporting, for which I wish to thank you.

Board of Supervisors
San Rafael

I am very much perturbed by an article in the Independent-Journal of Oct. 24. This news item indicates that you are about to "get rid of the Richardson Bay Master Plan."

If I get my facts right, I must express my surprise that the Board of Supervisors —a body representing a majority of the voters of Marin County—are ready for an action which is indistinguishable from complete capitulation. I venture to doubt, whether this capitulation is really in the interest of the voter, and furthermore, whether it should be done at all.

As one of the reasons for abandoning the master plan, we are offered the very obvious fact that some developers, able to pay for good legal advice and willing to run certain risks, have for some time been acting in defiance of existing zoning laws and related regulations. Neither this reason, nor the additional difficulty of not having an organized canal assessment district to negotiate with, should prompt the supervisors to abandon the existing master plan.

Mr. Allen's reported statement, " . . . Rescind the master plan so the tideland owners will know how they can go ahead . . ." is only another way of describing the complete anarchy resulting from such action.

Apart from doubts regarding the legal aspects of "abandoning" the master plan, I respectfully urged the board not to void this plan as a whole or in parts without at the same time—in fact, with the same motion—replacing it by an amended version.

In this connection I urge the board to keep in mind, that the bulkhead line of the existing master plan is based on careful considerations, of flood problems. Redrawing this line must not create a situation which will predictably involve the general public in substantial costs for locks, pumping stations, etc.

Water levels, sewer gradients and floods are physical facts; they are also engineering problems and like all such problems, they can be solved in a rational way.

However, such problems are not amenable to administrative decisions. The tides, having shown their disregard for King Canute's command, are unlikely to show more respect for the Board of Supervisors of Marin County.

Why Smoking In Library?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Being something of a newcomer in Mill Valley I have hesitated to criticize the operation of the Public Library, which I sometimes visit. However, enough is enough.

This evening it was quite apparent that insufficient ashtrays are provided for teenaged smokers. For instance, only two trays on one table, whereas at least four would have been a minimum requirement.

Ashtrays are inexpensive items; surely, Mill Valley should be able to meet the demand here, especially for 13, 14, 15-year-old types who could not reasonably be expected to bring their own. Or am I being unreasonable?

Possibly, of course, I'm just out-of-date. You see, over the years, in the course of visiting well over 100 public libraries throughout these United States, your correspondent has acquired what might be called a conditioned reflex. He doesn't even think about smoking in a library, because in any he has ever previously visited, such a move would induce an instant Out-OUT-OUT! reaction on the part of the librarians.

As would the high-beam conversations which so often annoys visitors of the old-fogey type, down here, or over here, in Mill Valley.

Probably all the result of—how do they call it?—fallout, maybe.

THE CYNIC'S CORNER By Interlandi

"When they interupt a program for a 'special news bulletin' like that—I mean, who needs bombs? They're killing us with indigestion!"

WALTER LIPPMANN

President Knew How Far To Go So Neither Big Power Is Loser

WASHINGTON — The outcome of these anxious days shows that the President has used military force boldly and successfully to achieve a specific and limited objective.

Cuba is to be disarmed and neutralized as a strategic base in the Western hemisphere. There has been no appeasement and there has been no retreat or surrender. At the same time the President has obtained his objective without total blockade, bombing, or invasion.

This was possible because he sought a negotiated settlement which did not call for and does not mean an unconditional surrender. The crux of the settlement is the dismantling under UN supervision of the strategical weapons in return for the President's promise that Cuba will not be blockaded or invaded.

THIS RESULT could not have been achieved at all without readiness to use the military power of the United States, which in the Caribbean is overwhelming. But the results could not have been achieved simply and peaceably if the President had made his objective, not the dismantling of the bases but, unconditional surrender — that is to say, the dismantling of Castro's Communist regime.

To be sure, the United States is quite capable of invading Cuba and destroying the Castro regime. But it is not capable of doing this without serious losses (the current estimate has been 40,000 casualties) and not without unmeasurable conflicts with the Soviet Union and with our allies and friends all over the world.

LIKE A GOOD general, the President has known what to go for and where to stop.

The world will be impressed with Kennedy resolution. It wil lalso be impressed by his wisdom.

As in all good settlements, neither party is a loser and both are the gainers. President Kennedy has freed the United States and the Western hemisphere from a serious danger—that there would be established in our midst, and within reach of a desperate and somewhat demented Castro, sufficient nuclear power to strike a terrible blow without warning.

Chairman Khrushchev has freed himself of a dangerous entanglement in an area where the vital interests of the Soviet Union are not involved.

WE ARE NOT, of course, at the end of the Cuban problem. But Castro and his Cubans now know that they do not have the military backing of the Soviet Union, and that while they will not be blockaded or invaded by the United States, they will still be watched carefully and no adventures in Latin America will be permitted.

Castro will have to consider whether he can long survive with the economic support of only the Communist bloc, and how, if he can't, he can work his way back into the community of American states.

That is for the future.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You Ask For Whom The Bell Tolls? It Tolls For East's Bridge Hand

When you look at a hand in a bridge column, you have the advantage of knowing that somebody is supposed to do something bright.

If you were playing the same hand at the table, you might think it was a routine hand and therefore miss the point.

Nobody rang a bell to wake East up when today's nand was played, and he eventually discovered that the bell had tolled for him.

Opening lead — ♠ K

West opened the king of spades, and South shrewdly played a low spade from dummy.

He feared a six-card spade suit in the West hand and saw no sense in playing the ace of spades from dummy and forcing East to ruff.

DELIGHTED

East was delighted to see his partner's king of spades hold the first trick. He discarded the deuce of diamonds and waited for the next move.

Unfortunately, East had already missed his chance.

West could see that a spade continuation would do no good. The only chance was to cash the ace of clubs in the hope that East had the king.

But West could get only one club trick.

NO MATTER

No matter how West continued, South was sure to get in to draw a round of trumps and then ruff his losers in dummy.

If West hadn't taken the ace of clubs South would have discarded both clubs from dummy on high diamonds, and then declarer would have made an extra trick.

As it was, South made game and rubber.

It's easy to see what East should have done. He should ruff the first spade trick and return a club.

Then the defenders get two club tricks and West takes the setting trick with one of his trumps.

Fontez, Lauterwasser Battle For Tax-Treasurer Job

Candidates Both Strong In Primary

STANLEY J. FONTEZ

Two victors in a four-candidate June primary contest will battle to a finish in Tuesday's vote for county tax collector-treasurer, sole countywide fight in the general election.

They are Stanley J. Fontez, 41, now on leave from his job of senior accountant in the office of county auditor-controller, and Russ Lauterwasser, 55, who is a former Larkspur city councilman, city treasurer and city clerk-tax collector-assessor.

Fontez, first to announce his candidacy last December, polled top vote of 15,295 in the primary. Lauterwasser announced second and ran a strong primary second with 13,275 votes. The other two candidates, Lucien D. Miller and Gordon Weld Strawbridge, between them drew a total of 14,414 votes.

Both Fontez and Lauterwasser have stressed their years of public service, each pointing to his own record as embodying special qualifications for the post to be vacated by retirement of M. F. Donohue.

Fontez has been able to claim direct acquaintance with the work of the treasurer's office through his service with the auditor. He has Donohue's support.

Lauterwasser attributes Donohue's support for Fontez to the incumbent's desire that his successor follow his own investment policy.

Fontez declares in rebuttal that he has no commitment to follow Donohue policies. He offers a three-point program which, if elected, he says he will implement:

1. Create more revolving bank accounts, paying by check rather than by warrant to obtain automatic reconciliation, with savings estimated at $2,000 yearly in clerical time.

2. Create an abstract of the unsecured tax roll, placing all delinquent taxes of a given individual on a single sheet of paper to avoid record search.

3. Install cash registers with paper tape to eliminate key punching of collections, estimated to save $4,000 yearly.

Lauterwasser, a contractor and developer, claims that his years of public service "have been honest, conscientious and efficient" and says he has proved his ability and will to achieve results in every job undertaken.

"I had many years of experience in handling other people's money, both as treasurer and in the investment business," Lauterwasser says "and deeply recognize the confidence required in this trust. I have always operated my office on a basis of economy resulting in savings to the taxpayers. I have been successful in all fields of business in which I have engaged."

RUSS LAUTERWASSER

Born in San Francisco and educated in schools there, Lauterwasser has lived in Marin County since 1924. He was elected Larkspur city councilman in 1937 but quit three years later when appointed city treasurer-budget director.

Thrice elected treasurer, he served 14 years until appointment as fulltime city clerk-tax collector-assessor in 1954. He resigned in 1957 to become a subdivider and developer.

Lauterwasser was for several years chairman of the governing board of the San Francisco Mining Exchange. He has been a director of several corporations, was chairman of the Republican County Central Committee in 1950, and was on the committee in 1940 and 1959.

He tried for a State Assembly seat in 1950.

With his wife, the former Grace Monaghan, and a daughter he lives at 111 Ridgeview Road, Larkspur.

Fontez also was born in San Francisco but came to Marin County when only six years old and has lived here since that time. He took accounting and political Science at San Francisco State College after attending Fairfax elementary and Tamalpais High School, then served four years in the army, winding up as first lieutenant after South Pacific and Far East duty.

His work record includes service with the Marin Municipal Water District and at San Quentin Prison. Fontez has been a licensed real estate salesman and a public accountant. He has elementary and secondary teaching credentials and has taught accounting, finance and tax matters for 14 years.

Fontez installed an accounting system for the Marin County Employees Retirement Fund and is technical adviser to the fund. He designed and installed major accounting systems used by the auditor's office. He has been certified in programming of electronic computers and systems.

With his wife, Florence, and three children, Fontez lives at 501 Heather Way, Terra Linda.

Dealer Expanding Facilities For Those Little Volkswagens

Leon C. Felton Co., Volkswagen dealer on Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, is in the process of expansion. New service facilities are being constructed two blocks away at Hoag and Mills streets.

The entire facility of 40,500 square feet includes a new building of 11,000 square feet to house the parts department, service space (with nine hoists and 17 working stalls) and offices. A new car salesman will be on hand at all times. Completion is expected in about a month by contractor Ron Antonioli. Lots of parking will be available.

Following completion, present quarters at Francisco and Harbor will be remodeled and devoted exclusively to new and used car sales, with more room to display them to advantage.

LARKSPUR floral director Katherine Eubanks will hold her seventh annual "Holiday Preview" Sunday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The all day open house will feature a wide display of Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday arrangements. A special with continuous showings is a new color film on Christmas arrangements — "Holiday with Flowers."

A. CLYDE JONES, president, and E. Douglas Roberts, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, attended the State Builders Exchange in Sacramento last week where Jones was elected to the executive committee. Roberts was previously on the committee as managers council representative.

Marin Builders Exchange will hold its annual dinner dance at the Meadow Club in Fairfax on Saturday, Nov. 10.

MILL VALLEY MEN in business: B. Albert Malone, branch office manager in San Francisco for RCA Communications, Inc., during the past seven years, has been appointed administrator of radiomarine sales for the Pacific Coast. . . G. Paul Leal of the sales force at Marin Bay has been awarded a Certificate of Real Estate as a result of studies at University of California's Extension Division.

"THE REASON FOR the recent stock market decline was simply that prices were too high and had to come down sooner or later," Charles F. Eaton Jr. told members of brokerage houses and security dealers today at a meeting held in the Bohemian Club, San Francisco.

Eaton, head of Eaton and Howard, trustees of two large mutual funds, is sometimes known as the "dean of the mutual fund industry."

He said inflation is still with us but is tapering off, adding that "deflation is. . . difficult to bring about, one of the reasons being that we have gotten a little used to inflation."

He noted that the recent Wharton report on the mutual fund business has amounted to giving the funds a clean bill of health and has had little detrimental effect on investor confidence, with fewer people turning in shares for cash than they did a year ago.

Eaton said California leads all other states in the purchase of mutual fund shares.

Discussion Due On Relocation In Marin City

Rights of Marin City residents with regard to relocation by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency will be explained at a meeting of the agency commission at 2 p.m. Monday in the Marin City Community Lounge.

Mrs. Florence Conland, relocation advisor of the Urban Renewal Administration in San Francisco, will answer questions and explain residents' rights.

"This issue has been raised frequently in the past several months," said executive director Bert Klahn.

The redevelopment agency will meet immediately following the Marin County Housing Authority, which meets at 1:30 p.m.

Sales of electricity in the United States are increasing by about 10 per cent each year.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cooler Weather Means Trouble For Circulatory Disorder Victims

VAN DELLEN

Cooler weather means trouble for the millions of people who have circulatory disorders. Victims of Raynaud's disease, for example, will develop the same degree of coldness of the hands and feet that occurs in normal individuals at freezing temperatures.

They have a poorly understood, inherited disturbance that makes the blood vessels in the extremities overreact to cooling. A slight chill causes the small arterioles at the ends of the fingers and toes to clamp down in a state of spasm. The skin over the digits becomes numb, cold, and blue or white in color. Shaking or rubbing the hands or feet does not help.

RELIEF COMES ONLY on getting warm. Heat relieves spasm and when blood surges into the affected parts, the skin turns red and may burn and tingle for some time thereafter. The feeling is comparable to taking a hot bath or shower immediately after being out of doors in sub-zero weather.

The nervous system controls the blood vessels and blanching of the fingers often is linked with anger or other emotional outbursts. This means Raynaud's syndrome can be brought on in the susceptible by periods of anxiety or frustration as well as by exposure to cold. This is an important consideration when considering treatment and also explains why those with this disease are not cured simply by moving to a warm climate.

VICTIMS OF POLIO, neuritis, frostbite, and trench foot also develop symptoms similar to Raynaud's disease. In these instances, the small blood vessels and nerves have been damaged and are hypersensitive to cold, as a rule, this type of circulatory trouble is more annoying than serious. The tissues suffer from a deficiency of blood in a small percentage of Raynaud's sufferers, leading to painful ulcers at the end of the fingers. Gangrene of an entire finger rarely if ever occurs.

Most individuals with this condition remain comfortable by wearing warm clothes, including gloves and wool hose, and avoiding overexposure to extreme cold. The removal of certain nerves (sympathectomy) in the back helps some, whereas others need psychiatric care. Drugs that relax the victim and his blood vessels usually are recommended.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

INHERITED DEAFNESS

D. K. writes: A mother and her two children wear hearing aids The father and husband has perfect hearing. Will the grandchildren develop this bony growth that causes deafness?

REPLY

There is a greater chance that these grandchildren will develop otosclerosis than if there were no family history of the disease.

SALT AND BLOOD PRESSURE

J. D. writes: Can a woman use salt on her food after medicine has brought her blood pressure down to 150?

REPLY

It is not advisable, especially if the medicine decreases the blood pressure by encouraging the kidneys to eliminate sodium.

LUNG SPOTS

R.Y. writes: If a calcified area is found in one lung of a man in his twenties, could this spot remain inactive through his lifetime?

REPLY

Yes. These lesions represent healed infections and contain calcium instead of scar tissue.

AGING EYES

A.N. writes: Is there a drug or treatment to retard aging of the eyes?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge.

Today's Health Hint—Anger, frustration or gloom will wear out the strongest man.

Marin Peace Officers To Nominate

The Marin Peace Officers Assn. will nominate officers at a business meeting at Hamilton Air Force Base Nov. 28.

The meeting will begin with dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the officers club, said Sgt. David L. McIntosh of Corte Madera police, program chairman. A quartet from the air base will entertain.

Officers will be nominated to succeed Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, president; sheriff's Deputy Robert Scheiner, first vice president; McIntosh, second vice president, and Sgt. Lincoln Borba of San Rafael police, secretary-treasurer.

Election will be on a date to be set in December, and installation in late January.

Two Boys Picked Up For Car Theft

Two Sausalito boys, 15 and 14, were placed in juvenile hall on auto theft charges after being caught in stolen cars Tuesday night near Christ Episcopal Church at 61 Santa Rosa Avenue, Sausalito.

The two were apprehended by reserve officer Herbert Smith after George Kowski and William Winkler, employees of the Sausalito Pharmacy, identified one car owned by Richard Less, also a pharmacy employee.

Less reported at 9 p.m. yesterday his 1962 Triumph TR-3 roadster had been taken from the city parking lot near the plaza. The other car, a 1962 Austin-Healey Sprite owned by Leon Sivertson of 1240 Morningson Drive, Mill Valley, was reported taken from in front of Sivertson's home.

Ohio production of farm products has increased about 35 or 40 per cent in the last 20 years.

Warrant Issued For Divorcee

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for Carole J. Anderson, a San Rafael divorcee, when she failed to appear for trial in San Francisco Municipal Court on charges of disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Anderson, whose last address was 175 Nova Albion Way, was arrested Sept. 5 at the Gold Street Club in North Beach, where she had been employed as a cocktail waitress, demanded final wages and refused to leave until paid.

Her trial was first set for Oct. 17, but was put over to yesterday due to conflicts in the court calendar. When she failed to appear, Judge Clayton Horn ordered bail forfeited and ordered Mrs. Anderson's arrest.

Tomales School Tuition Raised

Tuition for seventh and eighth grade students from Bloomfield who attend Tomales Bay School was raised Tuesday night by the Tomales Bay District trustees.

The Bloomfield district will be required to pay $250 per student in the future, according to Mrs. Lois Parks, clerk of the Tomales Board. The present tuition is $205, she said.

The Bloomfield School has only six grades and sends seventh and eighth grade students to Tomales Bay School. This affects only five or six students per year, Mrs. Parks said.

Tough Glass

NEW YORK (UPI) — Experimental glass cups which have been dropped 100 feet onto a quarter-inch steel plate and have bounced, undamaged, have been produced by the research laboratories of the Corning Glass Works here.

"Saay, the I-J's got more new features than me!"

Quite a family the Independent-Journal has adopted in the past twelve months—eleven lively new features.

Some to bring you more information, some for education, some for entertainment—all for better editorial service. An average of one new feature every 4 to 5 weeks!

Why so many? A matter of policy, based on editorial responsibility to the community. Yes, and a little pride. Marin is growing. As the journal of the entire county, it is our feeling that a newspaper must lead, not lag.

All the ink and paper in the world won't do it. It takes a feeling for the community . . . that comes only from living closely to your tastes, working closely to your needs. Our job then, is not only in reporting the news, locally and nationally, but in helping interpret events . . . helping to bring you new views, new ideas, new brighter facets of "the right to know."

To these eleven features, add one we keep constantly in the making—new and better ways to serve you.

Novato's Baget Enters Hospital

Novato City Administrator J. Julien Baget yesterday entered the Veterans Administration Hospital in San Francisco for treatment of a blocked nerve.

Baget missed last night's meeting of the city council. "This is only the second time in seven years as city administrator that I have ever missed a council meeting," he said.

He has been off work since Thursday last week with trouble in his back. He said doctors have diagnosed it as a blocked nerve to the leg. He expects to be in the hospital about a week.

Meeting For Retired

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS OR BIDS VENETIA HARBOR SEWERAGE PROJECT

Pursuant to the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913, and the resolution directing this notice adopted on October 16, 1962, by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, said Board invites sealed proposals or bids for the construction of a sewage pump station, force main, manholes, interconnecting pipe, removal of existing pumps and chlorination equipment, and dismantling of above-ground structures of existing treatment facilities as more particularly described in Resolution of Intention No. 7365B adopted by said Board on October 16, 1962, which resolutions are on file in the office of the County Clerk and to which reference is hereby expressly made for a more particular description of the work to be done.

All of said work is to be done at the places and in the particular locations, of the forms, sizes and dimensions and of the materials, and to the lines and grades and at the elevations as shown and delineated upon the plans, profiles and specifications made therefor and preliminarily approved by said Board on October 16, 1962.

Payments will be made in cash by said County to the contractor in accordance with the provisions of the specifications and on itemized estimates duly certified and approved by the Engineer of Work submitted in accordance therewith, based on labor and materials incorporated into said work during the preceding month by the contractor.

Notice is hereby given that on October 16, 1962, the Board adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages to be paid to the various craftsmen and laborers required to construct said improvements, a copy of which wage scale is contained in and made a part of the specifications for said work, to which reference is hereby made for further particulars.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a cashier's or certified check payable to the order of the County, amounting to ten per cent (10%) of the bid, or by a bond in said amount and payable to said County signed by the bidder and a corporate surety, or by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions. Said check shall be forfeited or said bond shall become payable to said County in case the bidder depositing the same does not, within 15 days after written notice that the contract has been awarded to him, enter into a contract with the County.

Contractor shall furnish to County a faithful performance bond and labor and material bond as required in said specifications.

Said sealed proposals shall be delivered to the County Clerk of said County on or before 4:00 o'clock P.M. of the 20th day of November, 1962, Board of Supervisors Room, Court House, San Rafael, California, said time being at least fourteen days from the time of publication of this notice. Bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared on said day and hour.

A copy of the plans and specifications may be obtained from J. Warren Nute, 411 Fourth Street, San Rafael, California, upon deposit therefor of $15.00, $5.00 of which will be refunded if said plans and specifications are returned within ten days.

British Week Is Coming To San Francisco

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, will headline a gala "hands across the tea" celebration of London Week in San Francisco, Nov. 12 through 17.

Besides a peep at the handsome prince consort, visitors to the city also will have a chance to make free phone calls to London, sip ale in two authentic British pubs, ride on a red double-decker London omnibus, and inspect displays of British goods in numerous downtown shops.

FORMAL BANQUET

Prince Philip will attend the formal banquet of the English-Speaking Union (of which he is Commonwealth president) at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel on Nov. 14. He also is scheduled to take part in the organization's plenary sessions the following day at Hotel Mark Hopkins. Both affairs are open to ESU members and invited guests.

Of interest to Marin County is the Drake luncheon at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel on Thursday, commemorating the visit of the great English navigator to California's coast in 1579. Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz will preside. British Ambassador Sir Davis Ormsby-Gore will be present.

DAILY FEATURE

A daily feature will be a British exhibition in the St. Francis Hotel, with free cups of tea, brewed British-style. It is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and there will be daily drawings for six free phone calls to London. The St. Francis Hotel also will convert two of its rooms to "The Brittania Pub" and the "White Horse Cellar," with authentic ale and atmosphere.

The omnibus tickets are obtainable during London Week at the British Overseas Airways Office, 237 Post Street, for free rides about town.

Marin Redwoods Impress Visitors

FOREIGN EDITORS

The giant redwoods of Marin County were among the most impressive sights seen on a three-week tour of the United States, it was agreed by 13 top foreign editors who left the Bay Area on Tuesday.

"They were truly awe-inspiring," said Dr. Sandro Salvadori of Rome's "Il Tempo," after a visit to Muir Woods. "One could hardly believe there are such magnificent trees."

Dr. Salvadori and his colleagues, representing millions of readers from Melbourne and Tokyo to London and Hamburg, were guests of the Redwood Empire Assn. on a Sunday tour of the redwoods, capped by a late luncheon at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Fine weather plus a sailboat regatta helped contribute to the visitors' impression. They were the first journalists to be brought here by the U.S. Travel Service, as part of a "Visit America" program to acquaint more foreign travelers with foreign travelers with American attractions.

The Golden Gate Bridge was voted the most spectacular span seen on the nation-wide tour. Gaetan Fouquet of "Connaissance du Monde" in Paris was among those who photographed it thoroughly during the tour, conducted by Stuart Nixon, REA publicity director.

The editors spent part of the next day touring San Francisco, lunching at Fisherman's Wharf and taking an hour's boat ride down the bay and around Alcatraz, before leaving to the various destinations.

Los Angeles surrounds the independent cities of San Fernando, Culver City and Beverly Hills.

Atomic Energy Investment $213.7 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission's investment in plant and equipment in California totaled 213.7 million dollars July 1.

Projects under construction have a total remaining cost of 149.5 million dollars, including 114 million for the Stanford University linear accelerator.

The summary of plant investment was included in the annual financial report on nonsecret operations. Information on weapons and production inventories are excluded from the report for security reasons.

Most of the AEC California investments is in the Lawrence Radiation laboratory of the University of California.

Bartholomew Columbus, brother of Christopher, founded the first organized community in the New World on Aug. 6, 1496, in what is now the Dominican Republic. He named it Santo Domingo.

Relocation Of Shoreline Highway At Bolinas Is On Planning Agenda

A policy discussion on relocation of the Shoreline Highway along the Bolinas Lagoon is scheduled for the end of next Monday's session of the Marin County Planning Commission at 1711 Grand Avenue.

Both harbor and wildlife conservation aspects of the lagoon have recently been declared reason for special consideration of the state's plans for highway realignment in this area.

Also put at the end of the day's agenda are two reconsiderations, of the Mount Tiburon subdivision projected by Irving Moulin and others, and of the Sirvain development plans which are to be gone over again before final action by county supervisors.

Eichler Homes has applied for an adjustment to permit setbacks of less than the prescribed 25 feet for 58 one-family homes in Lucas Valley. This will be 21st item on the agenda.

Continued items coming at the start of the agenda from 9 a.m. comprise almost all the items affecting other than single-family applications.

First on the list is a continued hearing on a proposed amendment to the Marinwood Master Plan, designed to delete the elementary school site now projected for the intersection of Las Gallinas Avenue and the Lucas Valley Road and to redesignate the site for other uses.

The second item is Bowman Pollock's application for use permit for a 20-unit apartment house on Olema Road, a quarter mile west of Fairfax. First hearing has already been conducted.

A third continued item is the P. J. Tarrang application on plans for a 10-unit apartment addition to the Tarrang Building in North San Rafael. It will be followed by hearing on a use permit asked by Mary Lowell for instruction of 10 children daily in arts and crafts at Lyford's Hygeia, Vistazo East Street west of Matschek Drive, Tiburon.

Persons enrolled in college and professional schools at the beginning of the last school year numbered 3,731,000, an increase of about 850,000 over six years ago.

HOSPITAL ADOPTING NEW PLAN

Ross General Will Inaugurate Progressive Car

On Dec. 1 Ross General Hospital will adopt a new concept in nursing for its patients.

It is known as "progressive care" and will place patients according to the need for nursing. It will be the first use of such a program in Marin County.

At present various wards will have patients with varying needs for care. Under the new program, intensive care patients, those who are acutely ill or who need special nursing, will be in the second level of the west wing of the hospital.

Patients needing the average amount of care, about five to six nursing hours per patient per day, will be placed in the intermediate area to be located in the center of the second level.

Patients who have recovered enough to care for themselves will be in the self care area on the newly remodeled third floor.

A hospital committee was appointed last summer to study the proposal. The committee also requested comments from doctors on the plan.

The committee listed several advantages expected from the program:

"The patients who need special treatment and careful observation will all be where facilities and staff are readily available.

"The convalescing patient will be away from the atmosphere of acute illness and will be encouraged to care for himself in preparation for discharge."

The hospital recently has added a social service department under direction of Mrs. Janet H. Stump. She will help patients and their families arrange for home nursing care, find rest homes, learn of welfare or other financial assistance that might be available, and offer family counseling.
